HOOVERS GREET EASTER CROWD; RITES PLANNED

Thousands of Visitors, in Capital for Holiday, Are Welcomed.

PRESIDENT AND WIFE TO LEAD OBSERVANCE

To Attend Arlington Sunrise Service; Hotels Are Well Filled.

Easter heralded its advent here yesterday in a manner ranging from the quiet religious observance of Good Friday to the tumultuous influx of countless thousands, a few of whom won a pre-Easter greeting from President Hoover.

Shattering a long-standing precedent, the President and Mrs. Hoover threw open the White House gates to admit visitors to the south grounds daily from 12:30 to 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon during the vacation season.

A crowd of some 300 sightseers had strolled onto the rolling lawn when the First Couple came out on the portico and waved to the visitors.

"Glad to see you all here," President Hoover declared.

Hoovers to Lead Observance.

They will lead the city in an exceptionally widespread observance of Easter by attendance at sunrise services to be conducted by Knights Templars of the District in Arlington Cemetery and at the simple services of their faith later in the morning at the Friends Meeting House, Thirteenth and Irving streets northwest.

A more optimistic prediction for a clear day came from the Weather Bureau with its expectation of tomorrow being "generally fair," although it declined to hazard a guess on temperatures and the chances of Easter finery outdoors. Rain scheduled for today was expected to bring slightly colder weather, definitely curbing all hopes for the usual seasonal spectacles of the cherry blossoms on this occasion.

With yesterday a perfect day, the mercury hovering around the 70-degree mark in midafternoon, a seemingly endless stream of automobiles brought thousands upon thousands of visitors to add to the crowds pouring in here by train, and even plane. Transportation companies reported a lively business throughout the day. The thoroughfares were choked downtown and around the many points of interest, with pedestrians and motorists viewing Washington Monument, Lincoln Memorial, the White House, the Capitol and other sites.

100,000 Visitors Expected.

Appearance of a crowd of such sweeping proportions, taxing hotels and lodging houses to capacity, led to belief that fully 100,000 persons or more will spend tomorrow here.

Churches of virtually every faith planned special services tomorrow to mark the occasion, with the Masonic observance in Arlington Cemetery at 7:30 o'clock in the morning arranged as the most elaborate Easter service in the Washington area. Open to the public, the amphitheater and its adjacent landscape is expected to attract a monster crowd.

With an array of notables present, the event will take the form of a solemn memorial service honoring the cemetery's dead. The Columbia System will broadcast the program over a Nation-wide hookup.

Fifteen minutes before the starting time, Knights Templar in full regalia and the Marine Band will head a procession into the amphitheater, where the sermon on the occasion will be delivered by the Rev. Dr. ZeBarney Phillips, a member of the order, rector of the Episcopal Church of the Epiphany and chaplain of the Senate.

SMOKE OF FLAMES SHOWING OVER WRECKED MANAGUA

Fire completed the damage wrought by the earthquake in Managua. Above is an aerial view showing smoke rising over the stricken city and fire-gutted buildings in the foreground. The death list is expected to exceed 2,000, with property damage so high it is doubted if the capital city will ever be rebuilt.

Managua, Nicaragua, April 3 (A.P.).—The task of directing the feeding and rehabilitation of Managua's 40,000 residents, made homeless by Tuesday's disastrous earthquake, was taken over today by Ernest J. Swift, Red Cross official, after his arrival by airplane from Miami.

The Red Cross official's first step after reaching Campo de Martemarine and American headquarters, where Matthew E. Hanna, United States Minister, is housing his legation in the shelter of tents, was to confer with Mr. Hanna and then make an inspection trip through the devastated city.

Later Mr. Swift conferred with Marine and Medical Corps officers and others to decide what immediate steps should be taken.

Groups Gather in Corinto.

Meanwhile other naval relief groups congregated at Corinto, where a number of wives and children of the United States Marines were taken by airplane today. Thence they will be returned to their homes in the United States.

Naval ships brought food and medical supplies to Corinto from Balboa, Panama Canal Zone. These will be brought to stricken Managua by airplanes, trucks and trains. Since the railroad is not open all the way to the capital, trucks will meet the trains with relief supplies at the end of its line, several miles from the city.

The Medical Corps, which sorely needed aid for a while, is carrying on its work efficiently, although doctors and their assistants are exhausted from long hours of nerve-wracking work.

West Virginian Praised.

Leading the work of the medical detachments, Lieut. Comdr. W. B. Hatfield, of West Virginia, has shown unfailing energy throughout the disaster. His leadership has been an important feature of the rescue work.

The iron hand of martial law to prevent looting in the destroyed city resulted last night in the shooting of four plunderers by the National Guard. This is unofficially reported to have made a total of approximately 20 looters shot to death, although Marine officers have not confirmed this statement.

One of the commodities of food most needed is milk for the babies. Although Ma ines had a large store of condensed milk on hand it was insufficient for the wants of thousands.

Now that the first tenseness of the disaster is over, the Americans are discussing some of the lighter phases of the quake. One woman complained that she had been unable to get rescuers to remove a cooking stove from her home.

Many Parrots Rescued.

Many families succeeded in rescuing their parrots. Old-time residents say these birds are dearest to the hearts of Nicaraguans. Baths are luxuries, the only place where running water baths are available being the Marine Barracks Air Station. In order to conserve the water supply, bathers are required to use buckets and rinse with a shower.

Already there are packs of dogs roving the streets and patrols have been sent out with pistols under orders to shoot all they can find. Another patrol was sent to bury the animals. Several cases of rabies have been reported and no chances are being taken for human infection because medical supplies for treating the disease would be inadequate should it break out in the native

LEO BROTHERS CONVICTED OF LINGLE DEATH

LEO BROTHERS

Jury Assesses Penalty for Reporter's Murder at 14 Years.

VERDICT IS CALLED COMPROMISE VOTE

Agreement After 27 Hours Is Surprise; New Trial Will Be Sought.

Chicago, April 3 (A.P.).—Leo V. Brothers, of St. Louis, was convicted today of assassinating Alfred (Jake) Lingle, and the jury fixed the punishment at fourteen years in prison.

After 27 hours of stormy debate sleepless twelve men came in to give Brothers, young St. Louis hoodlum, the lightest penalty under Illinois law for murder.

In this manner half of the question, "Who killed Jake Lingle—and why?" was answered to calm, for the time being, months of widespread conjecture since the Chicago Tribune gangland reporter was assassinated.

New Trial Sought.

A motion for a new trial was made at once by disappointed attorneys for the defense, who called the verdict a compromise. They will argue the point April 17 against a prosecution "satisfied that the verdict was just."

The end came with dramatic suddenness. Since 2:24 p. m. Thursday the jury had been locked up. There had been no definite word of what was going on inside. Judge Joseph Sabath, beginning to despair of a verdict, had decided to call in the jurors and see what prospects were.

Suddenly, at 5:20 p. m., the sounds of argument ceased, the jury sent out word it had come to an agreement, the lawyers were summoned, Brothers brought in and the verdict read.

Text of Verdict.

"We, the jury, find the defendant, Leo V. Brothers, otherwise known as Leo V. Bader, otherwise known as Buster, guilty of the murder of Alfred J. Lingle, and we fix his punishment at 14 years imprisonment," intoned the clerk.

There were a few gasps in the courtroom. Brothers, leaning on the witness stand, paled a trifle and then said to a bailiff, "Let's duck." The first big gang murder case to reach a Chicago jury was over.

The killing of Lingle, as he strolled through the pedestrian tunnel under busy Michigan boulevard, last June 9, was one of the most spectacular the city ever had known, and it aroused a public clamor that still is heard in the drive against Chicago's "public enemies."

Single Shot Killed Lingle.

A single shot, fired into the back of the reporter's head, killed him instantly. The slayer and those who are believed to have accompanied him, escaped in the confusion of the crowded subway. The trial itself was unusual, more for its omissions than for its revelations. The expected evidence of the inner workings of Chicago gangdom did not materialize.

The State did not try to prove a motive, or to prove that Brothers had any connection with gangdom in this or any other city. Brothers did not take the stand and he did not attempt to prove an alibi.

The case consisted of eight witnesses for the State and seven for the defense, who said they were in or near the tunnel when Lingle was killed. The State witnesses, one of whom said he saw the slayer drop the pistol, identified Brothers. The

U. S. FINISHES QUIZ INTO GAS CONTROL HERE

Justice Department May Inform Utilities Body Next Week.

The Department of Justice has completed its inquiry into the ownership of the Washington Gas Light Co. and the Georgetown Gas Co. and will submit its report to the Public Utilities Commission early next week, it was learned authoritatively yesterday.

While the strictest secrecy has been maintained during the investigation, which has extended to Boston, New York and Chicago, it is understood that sufficient data will be submitted to enable the commission to institute court proceedings under the La Follette antimerger act.

Whether the suit will accomplish more than the previous case, begun when the Seaboard Investment Trust was formed to assume ownership of the local gas companies, is conjectural. The chief evidence sought has been that this ownership has been transferred to the Central Public Service Corporation, of Chicago.

The Department of Justice has been at work on the inquiry since March 14. Following a trip to Boston and New York, Assistant Corporation Counsel William A. Roberts turned over his findings to the department, as well as to the commission, to aid in the investigation.

It is expected that the commission will ask advice of its counsel, Corporation Counsel William W. Bride, upon receipt of the report, and will act accordingly. As Mr. Bride is in a hospital taking a rest cure, action may be delayed for a few weeks more.

EARLY ARREST SEEN FOR KILLER OF WIFE

Albert Baker Fails to Quit Hiding Place; Believed to Be in Capital.

The arrest of Albert C. Baker for the slaying of his wife is imminent, police said last night.

Detective Sergt. George Darnell stated that he hoped to have the man, who Thursday night shot and killed his wife, Mrs. May Baker, 40 years old, in the presence of three of their four children at their home, on O street northwest near Eighth, in police custody within a short time. Darnell believes Baker is in hiding in the city.

However, police have notified authorities of Richmond, Va., and of Spotsylvania County, Va., where Baker has relatives, to be on the lookout for him.

Police were informed by Robert I. Miller, an attorney, of 508 D street northwest, that Baker was coming there to give himself up, and yesterday they stationed members of the homicide squad to watch for his appearance, but were disappointed.

Mr. Miller said two men called at his home about 7 o'clock yesterday morning and, after telling him about the shooting, promised to bring Baker to his office at 11 o'clock. Mr. Miller said that he believed that the fugitive did not know that his wife was dead when the two men arrived at the lawyer's home, and that he might have changed his mind after learning of her death in the morning papers.

It was learned from Mrs. Mattie Thompson, sister of Mrs. Baker, at whose home the couple's eldest child, Edris, 15 years old, has been staying for the past two months, that the funeral of Mrs. Baker will be held Monday afternoon from the funeral parlors of Nichols' undertaking establishment, 4209 Ninth street northwest. Interment will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Relatives have not yet formulated plans for caring for the other three children, who are at the receiving home. They are Victor, 12 years old; Albert, jr., 10, and Jackie, 8.

The shooting occurred in the kitchen of the two-room flat in which Baker and the three boys had been living since his wife left him about a month ago. Although Mrs. Baker was said to have been living on

Raskob to Back Party Choices, Wet or Dry

Replying to Alabama Query, He Promises Support to 1932 Nominees, But Urges That Clear-cut Stand on Prohibition Be Taken.

Centerville, Md., April 3 (A.P.).—John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, today assured Southern Democrats favoring prohibition of his support of the party's nominees in 1932, regardless of the stand taken on prohibition in the Democratic platform.

Mr. Raskob, before leaving New York this afternoon for a week-end at his home, replied to a telegram received from the Prattsville (Ala.) Progress. The telegram follows:

"Will you support the next Democratic national nominees if they are for prohibition and the national platform is for prohibition? Thousands of loyal prohibition Democrats wish to know this."

Mr. Raskob answered:

"Certainly I will support our nominees, but I strongly feel that we should all insist that our platform clearly and honestly define party position on prohibition and resist any dodging of the issue through silence or through adopting any innocuous plank such as law enforcement.

"The people whose suffrage we are soliciting should not be deceived and are entitled to know the party position. Of course, as you know, I strongly urge and advocate that our national platform support the view that after twelve years of practical experience with the greatest serial experiment ever undertaken by the civilized world this question should be decided, not by our representatives, but the people themselves. The simplest manner of giving the people this opportunity is for Congress to vote favorably on a resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to be submitted to the respective States for approval or rejection, not by the Legislatures, but by the people themselves in each respective State in constitutional conventions especially called for that purpose.

"The home rule plan fully respects this honest conviction of both the wet and dry elements in our party and country and should receive most careful, thorough and conscientious consideration by all."

Accused Attacker Arrested in Dover

Lester Beach to Be Taken to Leesburg to Face Girl's Charges.

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., April 3.—Lester Beach, 28, white, widely hunted for an alleged criminal attack upon a 13-year-old Pleasant Valley school girl, was arrested last night by authorities in Dover, Del., and will be brought to Leesburg today by Loudoun County authorities.

Sheriff E. S. Adrian was notified yesterday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff B. B. Hutchison that Beach was staying with friends in Dover, whereupon authorities were notified and Beach was arrested at the place indicated.

According to Sheriff Adrian, Beach admitted his identity. It is alleged that the attack on the young girl, Virgie Dolvy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Dolvy, the former a farmer living near Arcola, took place in a thicket as she was on her way to her home in Arcola from school. Beach is a married man and has a wife and child living near Arcola.

TEACHERS TO NAME GOOD-WILL WINNERS

Students Chosen Required to Be Prompt at Flag Tests Next Saturday.

Winners in the contest for a good-will trip to Europe being sponsored in the high schools of the city by the United States Flag Association, with the cooperation of The Washington Post, will be notified of their success by their teachers, officials of the Flag Association said yesterday. The teachers at the various schools are marking the papers, it was pointed out, and they will be the sole judges in the selection of one boy and one girl to represent each school in the preliminary test Saturday, April 11.

Several boys and girls have automatically disbarred themselves from further participation in the contest by sending their essays direct to the headquarters of the United States Flag Association instead of handing them in to their teachers, as they were instructed to do both on the application blank and through the columns of The Post. Flag officials pointed out that in all instances the name of the school was omitted, so that the essays could not be returned to the proper school for judging.

The United States Flag Association and The Washington Post have nothing to do with the judging of these essays. A committee of prominent citizens will be named to make the awards at the preliminary test next Saturday and a jury of selection, headed by United States Commission-

Federal Right to Rule Water Power Upheld

Commission Forcefully Denies Appalachian Co.'s Request to Construct Huge Hydro-Electric Plant on New River.

(United Press.)

The Federal Government's power and right to regulate strictly the water-power development of the Nation was forcefully asserted by the United States Power Commission yesterday.

The commission unanimously denied the Appalachian Power Co.'s request for a "minor part" license—waiving strict governmental regulation—to build a huge hydroelectric plant on the New River near Radford, Va.

The New River case, pending for six years, has been regarded as the key to future administration of power problems by the Federal Government. Much of the discussion of the "power issue" has centered around it and the Clarion River case from Pennsylvania. The latter, now in the lower Federal courts, involves the right of the commission to restrict capital costs of building a plant, which are ultimately charged up to the paying consumer.

The New River ruling—the new commission's first decision—is a victory for the advocates of strict regulation, one of whom, Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania, filed a brief in this case against the company. On the other hand, official representatives of five States, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, West Virginia and Arkansas, joined in the case to support the degree of States' rights represented by the company's argument.

The ruling was that the company can take a standard form Federal license, submitting to the commission's regulation, including overseeing of all items entered as capital cost, or else not build its great electric project.

Power experts estimate 75 per cent of the Nation's water power resources east of the Rockies are affected by this case as a precedent, there being many rivers with potential power but not actually carrying commerce. The New River, the commission found, has a vital effect on the flow of the Ohio and Kanawha, which are used for navigation. Possibly a billion dollars' worth of power sites come under this category, it is reported.

It is possible that the company may take the commission's decision to the Federal courts for a final ruling on the legal questions and the commission's jurisdiction. Indeed, the commission definitely refused to decide one argued question—whether the New River is a "navigable" river, holding that was up to the courts to decide.

The decision was based on the contention "that the interests of interestate or foreign commerce would be affected by such proposed construction."

The old Federal Power Commission in 1927 made a similar finding in this case, but refused to act on the application, holding that the question of navigability of the river must be decided. If navigable, the commission under the act had juricdiction, otherwise it was a State matter. Attorney General Mitchell ruled it was not navigable.

The company came before the new commission in February and asked

Captain Directed to Report On Charge Against Norfolk

Rear Admiral Burrage Takes Action After City Asks Facts.

Norfolk, Va., April 3 (A.P.).—Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, commandant of the Norfolk Naval District, said tonight he had directed Capt. L. B. Brinser, of the battleship Mississippi, to confer with him tomorrow about a statement the captain made that he had been "warned of conditions existing in Norfolk adversely affecting the service of the Norfolk personnel."

The statement caused I. Walke Truxtun, city manager, to ask Admiral F. H. Brumby, commandant of the naval base, for the information that brought about Capt. Brinser's statement. Representative Menalcus Lankford conferred with Mr. Truxtun before the request was made.

Capt. Brinser said that men in his command would serve sentences

Pay Roll Robbers' Auto Discovered

The get-away car used by the three bandits who robbed Peoples Drug Co. employes of a $6,500 pay roll Wednesday was found parked near the Union Station by police yesterday.

Following the discovery of the automobile, still bearing the fraudulently obtained license tags, police authorities expressed the opinion that the men left the city by train.

No evidence which might lead to the identification of the criminals was found in the car, Detective Matthew Chymiko, of the Sixth Precinct, who is detailed at the station, discovered the car.

Vivian Duncan Mother, Despite Death Warning

Paris, April 3 (A.P.).—Vivian Duncan, American actress, who says she was told by three American specialists that childbirth would be fatal to her, has come to Paris with a baby daughter born the night of March 20 at Wurzburg, Bavaria.

She has named the child Evelyn Rosetta Duncan Asther, and her husband and its father, Nils Asther, who played opposite Greta Garbo, is expected here shortly from America to have first look at it. Miss Duncan was well enough when she reached Paris to go out and find an apartment for herself and the youngster the first day.

Hero of Bus Tragedy, 13, To Be White House Guest

Impressed by Courage of Boy, President Invites Him to Capital.

(Associated Press.)

Bryan Untiedt, 13-year-old hero of the recent Colorado blizzard in which five children perished, will be a guest of President and Mrs. Hoover at the White House in about two weeks.

Tremendously impressed by the story of the boy's heroic efforts to save the lives of his schoolmates snowbound in a bus, the Chief Executive has asked him to spend a night at the White House.

Mr. Hoover was convinced by accounts of the boy's actions that he would have no trouble making the trip to the Capital alone. Hospital authorities at Lamar, Colo., where Bryan is recuperating, said he would be able to leave in two weeks and that the boy's mother has given permission for him to make the visit.

Calvin Coolidge Says:

Tomorrow will be Easter Sunday. In every quarter of the globe it will be observed in memory of a risen Saviour. So far-reaching has been this event, so wide has become the realm of Christendom, that it would be difficult to find anywhere on earth a human being whose life has not been modified to some degree by the influence of the Christian religion.

Outside the teaching of religion there is no answer to the problems of life. Our international and social relations can not be solved by material forces. Armament, wages, profits are not mere questions of quantity. They are questions of quality. Changing and fixing their amount will afford no final solution. What is needed is a change of mind, a change of attitude toward the use of these material things and toward each other. The real problems of the world are not material but spiritual.

Easter teaches us the reality of the things that are unseen and the power of the spirit. A risen Saviour established a new faith in the world that showed the reason and authority of service and sacrifice.

defense witnesses, two of whom said they saw the actual shooting, testified Brothers was not the man.

Instructions to Jury.

Judge Joseph Sabath presided over the trial and instructed the jury that the State need not prove motive and that the defendant's not taking the stand should create no implication of guilt.

Brothers, 32 years old, well dressed and quiet, charged that the case was a "frame up," and his attorneys implied that a sinister influence was back of the prosecution.

C. Wayland Brooks, assistant State's attorney, had qualified the jury for the death penalty, but he did not refer to it directly in his closing argument. "This cowardly, vicious murder," he said, "deserves the most severe penalty." He had previously asserted, however, that if Brothers did not actually fire the shot himself he was with the man who did.

WITNESSES ABSOLVE SCHWAB OF CHARGES

Steel Head Had No Voice in Ship Contracts, Court Told at Trial.

Philadelphia, April 3 (A.P.).—The Government pressed on today with its suit in Federal court against the Bethlehem Steel Corporation by hearing further evidence concerning ship contracts made during the World War.

The Government seeks the return of $11,000,000, contending this sum represents excess profits made by the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and three subsidiary companies in the building of vessels for the Merchant Marine during the war.

Started Six Years Ago.

The action was begun six years ago. The defendant corporations have filed a countersuit for $9,905,793, which they say the Government owes them on the work.

J. W. Powell, former vice president and operating head of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Co., testified today that Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, who was director general of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, had no connection with the awarding of contracts by the Emergency Fleet Corporation for ship building.

Ralph D. Evans, counsel for the corporation, questioned Powell concerning Schwab's connection with the contracts. "Charles N. Piez, vice president, had all the contracts arranged before Mr. Schwab took office as director general," Mr. Powell said.

Charges Against Schwab.

The Government contends that Mr. Schwab used his official position to force competitor companies to take only a 10 per cent profit, while he permitted his own companies to make much more under what was known at the time as the "half-cost" plan. Mr. Powell declared there was "absolutely no possibility that Mr. Schwab could have shown favoritism."

Joseph J. Brown, Philadelphia, special counsel for the Government, told Mr. Evans that it might not be necessary for Mr. Schwab to appear as a witness since the Government would accept as sufficient Schwab's testimony given at a hearing two years ago. Mr. Powell presented a review of negotiations leading to the placing of the ship contracts and gave data and reasons for the prices asked for ships by the Bethlehem concerns. Today was the fourth held before William Clark Mason, day of the hearing, which is being as special master.

Alexandria Woman Hurt In Basin Road Car Crash

Mrs. R. E. Keys, of Alexandria, Va., received a contusion of the left eye and an abrasion on the left knee yesterday when the automobile in which she was a passenger collided with a taxicab on the Tidal Basin road in Potomac Park. John W. Tubbs, 23, of G street northeast, was said by police to be driver of the taxi.

Mrs. Keys was taken to Emergency Hospital, where she received treatment and was later allowed to return to her home. Her son, Jerome W. Keys, 20, also of Alexandria, was driver of the automobile in which she was riding. He was not injured, although his car was badly damaged.

FEDERAL RIGHT OVER WATER POWER UPHELD

for issuance of a liberal "minor part" license, and for rescinding of the previous ruling that interests of foreign or interstate commerce would be affected. The commission yesterday rejected both these requests.

Power experts see this ruling as the precedent to a policy built upon it, which will set up a governmental system to keep tab on rates, construction and the public interest in the electric industry, much as the Interstate Commerce Commission now checks every railroad charge and most of the companies' financing.

The full text of the ruling disclosed that Commissioner Frank R. McNinch, regarded as the most liberal member from the consumer's standpoint, proposed that the commission rule definitely that the New River is "navigable," and thereby upholds the commission's jurisdiction. Commissioner Claude L. Draper supported him, but the other three, holding that this issue should be left to the courts prevailed.

"The majority of the commission," it was stated, "is of the opinion that the suggestion does not involve the question of the jurisdiction of this commission over New River, but merely the question of the grounds upon which such jurisdiction shall be predicated; and that the ultimate determination of what is 'navigable waters' under the Federal water power act, in any case, is one for the courts, and that any finding made by this commission as to what are navigable waters in law would not be binding upon the courts.

"It is the judgment of a majority of the commission, in view of the conflicting evidence and opinion as to New River being 'navigable waters within the definition of the act,' that our jurisdiction is more properly based upon section 23 of the act, applicable to streams of this character, where the authority of the commission is clearly defined."

The commission found unanimously that evidence shows the construction would "affect the interests of interstate and foreign commerce."

RED CROSS MAY AID DISTRESSED MINERS

(Associated Press.)

The American Red Cross yesterday considered requests for aid for distressed miners in West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee.

A plea for assistance for West Virginia miners was made to the organization by B. A. Scott, vice president of the State mine workers' union.

Meanwhile, President Hoover sent a telegram to W. M. Turnblazer, of Knoxville, Tenn., a United Mine Workers official, saying Chairman Payne, of the Red Cross, had promised "every effort will be made to eliminate the deplorable conditions" in Kentucky and Tennessee.

Rests on Communities.

James L. Feiser, Red Cross vice chairman, said it was not the function of the national organization to care for localized industrial distress conditions, but that this duty rested entirely with the Red Cross chapters in communities concerned.

Mr. Payne was not in Washington yesterday, but Mr. Fieser promised the West Virginian his plea would be laid before the national chairman today.

Word came from other sources during the day of distressed conditions in West Virginia and Kentucky.

Harry B. Dynes, of Indianapolis, a Labor Department conciliator, said he had found "a distressful condition" among coal miners in the eastern section of Kentucky. He came to Washington to report to Secretary Doak and confer with Red Cross officials.

Declares Conditions Bad.

Mr. Dynes said he did not wish to discuss the situation until after he had seen the Secretary, who was too busy yesterday for a conference.

He made a report, however, to the Red Cross. He and another conciliator studied conditions in the Harlan coal fields, particularly around Pineville.

Fred C. Croxton, district representative of the President's emergency employment committee, who had just returned from West Virginia, said he found conditions so bad they almost were unbelievable.

Thousands of miners and their families are "existing," he said, on funds supplied by counties, with most of them getting about $10 a month.

Can Not Obtain Loans.

"Children and grown-ups fare alike," said Mr. Croxton. "The standard food is corn meal, some flour, and beans. There is no meat and little if any green food.

"These people are not farmers and can not obtain Government loans.

"Many of them have not worked for months and others only a day or two each week.

"Red Cross chapters in the affected sections have little or no funds with which to grant aid. The result has been that in many sections the counties have been forced to feed the starving, and some of these either have run out of money or are about broke."

ALLIED ARCHITECTS TO PLAN HOSPITAL

Selection Is Announced by Navy Department; Will Cost $3,200,000.

Selection of the Allied Architects of Washington as architects for the new Naval Hospital and Medical Center to be constructed on E street and Constitution avenue, between Twenty-third and Twenty-fifth streets, was announced yesterday by the Navy Department.

The department appointed William T. Partridge consultant and architectural adviser. Authorized in an act approved February 25, the $3,200,000 project will form an essential part of the new War and Navy Department Buildings development.

The Public Building Commission has selected the adjacent territory between Eighteenth and Twenty-third streets as the site for the service buildings. Construction work will be under supervision of Rear Admiral A. L. Parsons, chief of the Bureau of Yards and Docks of the Navy Department.

The temporary war-time structures will be destroyed in the course of the program. The present Medical School Building and the original permanent hospital will be demolished.

Six hundred patients will be accommodated in the new structure and adequate facilities will be provided for carrying forward the research work of the Bureau of Surgery and Medicine of the Navy. Facilities will be furnished for the Naval Medical and Dental Schools.

"Daddy" Browning Gets License—Just to Fish!

New York, April 3 (A.P.).—City hall reporters hastily telephoned their offices to send photographers this afternoon when Edward W. (Daddy) Browning once more trod the familiar path to the city clerk's offices where marriage licenses are issued.

As he emerged there was a chorus of "Did you get a license?"

"Yes," replied Browning, smiling happily.

"Whom are you going to marry this time?"

"Why, nobody — I got a fishing license."

Brig. Gen. William S. McNair, of Tecumseh, Mich., was ordered to take the place on the court of inquiry, Fourth Corps Area, made vacant by the assignment of Brig. Gen. Harold B. Fiske, of Salem, Oreg., to command the Panama division.

CROWDS THRONG CITY FOR EASTER HOLIDAY

The service will also include prayers by the Rev. Dr. James Shera Montgomery, grand prelate of the Grand Commandery, Knights Templar, and chaplain of the House of Representatives; prayers by the Rev. Capt. Sydney Key Evans, chief of chaplains, U. S. N., and a reading of the lesson by the Rev. John C. Palmer, grand chaplain, Grand Lodge of Masons in the District. The Masonic Glee Club will sing.

Special street car and bus service has been announced to handle the crowds expected there. With announcement that no automobiles will be admitted to the cemetery, visitors have been invited to park their cars at Fort Myer.

Outdoor services announced for tomorrow are scheduled at 7:30 o'clock in the morning also at Temple Heights, where the Washington Federation of Churches has planned a pretentious observance, and at Walter Reed Hospital, where a tableau, "The Empty Tomb," will be presented.

Aside from the Arlington Cemetery and the Quaker services, the President and Mrs. Hoover have planned a quiet day with their three small grandchildren, 6-year-old Peggy Ann, 3-year-old Herbert Hoover 3d, and year-old Joan, before the gala egg-rolling celebration on the White House lawn Monday with thousands of youngsters expected for this annual event.

Cabinet members and their families for the most part will spend a comparatively quiet Easter. The Secretary of State and Mrs. Stimson are sojourning at their Long Island home. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon may be prevented by work from visiting his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. David Bruce, at their Long Island home.

The Secretary of Labor and Mrs. Doak are planning a quiet celebration at their home for their little grand niece, Mary Jane Cricher. Secretary of Agriculture Hyde is in Missouri on business, the Postmaster General and Mrs. Brown are resting at Hot Springs, Va. Other members of the Cabinet family are likewise making no unusual plans for the day.

Man Hurt in Auto Crash Improving

Police Release Driver and Companion in Michigan Avenue Wreck.

With a slight improvement noted at Emergency Hospital in the condition of Clifton R. Clark, 24 years old, of Irving street northwest, near Eleventh street, who was seriously injured when an automobile in which he was riding plunged over an embankment at First street and Michigan avenue northwest, police released the driver of the car and a companion, who had been held pending the outcome of Clark's injuries.

William P. Price, 20 years old, the driver, and Milton Hedlow, 45 years old, both of Kensington, Md., were those released. Price, according to police who investigated, fell asleep at the wheel of the machine.

The car was totally wrecked in the fall down the 20-foot incline. Clark's injuries are a fractured skull and possible internal hurts.

Harold Reiger, who lives in the caretaker's house at the First street gate at Michigan avenue, heard the crash and notified police.

PACT DELAY HINGES ON REPLACING SHIPS

French Would Lay Down Cruisers Before Old Craft Are Scrapped.

Paris, April 3 (A.P.).—Vagueness of the Franco-Italian-British naval accord regarding the scrapping of superannuated armored cruisers is the principal cause of the hitch which has developed in the completion of the final draft of the pact at London, was the official view expressed here today.

How far France can go toward providing for eventual replacement of her tonnage was not taken into consideration in the March 1 agreement, it was said, and this was reported to be the real difficulty.

The question was raised whether the proposal for replacing two cruisers of the Diderot type, to be scrapped before 1936, as provided in the agreement, will be a bar to placing other cruisers on the ways if these are not destined to be finished until after 1936.

The British are believed here to consider, with the French, that there would be no such bar, due to the three years needed to build a modern battleship, and it is believed that the British would not be opposed to allowing France to place another 23,000-tonner on the ways by 1934.

Rome, April 3 (A.P.).—Suspension of drafting the tripartite naval accord in London was said in official circles here today to be merely to enable the naval experts to consult their governments and smooth over the difficulties which two weeks ago threatened the party.

The Italians now are hopeful that French good will will facilitate settlement of any differences of opinion.

THREE-WAY TRAFFIC LIGHT TO BE PLACED

Button Signal Device Will Be Installed for Safety of Pedestrian.

Bids will be asked probably next week for erection of a demand traffic signal at the intersection of Wisconsin and Massachusetts avenues northwest, Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, Police Commissioner, said yesterday.

This intersection has long been a problem to the Traffic Bureau and has been the object of numerous complaints. Among those who have asked relief have been officials of the Washington Cathedral, who particularly desired protection for pupils of the Cathedral School for Boys.

The demand signal, it is believed, will solve the problem, as it will operate three ways instead of two ways and at the same time may be directed by a button to let pedestrians pass. Not only does the signal respond to the heaviest traffic, but it operates so that motorists may take a left turn without pulling to the side or interfering with traffic going in the opposite direction.

An experiment of the demand signal was tried recently at Connecticut avenue and Albemarle street, but the Traffic Bureau does not intend, for the present, to establish any of the new signals where lights are already in operation.

CABINET OF HOOVER TO CONTINUE INTACT

Rumors That Four Members Plan to Withdraw Are Declared Untrue.

Reports that several members of President Hoover's Cabinet are planning to resign are without foundation, it was stated on high authority yesterday.

The resignation rumors have carried the names of four men—Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, Attorney General Mitchell, and Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde.

The rumor that bobs up most frequently concerns Secretary Mellon. And yet, so his friends say, no rumor could be more baseless. The venerable Treasury head, it is said, is greatly devoted to his office, and the thought of quitting has never entered his mind.

Has Held Job Ten Years.

Mr. Mellon has now been Secretary of the Treasury for ten years, having served under three Presidents—Harding, Coolidge, and Hoover. One of the wealthiest men in the world, he has no desire to further fatten his fortune.

Aside from his affection for the office, there are two good reasons why Secretary Mellon would not want to leave, according to his friends. One is the precarious financial situation, and the other is the big Federal building program here.

Having enjoyed years when the Treasury boasted a vast surplus, Mr. Mellon now is ready to overcome the deficit. As for the Federal building program, this is something close to his heart, and he is eager to stay on the job until it is pushed toward completion.

Leave Extension Spikes Rumor.

The rumor-mongers also have been busy with regard to Secretary Wilbur. Just before he became a member of the Cabinet, Dr. Wilbur was president of Leland Stanford University. When he came here, the university trustees granted him a two-year leave of absence. The rumor that he was going to resign from the Cabinet first was heard as this two-year period drew to a close. The rumor was spiked, however, when the trustees extended his leave.

The gossip about Attorney General Mitchell leaving probably grows out of a story, be it true or untrue, that he agreed at the outset to remain a year, and then to accept a lucrative position in New York. Now he is in the thick of a trust-busting campaign that probably will keep him on the job for many a day.

The sponsors of the rumor that Secretary Hyde would leave are probably persons who have disagreed with his farm relief and drought relief policies.

Ship-Crash Victims Interred in Spain

Exact Death List Despaired Of, but Missing Total 40, Officials Report.

Malaga, Spain, April 3 (A.P.).—Burial of the immigrant victims of Wednesday night's collision of the French steamer Florida and the British aircraft carrier Glorious was begun here late today. The bodies, unidentified and in many cases horribly mangled, were lowered into unknown graves.

Local officials said they despaired of ever securing an exact list of the dead. Authorities continued to estimate the missing at about 40. Approximately 30 bodies have been recovered and it is believed that others may have fallen into the sea at the time of the collision.

London, April 3 (A.P.).—The admiralty announced tonight that one seaman had been killed in the collision between the aircraft carrier Glorious and the French steamer Florida Wednsday night.

Higher Tariff Trend Reported in Europe

(Associated Press.)

A trend toward higher tariff rates in European countries was reported yesterday to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States by H. C. MacLean, American representative of the International Chamber of Commerce at Paris. MacLean doubted the possibility of a general customs union among all European countries.

"It is only too obvious," he said, "that at this time of economic depression no sort of general agreement on tariff policy is possible and that each nation considers increased customs duties a natural weapon to employ in the defense of its own particular interests."

BILLIONS IN TRIBUTE PAID TO RACKETEERS

New York State Levies Alone Are Estimated Up to $18,000,000,000.

Albany, N. Y., April 3 (A.P.).—Racketeering, the New York State crime commission finds, is an "industry" with an annual turnover of $12,000,000,000 to $18,000,000,000.

The per capita payment to the muscle men "in the bucks" is a minimum of $96 a year for each of Uncle Sam's family of 125,000,000 and half again that much if the commission's maximum estimate is correct.

The report declared a study should be made of what corrective measures could be adopted that would halt racketeering in the State.

"One racket in New York State alone—that of fake securities—is known to total approximately $400,000,000 a year," the report said. "Large surety companies say that crimes against property alone total nearly $7,000,000,000 a year."

The commission quoted Federal Attorney Howard W. Anell, of New York, as saying that almost every business in New York City had paid in tribute to racketeers over a period of several years a total ranging from $200,000,000 to $600,000,000 annually.

"These figures are astounding and it is the public who pays them," the commission told the Legislature. "It would seem that corrective measures can be formulated to stop, in part at least, the 'racketeering' within the confines of the State, but the subject should be investigated, which can be done, so that necessary corrective steps can be taken intelligently."

NORFOLK ASKS NAVY FOR FACTS ON EVILS

rather than pay fines when they got in trouble ashore here. This, he indicated, was not in protest against the size of the fines, but in protest against conditions that led to them. Commander M. M. Witherspoons, chaplain aboard the Mississippi, appeared in police court and announced Capt. Brinser's policy at the trial of a sailor for transporting less than a quart of whisky.

Capt. Brinser's comments, published in a Norfolk paper caused a stir among city officials. The battleship captain criticized police methods that allow "advertisement of speakeasies." The Mississippi, he said, was flooded with cards from several places when it reached the navy yard on Monday. Capt. Brinser said conditions in various ports were known to navy men and that he had been "warned" of Norfolk conditions.

Also, in the course of his remarks, Capt. Brinser said he had been informed as to where he could get liquor within six hours after his ship tied up.

He criticized police methods that allowed "traps" to exist. A sailor, he pointed out, might take one of the cards distributed on the ship, think it a legitimate place, and go there to get caught in a raid.

Heretofore, it was explained, the Navy has broken up several places by "putting them out of bounds" and stationing provost guards there. The police, it was said, are powerless to do this except where there is evidence of law violation.

Norfolk police said only 35 sailors were arrested in March.

Representative Lankford and City Manager Truxtun were uncommunicative after their conference today, but Truxtun is understood to have issued the order for the uniformed policemen to stand by two of the places whose cards were found on the Mississippi. The cards were furnished by Admiral Brumby, who in turn received them from Capt. Brinser.

(Associated Press.)

Rear Admiral John Halligan, assistant chief of naval operations, said yesterday the present situation at Norfolk, Va., as it affects the welfare of naval personnel ashore, had not been called officially to the attention of the Navy Department.

Any discussion of the matter with city authorities at Norfolk, he said, was within the authority of Rear Admiral Burrage, commandent of the Norfolk Naval District.

Prosecution Undecided On Retrial of Pantages

Los Angeles, Calif., April 3 (A.P.).—District Attorney Buron Fitts said today a decision probably would be made early next week on whether Alexander Pantages, theater magnate, will be prosecuted a second time for a criminal attack on Eunice Pringle.

Pantages was granted a new trial yesterday by the State Supreme Court. Fitts said he had not received a copy of the court's decision.

2 FEDERAL AGENTS HELD IN BRIBE DRIVE

Former Officer Also Caught in Drug Net Spread at New York.

New York, April 3 (A.P.).—A Government net spread to catch narcotic bribers dipped up two Federal agents and a former agent today.

United States Attorney Medalie said the accused men tried vainly to induce a fellow narcotics agent, Arnold C. Lachenauer, to "fail" to identify a man charged with conspiracy to sell five pounds of opium.

The men are Richard Nash, Charles R. Keane and Philip A. De Stefano, the latter being the former agent. Mr. Medalie said he would seek to indict them for suborning perjury, conspiracy and attempted perjury.

Poses as Drug Buyer.

Last February Lachenauer, posing as a "drug buyer," entertained several narcotic racketeers in a midtown restaurant. One result was that Lachenauer accused Peter Ellinois of violation of the narcotics law, but Ellinois never was apprehended.

Mr. Medalie said Lachenauer recently recived an offer of a $1,000 bribe. He notified his superiors, a trap was set and the three men were arrested in a speakeasy after De Stefano allegedly had turned over $1,000 to Lachenauer.

Arraigned before a Federal commissioner, Nash was held in $10,000 bail, De Stefano in $12,500 and Keane in $2,500. Mr. Medalie said Keane was an aid rather than a principal in the alleged conspiracy.

$800,000 in Drugs Probed.

Harry J. Anslinger, of the Narcotic Bureau in Washington, arrived today to assist in investigating the source of more than $800,000 worth of opium seized yesterday in a little Greenwich Village express office.

Authorities, who believe it was a depot for the Nation-wide distribution of drugs, arrested Abraham Goodman, alleged proprietor of the place, and expect several other arrests. The opium apparently came from Turkey.

Goodman was held in $75,000 bail today on charges in connection with yesterday's seizure, and with the possession of 50 pounds of narcotics in 1928.

Mr. Nedalie in urging the heavy bail said it was necessary to keep Goodman in jail for his own protection. Goodman was unable to furnish the bail.

WIFE SLAYER FAILS TO QUIT HIDING PLACE

Twelfth street northwest near N street, she was in the habit of visiting her husband's apartment during his absence each day to care for the children.

The children said that their father returned unexpectedly Thursday and found their mother there. He pleaded that she return to him, they said, but she refused. Then, the boys said, the two quarreled and she went into the kitchen. The shooting followed.

Police did not find the weapon used by Baker. The boys expressed the belief that he has it with him and might end his life if trapped by police.

Baker, who is 45 years old, was described as being 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighing about 145 pounds. When last seen, he was wearing a dark suit, a brown overcoat and a brown felt hat.

CAPONE IS WINNER IN VAGRANCY TRIAL

Chicago Gangster Is Escorted Home by Police After Easy Triumph.

Chicago, April 3 (A.P.).—Al "Scarface" Capone, first by number and first by reputation among Chicago's 28 "public enemies," was freed in court today of charges that he was a vagrant.

The boss of Chicago's bootleg beer, whose name led the Chicago Crime Commission's list of gangsters most inimical to the city's welfare, defeated the vagrancy charge issued by Judge John H. Lyle in his short-lived crusade against crime.

His hearing required only five minutes.

Judge Frank M. Padden asked if the State had found a policeman who could testify of his own knowledge to Capone's lack of visible and legal means of support.

"I move the case against Capone be dismissed," Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne said. "We have no more witnesses we can call."

The gang leader grinned and departed without a word from him or his attorneys. Police escorted him to his haunt in a southern "twenty hundred" block.

Capone was served with the warrant during his recent trial for contempt of Federal court. He has appealed from a six months' jail sentence there.

Kentucky Indicts 2 in Financial Deal

Caldwell and Brown Face Charges for Merger of Banking Houses.

Louisville, Ky., April 3 (A.P.).—A State grand jury here today indicted Rogers Caldwell, Nashville, and James B. Brown, Louisville, once financial leaders in their respective States, and branded their deal for merger of the Bancokentucky Co., Louisville, and Caldwell's Nashville investment banking house, a "colossal fraud" and a contributing cause in last fall's bank crashes.

Caldwell, already under a series of indictments in his own State, was accused in today's action of placing a valution of $9,000,000 on one-half of Caldwell & Co.'s assets when the company was "hopelessly insolvent."

Brown, who was president of Bancokentucky Co., is now under Federal and State indictments charging misapplication and embezzlement of more than $2,000,000. Today's action substituted for the State indictment already returned and added the charge of conspiracy to embezzle.

BUS TRAGEDY HERO TO COME TO CAPITAL

stalled in the raging blizzard of March 26 the driver, Carl Miller, went for help. He left Bryan in charge after solemnly warning him of the danger to himself and the other children.

Miller never returned. He froze to death trying to find help.

Bryan made every effort to keep his companions amused and active. He started boxing matches and other forms of entertainment, but as night fell the penetrating cold pressed in. One of the first to freeze was Bryan's brother, Orlo.

When the bus was found, five of the children had frozen to death and the others, including Bryan, were suffering terrible agony. Bryan had done all he could. He had removed his own clothing and placed it on the others.

Lamar, Colo., April 3 (A.P.).—Propped up in bed at a hospital where he is recovering from exposure and freezing, the 13-year-old hero of the Towner, Colo., bus tragedy, Bryan Untiedt, tonight thrilled to the prospect of a visit with the President of the United States.

"Gee won't that be great!" he told a nurse after his mother, Mrs. H. A. Untiedt, had consented to his trip alone to Washington on the invitation of President Hoover.

Hospital attendants said it would be at least ten days before the boy could leave the hospital. Both arms and legs were badly frozen during his 36-hour vigil last Thursday and Friday in southeastern Colorado.

It was Bryan's father who first discovered the marooned bus.

"I'm all right, dad. I knew you'd get here. Take the other kids first. I can make it all right."

Bryan had been telling his schoolmates his father ought to be along any time.

"That certainly is mighty nice of President Hoover to invite me back to Washington," Bryan told his interviewers today at the hospital. "I never expected anything like this. I don't see why the rest of the kids can not go along, but I guess they can't take us all."

RED CROSS OFFICIAL REACHES QUAKE AREA

camp where there are thousands of refugees.

Today was one of the biggest days in the lives of the many children of American officers, enlisted men and civilians, who were carried by planes to Corinto to board the homeward bound Navy transport Chaumont.

Seven Planes Carry 200.

Four Marine planes and three Pan-American Airways planes transported some 200 persons to the seaport. The women and children faced the necessity of acquiring heavier clothes before reaching the Northern states because they could carry no baggage and wore clothing suitable only for the tropical climate.

Airmail is still being carried, but there are no stamps available, since the postoffice was wrecked. Postage is collected at the other end.

Ever since the quake cable offices have been crowded with messages to relatives in the United States. Navy radio operators erected an amateur set and made contact with points in the United States, the Navy station having been demolished.

Two Amateurs Aid Most.

Two amateurs, one in Chicago and the other in New York, have taken the bulk of these outgoing messages.

The native population was pleased by the fact that near the market place, where it is estimated that from 300 to 500 of the approximately 2,000 fatalities occurred, there are still standing three crucifixes amid the debris of wrecked houses. In another part of the city a statue of Simon Bolivar was overturned and the head broken from the body.

It was said this afternoon that a plane is on its way here from San Antonio, Tex., with medical supplies, but it is not known when it is due.

Veterans' Loans Near $375,000,000 Mark

(Associated Press.)

Veterans' Administrator Hines said yesterday that by the time checks have been mailed for this week the total paid out for veterans' loans will amount to approximately $375,000,000.

Coming from a conference with President Hoover, he said the bureau had in sight applications amounting to $820,000,000 and that he saw no reason for revising his previous estimate that the loan act would cost the Government $1,000,000,000. He said the peak of applications probably has been passed.

RAMBLERS TO CARRY ROCKNE AT FUNERAL

Six Players Chosen Active Pallbearers as Thousands Honor Former Coach.

South Bend, Ind., April 4 (A.P.).—The same strong arms which carried Notre Dame to unequalled glory on the gridiron during the past two years will bear Knute Rockne on his last journey tomorrow.

In keeping with the wishes of Notre Dame's and the Nation's immortal football coach, six of the players, who helped to give the Ramblers two national championships, were chosen today as active pallbearers for the impressive but simple funeral services.

They were Tom Conley, captain of the 1930 team; Tommy Yarr, captain-elect of the 1931 team, which faces the heartless task of carrying on without the great master; Frankie Carideo, the "Little Napoleon" of the Rockne raiders for the past three seasons; Marchmont Schwartz, who so often saved the day for Notre Dame on the field of battle; Marty Brill, a youth who came to Notre Dame as a "football failure," but who was forged by Rockne into one of the greatest of them all, and Larry Mullins, his line-crashing full back.

Mourners Visit Home.

Hundreds of mourners from all sections of the Nation streamed into the picturesque Rockne home in Sunny Mede, a South Bend residential section, today to pay tribute to the great viking.

Plans were completed today for the funeral. The cortege—a cavalcade of automobiles carrying Mrs. Rockne and family, Rockne's 72-year-old mother and his three sisters, officials of the university, and other relatives and close friends—will leave the Rockne home at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow for the Church of Sacred Heart on the campus of Notre Dame.

The choir will start the services by singing "Improperia Poipule Meus," after which the clergy will meet the body at the door of the church at 3 p. m., to give preliminary blessing, as the procession enters the church and proceeds to the altar.

Eulogy by Rev. C. L. O'Donnell.

The eulogy will be by the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, C. S. C., president of the university. At 3:45 the body will be blessed, and then taken to the Highland Cemetery on the outskirts of the city.

Sacred Heart Church, a Gothic style of architecture, will be decorated inside and out with black and white, as will other buildings on the campus. The football stadium also will be in mourning, the entrance from the top being draped with black and white.

Pilot Says Rockne Plane Fought Mist

Flier Who Flew Beside Big Ship Supports Ice Theory.

Kansas City, April 3 (A.P.).—An air mail pilot, who flew through the murk over the flint hills of Kansas Tuesday side by side with the big red transport that carried Knute Rockne and seven others to death, gave support today to the theory that ice forming on the wings of the Fokker monoplane may have caused the tragedy.

Paul E. Johnson, pilot for the National Air Transport, saw the Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc., liner maneuvering in an attempt to escape from the blinding clouds and mist a few minutes before it plunged to earth near Bazaar, Kans.

Ice was forming on Johnson's ship, weighting it down, and he said it must have been so with the other plane. Department of Commerce inspectors have expressed the opinion that the plane may have been wrecked when a piece of ice shattered a propeller of the right outboard motor and caused vibration which tore away the right wing.

DR. SIMON PREACHES PASSOVER SERMON

Hebrew Congregation Head Urges Fair Play to Aid Religious Unity.

With his theme the breaking down of religious prejudices and the promotion of good will between Jews and Christians, Dr. Abram Simon, of the Washington Hebrew Congregation, spoke on "The Passion Play and Fair Play" at the Eighth Street Temple last night.

The sermon, in part, follows:

We meet on this Friday of our feast of Passover, commemorative of our emancipation from Egyptian slavery. Of the beauty and joy of the holiday it is not necessary now to speak. We can not help recalling, however, the Passover of 1,900 years ago.

The Jews in the joyous anticipation of their feast of freedom recognize that their freedom is only a fiction, that Rome's mighty hand is laid upon their independence. A Roman governor by the name of Pilate is ruling the Roman province of Judea. The longing for a Messiah is at fever point. Some one must free them from the yoke. Messiahs were numerous 2,000 years ago. All were certain that they were able to perform this redemptive task. At this very period a Messiah announced himself in Samaria, and announced to the people that on Mount Gerizzim he would display the sacred vessels of Moses.

Pilate Attacks Crowd.

The Samaritans marched to the mountain. Pilate, with horse and foot soldiers interrupted the march, slew a great part of the multitude and dispersed the rest. Some were taken prisoners and put to death by the order of Pilate. The Samaritans sent a delegation to Vitellius of Syria and he ordered Pilate back to Rome to answer charges of cruelty.

This is the same Pilate, procuratur, who came to Jerusalem to quell the incipient revolt. This is the same Pilate of whom St. Luke in the thirteenth chapter writes "there were present at that season some that told him of the Galileans whose blood Pilate had mingled with their sacrifices." This is the same Pilate who in John, chapter xix, verse 15, asks "shall I crucify your king?" It is the same Pilate who says "knowest thou not that I have power to crucify and have power to release thee?"

Cries of the King of the Jews who came to redeem Israel from Rome swept the sacred city, when Pilate asked Jesus "Art thou the King of the Jews?" The reply was "thou sayest it." This is the basis upon which the entire story, of the crucifixion rests. A cruel Pilate, a people longing for a Messiah and Redeemer, a Hebrew prophet announced as king in apparent revolt against Emperor Tiberius.

Washing of Hands.

It is the same Pilate, then, who in irony or imitation, performs a Jewish custom of washing his hands in innocence, and hands Jesus to a rabble for death. The same people who welcomed Jesus with loud hosannas and the waving of palms is now thirsting for blood. It is incredible.

Is it possible to believe that the Sandhedrin which had lost its power, when Rome took over the jurisdiction of Palestine, could hold a trial for capital punishment? Is it probable that a defunct Sandhedrin which never knew of crucifixion as a method of punishment in Israel could sanctify the nailing of Jesus on the Cross?

Is it probable that such a supreme court of justice forgot this tradition that a court which condemned a man to death in 7 or 50 years was called cruel? Is it probable that such a supreme court whose law insisted that a trial for capital punishment must allow one day for prosecution and one day for defense, could rush through a trial in a few hours? Is it conceivable that such a trial could be held on Passover night? Could such a trial have taken place in the house of a high priest? Or that such a trial with a high priest as judge and jury could not have permitted Jesus to have counsel? Is it at all probable for a trial to have been held without witnesses?

Trial Called Lynching.

Mark, in chapter xiv, verse 55, tells us distinctly that the high priest, Caiphas, "failed to secure even false witnesses." The whole trial reads rather like a lynching, and I wonder if some of our good people in the United States today have not retained some of that lynching psychology.

The entire story, tragic as it is to an extreme, leaves much to be desired for accuracy and legal truthfulness.

One can not avoid the conclusion that it was all written long after the important details had been forgotten. One gains the impression that it was written with the evident purpose of fastening the blame for the crucifixion upon the people of Israel. One gains the impression that the young church, eager to win over the Romans as converts, absolved them from responsibility.

One gains the impression that the entire story, based upon a new theology of the saving grace of Christ, must prove that the Jewish rejection of Jesus meant the rejection of the Jews by Almighty God and that the pronouncement of a curse by the Almighty God of Love upon those whom his prophets called the chosen people was the inevitable punishment. And thus the new dispensation was steeped in anti-Jewishness. Is it any wonder that 1,900 years of our painful history has felt the ignominy of that crucifixion? Is it any wonder that the crucifixion of Jesus resulted in the crucifixion of Israel?

Anxious to Forget.

We are living today in the twentieth century of enlightenment and growing culture. I do not know how many non-Jews have repudiated the story of the crucifixion. I only know that there is not a Jew who is not anxious to forget the tragedy of all the past centuries.

The question that we put to ourselves is: Whatever be the truth as to the actuality of, and responsibility for, the crucifixion, why should the Christian children of the twentieth century be fed on that which is likely to create hostility toward Jewish children?

Why should the Jewish children of the twentieth century carry the blame for that unforgettable tragedy? If the nineteen centuries of hatred thus far must continue, then hell at its worst is much to be preferred. An average Christian child can not take his eyes from the bleeding figure of Jesus on the cross without resting them in resentment upon the Jewish child of today. Seeing blood does not create pity any more—it creates bad blood. Watching the Passion Play does not create compassion, but incites passion.

What then is the important question that I put to myself? Has the time not come for a critical review of the New Testament story? Has the time not come, not so much for an appreciation of Israel's contribution to the world, but rather for a movement of kindlier consideration toward our people? Has the time not come for an appreciation of the equality of all religions before God? It is only on the basis of the parity of religions that we can reach a sympathetic understanding among the worshipers thereof.

I ask, then, for fair play, founded on justice. Did the Jews deny Jesus? How many non-Jews today deny him? Who holds the Christian people today responsible or who attempts to wreck any vengeance against them for the tortures of the Huguenots and the martyrdom of Savonorolla, Tuss, Wycliffe, or the burning of the witches of Salem?

Railroad to Spend Millions in 1931

Pennsylvania Is Planning General Improvements on Huge Scale.

(Associated Press.)

The Pennsylvania Railroad has informed the Interstate Commerce Commission that it intends to spend "well over $100,000,000" for additions and betterments to its properties and those of subsidiary companies in the current year.

The 1931 expenditures proposed are a part of a general improvement plan of the road estimated to involve expenditure of over $175,000,000 covering a period of approximately 2½ years. In connection with this program the commission has just authorized issuance of $50,000,000 of general mortgage 4½ per cent gold bonds.

The program includes electrification of the lines between New York and Washington, the completion of a new station at Philadelphia, extensive improvements at Trenton, N. J., erection of a new passenger station at Newark, building of a new bridge over the Passaic River and extensive improvements at Baltimore, including removal of numerous grade crossings and building of new tunnels there.

COAL WEIGHT, PRICE TO BE INVESTIGATED

Use of 2,000-Pound Ton and Alleged Fixing of Cost Stir Commission.

The investigation which the District Commissioners ordered yesterday into the change in unit measure of coal sold in the Capital will also go into the question of whether Washington coal dealers are attempting to fix prices and are operating as an unlawful combination to restrain trade.

George M. Roberts, superintendent of weights, measures and markets, said yesterday that he would make an exhaustive inquiry into all phases of the matter with the assistance of the corporation counsel's office.

One of the first objects of the inquiry will be to ascertain the promoters of the 2,000-pound unit and to find out why they should advertise as "The Coal Dealers of Washington" without signing the names of their companies.

Can Insist on 2,240 Pounds.

Under the interpretation of the District weights and measures law given by Mr. Roberts, a consumer who orders a ton of coal has a right to insist upon being furnished 2,240 pounds. Section 8 of the act, adopted in 1921, states: "Coal shall be sold by the long ton, consisting of 2,240 pounds avoirdupois."

Numerous complaints have reached Mr. Roberts from householders, who contend they ordered a ton of coal, expected to receive 2,240 pounds, and received the short ton. The difference in price, they claimed, was not commensurate with the difference in weight.

The Commissioners' action yesterday followed the receipt of a memorandum from the superintendent of weights and measures, who cited the law governing the weight of coal and the newspaper advertisement relating to the measurement change.

Figures on the corresponding drop in prices on various grades of coal, as quoted for publication yesterday afternoon by the Better Business Bureau, were last night declared inaccurate by Louis Rothschild, director of the bureau. He stated that another check was being made and that a correct table of comparative prices would be available today.

Smtih Ouster Suit To Open NextWeek

Unique Case Will Be Filed in District Supreme Court, Is Plan.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate's unprecedented court contest with President Hoover to remove Chairman Smith, of the Power Commission, probably will get under way next week.

Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, leader of the movement to out Smith, announced yesterday he would confer with counsel in the case next Friday and that the suit would be filed shortly thereafter.

Senate counsel are John W. Davis, of New York, Democratic candidate for President in 1924, and former Gov. Alexander J. Groesbeck of Michigan. Former Senator Pepper, of Pennsylvania, will represent Smith and the Justice Department has served notice its attorneys will defend his case vigorously.

The prominence of the counsel was expected to result in a brilliant court contest over the unique constitutional question involved — whether the Senate can reconsider a nomination after the appointee has taken office. The Senate suit will be filed in the District of Columbia Supreme Court and it is generally conceded the final decision will not be reached until the case has been carried to the United States Supreme Court.

Judge's Action Censured.

Scranton, Pa., April 3 (A.P.).—Judge Albert D. McDade, of Media, Pa., credited in newspaper reports with holding a juror in contempt of court for refusing to vote for a conviction in a liquor case, was censured for his action by the directorate of the Lackawanna Bar Association here today.

ARLINGTON GROUPS FAVOR NEW ROUTE

Washington Avenue Way to New Memorial Bridge Thought Feasible.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Unanimous endorsement of a proposal for the construction of Washington street from the intersection of Wilson boulevard and Court street as an approach to the new Memorial Bridge was given by delegates representing twelve civic organizations, incliudin gthe Arlington County Chamber of Commerce and the Arlington County Civic Fedeartion, last night. Plans were formulated to urge to the County Board of Supervisors that immediate steps be taken to take over the road and start construction.

Arthur Orr, delegate from the Lyon Park Citizens Association and president of the association advocating the straight to the bridge boulevard, in favoring the project, said: "When the straight to the bridge boulevard association was organized several years ago, I said at that time that no single road, it matters not how wide, will serve all the citizens of Arlington County, and I say so now. I hope that this project will succeed and I can see no good reason why it will not.

"I hope that the leaders of the Lee boulevard wil lawaken to the fact that the Federal Government will not build the first 2 miles of the boulevard leading from the bridge.

"Another thing," said Orr, "the county should not waste money building a temporary road along Whipple street. That is a State project, and the State should build that section of the Lee boulevard as it is building the other sections of it. As I have said, this is the best proposal for an adequate approach to the bridge, and it is the one route that will serve the greatest number o fpeople."

William C. Gloth, as chairman of the right of way committee, reportd that he has only had the map showing the route of the proposed road one week, but that much has been done.

While more than one-half of the right of way is already available, Gloth stated that all the property owners have been seen and, with the exception of Mrs. Bessie Christian, they have either given the right of way or are willing to sell at a reasonable price.

The reply which Gloth stated he had from Mrs. Christian was that she had taken the matter up with her associates, the property involved containing approximately 26,140 square feet, and that they, after studying the map, could not see thatthe road would in any way benefit their property and were not inclined to sell any part of it for right of way.

At this point Raymond Bause, a member of the committee, stated that he has ben advised by H. Rozier Dulaney, owner of a large tract of land, that he will give right of way through his property, which will save having to go through the property of Mrs. Christian.

Chairman Gloth's report was received with applause, and he was complimented on the speed with which his committee has worked.

Ashton C Jones, former president of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, declared that he has heard of no opposition to the proposal on the part of any of the citizens in Clarendon or any other section of the county.

"I feel that this road must be built and if presented to the county officials in a way that I know it will be, we will dridve over it direct to the bridge before we do over the Lee boulevard," he said. "I am in no way opposed to the Lee boulevard. We need it and it will be of the greatest benefit to the county, but there must be an approach to the bridge for the citizens of this section of the county which this road gives," he said.

Among others who spoke were Harry A. Fellows, president of the Arlington County Civic Federation; Charles T. Jesse, Julian D. Simpson, P. M. Talbott, William C. Hull, Thomas J. Crack, William D. Medley and E. L. Bennett.

Associations which, with the chamber of commerce and the Civic Federation, are supporting the project are Fort Myer Heights, Aurora Heights, Lyon Village, Cherrydale, Livingstone Heights, Leeway, Ballston, Clarendon, Ashton Heights, Lyon Park, East Falls Church, and Thrifton Village.

Robert E. Plymale, president of the Fort Myer Heights Citizens Association, under whose auspices the meeting was held, presided. He stressed the point that in proposing this road his association is in no way opposing the construction of the Lee boulevard.

Returning from Richmond yesterday, where, with a committee representing the citizens of Leeway, he visited the State Highway Commission in the interest of the widening of the Lee highway from Halls Hill to Falls Church, Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth stated that the commission agreed not to take any of the land as proposed on the south side of the highway, but will widen the roadway from the existing right of way except where it is necessary to make some slight changes because of curves in the road. Not more than 2 feet will be taken at any point.

Gloth stated that the commission planned to take fifteen feet on the south side of the highway, which citizens claimed was unnecessary and would have injured their property materially.

The committee included Fletcher Kemp, D. R. Luttrell, Edward T. Fenwick, E. D. Williams and William W. Rucker.

Mr. Kemp, county school superintendent, attended the hearing as a representative of the county school board to protect the interest of the Robert Lee School property, which fronts the highway.

Having completed a petition to President Hoover in an effort to secure participation in local politics by Federal employes, Hugh J. McGrath, chairman of the Civil Service committee of the Arlington County Civic Federation, announced last night that the petition will be submitted to the President the early part of next week. The petition, Chairman McGrath stated, will be accompanied by a number of letters from county officials and others in support of the movement.

It is pointed out by the committee that more than 25 per cent of the qualified voters are Federal employes.

The county board of supervisors announces that they will receive and open bids for reconstruction of a part of Rucker avenue and a part of Courthouse road Wednesday noon, April 15.

Plans and specifications will be on hand in the office of Directing Engineer C. L. Kinnier at the courthouse April 10. Plans may be secured on the deposit of $10.

There will be Holy Baptism services in the afternoon at 4 o'clock. In the evening at 7 o'clock the Junior Churchmen's League evensong service will be held.

Morning and evening services tomorrow at the Cherrydale Baptist Church will be conducted by the pastor, the Rev. M. R. Japhet. Subject at the morning service will be "Two Resurrections." In the evening the pastor will preach on "One of the Most Famous Chapters of the Bible."

MEN WHO SET CELLS ON FIRE ASK DEATH

Pair Responsible for Loss of 320 Lives Prefers Chair to Prison.

Columbus, Ohio, April 3 (A.P.).—Death in the electric chair rather than life in the Ohio Penitentiary, where the fire they set caused 320 deaths, was the choice today of two convicts who confessed they caused the disastrous blaze of a year ago.

The convicts, Clinton Grate and Hugh Gibson, today told authorities and newspapermen that if the judge they will face Monday promises to sentence them to the chair, they will enter pleas of guilty. They asked to talk with the judge before the arraignment, for they wanted to be certain that death would be their fate if they plead guilty to murder charged in the three indictments against them.

The conspirators, who confessed that they used candles, oil and wood shavings to set fire to wooden concrete forms on the roof of a cell block, causing the deaths of the 320 prisoners who were locked in their cells, said they had spent nine years in the penitentiary on robbery charges, and they did not want to be returned to the prison.

They said they did not fear other prisoners would harm them, but they preferred death to a life behind the big stone walls. They reiterated that when they set fire they intended to destroy a block containing unoccupied solitary confinement cells, and to hamper the prison building program. They said they had no idea the blaze would result in such a great death list.

EAST POTOMAC PARK DETOUR TO BE TRIED

Bowman and Montgomery Confer on Congestion in Fourteenth Street.

The United States Park police will detour part of the traffic leaving East Potomac Park during rush hours via the roadway skirting the tourist camp as an experiment for the next few days Capt. Raymond C. Montgomery, superintendent, announced yesterday following a conference with Representative Frank L. Bowman, of West Virginia, member of the House District committee.

Capt. Montgomery and Representative Bowman met at the intersection of Fourteenth street and Hains Point driveway, where the greatest congestion occurs on Sundays and holidays during the tourist season. They discussed several means of speeding up traffic, most of which the park police already had considered.

The National Capital Park and Planning Commission has under consideration several plans for relieving the congestion at this intersection, but all require appropriations from Congress.

One of these plans is to extend Fifteenth street and to widen the bridge over the outlet channel of the Tidal Basin. Another is to run a roadway on the east side of the railway so that traffic might be routed east of Fourteenth street.

Capt. Montgomery conferred yesterday with Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, on the proposal to keep such streets as Water, B and C, southwest, from feeding into Fourteenth street when the traffic is heavy in East Potomac Park.

Cannon, Jr., Check Charges Dismissed

Bishop Makes Second Trip to Los Angeles to Aid His Son.

Los Angeles, April 3 (A.P.).—Five charges of issuing checks without sufficient funds, made against Richard M. Cannon, son of Bishop James Cannon, jr., were dismissed by the Superior Court today on motion of the District Attorney's Office, which said it had insufficient evidence to prosecute.

The dismissal followed a visit of Bishop Cannon to the District Attorney's Office several days ago to present new evidence. The charges were sworn out by a justice of the peace at Elmonte, Calif., for checks in amounts from $5 to $100 and given to employes of a school for boys which Richard Cannon operated.

Richard Cannon was convicted on a similar charge at a recent trial in Pasadena, sentenced to 90 days in jail and freed pending decision on an appeal. Other check charges were dismissed at that time when a jury disagreed. Bishop Cannon's trip to California to aid his son was the second time he has appeared here. Some time ago he came to Los Angeles when his son became involved with health authorities over conditions at the school.

TEACHERS TO ANNOUNCE FLAG ESSAY WINNERS

er of Education William J. Cooper, will be judges in the final test. But in the hands of the teachers and principals of the various public and private high schools rests the fate of those who are to be selected as school representatives.

The boy and girl selected from each school will meet in competition at the Franklin administration building next Saturday at 9 o'clock. Promptness is esteemed such a virtue that the officials of the flag association have laid down a hard and fast rule that tardiness is sufficient disqualification to bar the contestant from further participation in the test. Nine o'clock means 9 o'clock, in this particular instance at least, and the student who has been getting in a few minutes late had better set his alarm clock a few minutes earlier on that morning, if he happens to be among the fortunate winners.

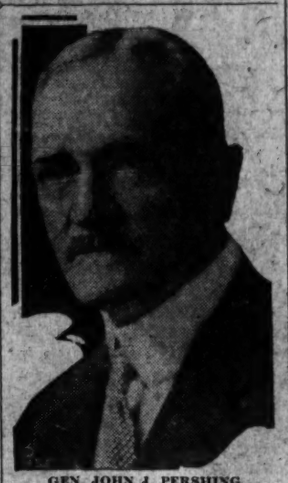
"It is only fair to all the students to demand that they all be prompt," officials of the flag association said yesterday. "Promptness is a virtue as well as a sign of intelligence. Everybody knows that a train pulls out on schedule time and that the late comer simply loses his chance for the trip. This contest is designed to obtain the finest possible examples of American youth for this good-will trip to Europe, and the boy or girl who starts by being tardy is not the kind of boy or girl we want as 'envoys of friendship.' Tardiness is a demonstration of lack of leadership and this is one of the qualities we want to stress for the boys and girls who will bear this good-will message to the boys and girls of London and Paris."

Next Saturday's preliminary test is difficult, to some extent, flag association officials admitted, but this, too, is by intent, in order to obtain the best possible equipped boys and girls as representatives of the high schools of Washington on this trip. There is still plenty of time to study up on American history, its ideals and institutions, and on the American flag and its symbolism. Teachers will be glad to suggest books to be read; the book, "The American Flag, Its Glory and Grandeur," can be obtained in any library, and there is being published every day in The Post a short essay on some subject of a patriotic nature helpful to the contestants.

Students who are neglecting to read The Post every day are missing something, because flag association officials say that some of the questions will be definitely based on these essays in this publication. They are short, full of facts and easy to assimilate.

While the task is difficult, it is pointed out, the rewards are well worth while. First and foremost is a place as "envoy of friendship" on the good-will trip to Europe, preceded by a patriotic pilgrimage to American spots of historic interest, and the Cross of Honor of the United States Flag Association, the highest honor of the association, and the medal that was bestowed on Col. Lindbergh on his return from his historic flight to France; award of the Patriotic Service Medal, the second highest decoration of the flag association, to those who qualify as runners-up to the winners, and award of the "Old Glory" medal of the flag association to every student who qualifies to represent a school in the preliminary test.

Merit alone will count. There are no "short cuts" and no "pull" that will have any bearing on the decision of the judges. The only method of winning is to study up the right kind of books, consult teachers and parents on historical facts and read The Post every day.



GEN. JOHN J. PERSHING, one of the many notable Americans, who have indorsed the program of the United States Flag Association whose essay contest, with the cooperation of The Washington Post, is now being conducted among the high school students of the National Capital.

Bankhead Names Contest Counsel

R. B. Evins Is to Protect Interesst in Fight by Heflin.

Birmingham, Ala., April 3 (A.P.).—John H. Bankhead, senator-elect of Alabama, laid plans today for defending his election in the face of a contest filed by former Senator J. Thomas Heflin, his defeated opponent.

He announced the appointment of R. B. Evans, Birmingham attorney, to represent him as chief counsel in the contest with the possibility W. C. Davis, former lieutenant governor of Alabama, would aid if extensive hearings are conducted. Heflin has appointed Horace C. Wilkinson, of Birmingham, as his representative in Alabama, and Frank A. Hampton, for many years secretary to former Senator F. M. Simmons, of North Carolina, as his counsel in Washington.

Heflin charged "fraud" and "ballot thievery" were practiced in the election last November and that he, instead of Bankhead, was elected "by 50,000 majority."

Real American Patriotism Seen Sane and Rational

This is the fourth of a series of essays on the flag which are intended to assist entrants in The Post-United States Flag Association "Envoy of Friendship Contest" in preparing for the preliminary test to be held April 11.

By COL. JAMES A. MOSS
(United States Army, retired, president general United States Flag Association).

True patriotism is one of the finest of human emotions. It is a virtue. Real American patriotism is a sane and rational patriotism whose spirit is found in the eternal principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity on which this great republic of ours is founded, and which, in the belief of our forefathers, applied to all mankind—a patriotism which recognizes the fact that while every American should love America, and that for Americans America should come first, there are men of other lands who are just as much entitled to love their countries and that for each his country should, and does, come first—a patriotism which teaches while every American should honor the American flag, he should also have respect for the flags of other countries, especially if he expects the citizens of such countries to respect the American flag—a patriotism that appreciates we have a wonderful country from which men and women of other nations can learn much, but which at the same time realizes we can learn equally as much from them—a patriotism which realizes that neither America nor any other country has a monopoly on the fine things of the world, and that it is absurd for any one to believe that Providence has given all the good things of the world to any one country.

2 Missing After Hotel Fire Thought to Be Safe.

Roanoke, Va., April 3 (A.P.).—Intensive search in the ruins of the Clark Hotel, 67-room hostelry, which burned here yesterday morning, causing the death of one man and serious injury to another, failed to disclose additional bodies today.

Two men, North Carolinians, were missed after the fire, but it was later discovered that their car, parked near the hotel, was gone. It is surmised that they escaped.

WAGE CUTS UNWISE.

The threat of reduced wages has become a lively topic of discussion. In general wages have been maintained at a high level during the depression, while commodity prices have been declining. Some bankers are hinting that an adjustment is needed to restore the previous balance between wages and prices.

Before the advisability of making such an adjustment can be decided, it is proper to inquire whether or not a restoration of the previous relationship between wages and prices is desirable. Economists are almost unanimous in declaring that the failure of the daily wage to rise in proportion to the increased output of goods in 1928 and 1929 was one of the foremost causes of the depression. Low-paid producers are poor consumers. Figures gathered by the Census Bureau substantiate that conclusion. A general reduction of wages in proportion to the decline in commodity prices would be a step in the direction of depression and not toward recovery.

President Hoover called the leading employers of the country together at the beginning of the depression and obtained from them a promise not to reduce wages. At the same time the representatives of organized labor promised not to strike or demand increases. These pledges have operated to the benefit of both industry and labor. Had the consuming power of the country been reduced the depression would unquestionably have been more severe. Strikes, lockouts and labor disturbances might have prolonged the return of an upward trend indefinitely. This cooperation engineered by Mr. Hoover at a critical period is one of the greatest achievements in economic history. It is the first instance in which a panic was averted by quick cooperation.

Evidence of an improvement in business is abundant. The whole country is imbued with a feeling that the worst is over and that a return to normal is in progress. A general wage reduction would reverse that psychology. The consuming public, made up of wage earners, would again tighten its purse strings. At present there is a tendency to purchase needed goods, but lower wages would check this tendency. Firms that resort to wage slashing will not only injure themselves but business in general.

The alleged movement to bring down wages follows close on the heels of many adverse reports on corporation earnings. Bankers and other investors do not like to see dividends cut, but they are not so solicitous about wages. A number of eminent bankers in New York and Chicago have openly advocated lower wages as a means of curtailing corporate expenditures. They are looking out for themselves. On the other hand, leaders of industry who know that their prosperity is based on a high standard of living for the great mass of people are willing to maintain wages at the 1929 level in order to hasten the return of good business. Dividends must always be moderate in a period of recession and restoration. American business genius will not share the greed of bankers who would crush labor for the sake of dividends. No investment can be more rich in dividends than that which goes to maintain America's high standard of living.

SILVER'S LOST PLACE.

Silver's historic reputation as a money metal dies hard. The aura cast about the white metal by Bryanic eloquence has been superseded by an astute campaign of silver interests, which leads many persons to feel that in some mysterious way the low price of silver has some connection with the fall in the price level of commodities. The sad fact is that silver today is just a commodity itself.

The silver-producing States in this country are represented by spokesmen who have been able to create an impression that silver is entitled to special consideration as a little brother of gold. The 61,000,000 ounces of silver mined in the United States in 1929 had a value of about $32,000,000. Today that silver is worth less than half as much.

The value of American lead and zinc produced annually exceeds that of silver by more than 100 per cent. Copper is more than ten times as valuable, and pig iron value in 1929 was $731,000,000. The tobacco crop is worth 12 times the total silver production, and cotton 50 times, while 1 cent a bushel added to the price of one corn crop would amount to almost as much as the yearly yield of silver today.

A distorted view of "relative values" is still held, simply because once upon a time bimetalism was a fact. It is not a fact today, and there is no prospect that it ever will be again. England abandoned the free coinage of silver nearly a century before that question was the great political issue in this country. The dollar bill promises under the picture of George Washington to pay one silver dollar on demand. If the bearer collected that dollar today it would be worth 24 cents.

England has recently placed India upon a gold basis, and that country, which was a great user and hoarder of silver, is now selling silver in the world's markets, with inevitable depressing effect upon its price. China would use more silver and more of everything the world produces if she could but compose her internal troubles. The visit of the governor of the Bank of England had led to hopes that his coming might result in consideration of some measures intended to give fictitious value to silver. The wish is a vain one. It is inconceivable that Great Britain will abolish the gold standard in her colonies or at home. Silver is no longer even a running-mate with gold. Its transmutation into the established values of the king of metals can not be accomplished by any legal legerdemain. Silver is "as stones of the street for abundance," and it must command only what it is worth as a commodity of commerce, like lead or pig iron.

SPRING VISITORS.

The enormous influx of Easter visitors gives an inkling of what may be expected in future, as the beauty of Washington increases and works its lure. Improved highways and the spring attractions of this center of Americanism are conspiring to develop an annual pilgrimage which promises to become a social phenomenon. At present very little preparation is made for the special delectation of visitors. The city as it stands, with the enhanced beauty of spring verdure, is the sole magnet. But it is inevitable that public festivals will be arranged, and formal emphasis laid upon historic personages and events by pageantry and outdoor plays.

The eagerness of nonresident Americans to see Washington is not fully realized by those who live here. It is an urge that is founded in patriotism, and therefore it deserves both welcome and entertainment. The local civic organizations could well afford to organize committees whose duty it would be to welcome visitors, to point out historic places to them, and to facilitate their traveling programs. The annual hegira is fast exceeding the size of inauguration crowds, and spring visitors are entitled to as much consideration as those who come to witness the installation of a President.

Every citizen, and especially every boy and girl, who visits Washington departs a more ardent American, more devoted to the country's institutions, and more familiar with its history. Every inhabitant of the United States should make a pilgrimage to the city founded by Washington, in order that he may drink of the spring of Americanism and refresh his faith in his country's institutions. The Government will be stronger by reason of this increased individual devotion resulting from personal knowledge of the National Capital.

CHINA TURNING RED.

Observers writing from China do not minimize the menace of the Communist campaigns throughout the interior of the country, where great provinces are coming under the influence of Soviet doctrines. The methods of warfare and the insidious propaganda which precede these invasions are very difficult to combat. Chinese peasants abused by rapacious military leaders and ridden by tax agents and landlords fall willing victims to Communist heresies.

The more recent operations of government troops in the Yangtze Provinces of Hupeh, Hunan and Kiangsi have demonstrated that it will be a stupendous task to dislodge the Communists. Only a sustained counter-campaign of education and actual demonstration of the ability of the government to improve conditions will win back a long-suffering people.

The military efforts of the government likewise encounter serious difficulties. There is not merely one army of Communists to be met and defeated, but roaming over vast areas of interior China and extending to the very borders of Russia and Siberia are not less than a score of armies. Bandit bands most of them may be, composed of Chinese peasants, but they are officered by Soviet leaders who have been trained not only as soldiers but as propagandists.

One of the first acts of one of these bands when a town is captured is to destroy all records of land ownership. The reds then proceed to parcel out the farms to former tenants. The rich are despoiled of all their wealth, a portion of which is distributed among the poor to secure their allegiance, and the balance put in the war chests of the invaders. A government army arriving upon the scene finds no difficulty in reoccupying the town, but the phantom Communists are safely in the hills or on their way to new conquests. Such followers as are left behind have melted into the peaceful population. Representatives of the government have no spoils to offer and can hold out no promises of land to the peasants, such as the Communists use as bait for revolution.

Manchuria, on the Russian border, is overrun with Communists, and a wide swath of Soviet influence extends from Shensi and Shansi on the Mongolian border south to Kwantung and Fukien, an area that comprises nearly one-half of China proper. Communist influence in China is greater today than ever before, and the government has a heavy enough task on its hands in trying to stop the spread of the menace to other districts.

DUPES OF COMMUNISTS.

The American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers gives no encouragement to those Americans who are inclined to sell their services to the Communists. A special committee was appointed by the institute to investigate conditions that confront American engineers who are taken in by the offers of fabulous salaries in Russia. That committee has issued a warning that such engineers "may find themselves impaired in health, become discouraged and unhappy, resulting in regret for their decision to leave a peaceful, civilized country, despite the opportunity for more pay than is now attainable at home."

Unusual significance is attached to this report in view of the announcement in Moscow recently that 35,000 engineers and skilled workmen will be sought in the United States and other countries. The Soviet must have foreign engineers to manage its industrial program, because most of the competent Russian engineers have long since been assassinated or driven from the country. The Soviet tries to make its offers attractive to foreign technicians, but in spite of all it can do many engineers who are willing to betray their profession by turning to Communism find conditions intolerable.

Prospective candidates for the Soviet's favors are warned that they must deal with a "government comparable to the most drastic type of martial law as Americans understand that term." They will be required to contribute to a program which, according to the engineering committee, "is resulting in the reduction of the standard of living of the Russian people to a pitiful level." The committee might have added that the services of American emigre engineers will make a distinct contribution to the Soviet Union's attempt to disrupt other countries, including the United States.

The committee also found that food is scarce and housing in Moscow inadequate. It is difficult to purchase clothing, and that which is available is of very poor quality and expensive. Foreigners and natives alike suffer for want of heat. The general practice is to dole out rations to the Russian people, but special food shops have been established in some quarters for foreigners at which exorbitant prices are charged. Since part of the salaries paid to foreign employes is in inflated Soviet currency, they sometimes find it almost as difficult to keep body and soul together as do the Russian peasants.

The American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers has rendered a valuable service to its members. Perhaps the rush of American dupes of Communism will be somewhat diminished in the future.

Dr. Miller finds that what seems to be "brightness" in an individual is often nothing more than chatter. In Washington that is common knowledge, but it wasn't learned from observing children.

That fellow who tried to sleep with a wildcat might be able to give the Democratic party some valuable advice as to its proposed nuptials with the Insurgents.

It would be interesting to know how many of the kiddies who roll eggs on the White House lawn will grow up to be lobbyists.

TEAMWORK OF FARMERS

From the Topeka Capital.

Chairman Stone's statement of the Federal farm marketing act before a group of 150 guests of Senator Capper in setting forth the purposes of the act and the reasons why it is called for can not be controverted by any rational and sensible mind. His reply to the plea against the act that cooperative farm marketing is not "business," that it is "socialistic," and that the Government is in dangerous business making loans to cooperatives was a convincing reply, on both counts.

Mr. Stone's illustration drawn from his own line of tobacco in Kentucky is as good a statement as can be made of the validity of the encouragement that the farm marketing act affords to agriculture in self-marketing and merchandising its products. There are, said Mr. Stone, 175,000 burley tobacco growers in Kentucky. Prior to the organization of the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association the 175,000 growers made their contracts as individuals with the buyers. The buyers were organized in four great tobacco corporations. When 175,000 men as individuals have to dicker with four men controlling the buying end it is idle to speak of the great "law of demand and supply" operating in any beneficial way for the growers.

Mr. Stone's reply on the point of credit facilities to the cooperative farm marketing organizations was just as conclusive. Until the farm act there were abundant credit facilities provided under the national banking acts for corporate borrowing, but none for cooperative borrowing. The cooperatives now have credit facilities for their merchandising operations.

Cooperative agricultural merchandising is the cure provided by Congress for the maladjustment of the farmer in the business structure. The farmer can produce as an individual. When he attempts to market his productions as an individual his profits dwindle to the vanishing point. They are absorbed between his place as producer and the ultimate consumer. Self-marketing by the farmer through cooperative organization is the one fundamental objective of the Federal farm marketing act.

Agriculture can not prosper as the sole survivor of individualism in commerce. Yet the farmer is still conceiving himself as individualistic. It is hard to break away from the habit and custom of ages. The Farm Board has the function among its other mandatory duties of encouraging in every practicable way cooperative farm organization.

It is doing a great work in this respect, organizing merchandising agencies, owned by farmers, controlled by them and operating for them. The National Grain Corporation, which the board was instrumental in establishing, purchased last year 110,000,000 bushels of grain. Mr. Stone gave it as his opinion that the fact that this corporation in its merchandising of grain for farm cooperatives and owned by them endeavors to buy at the highest price which the market permits, has forced other and competing buyers to pay the market price in their purchases from the farm and has in the last year been worth not less 10 cents a bushel in wheat to the wheat grower. Similar organizations are working similarly for cotton, wool, live stock and many other farm commodities.

The farmer has not yet been wholly converted to cooperative marketing, but there are five farmers for it today where there was one two years ago. This is a part of the work done by the Federal Farm Board and the farm marketing act since it went into operation less than two years ago.

POST HASTE.

Mr. Raskob points out that the Democratic party never had a better opportunity to win in 1932 than it has in 1931.

The latest naval negotiations indicate that impulsive Latin temperaments still have difficulty in determining from a bland British exterior which one of the Latins is the goat, or both.

Americans consume on the average four-fifths of a pound of tea in a year, while each Englishman uses nearly ten pounds. But the American uses nearly thirteen pounds of coffee and the Englishman less than one. The reason? Well, did you ever drink English coffee?

Bootleggers make a profit of 900 per cent on capital invested, according to Jack Raskob. Where did they learn about watered stock?

Poor Henry Ford! His production of cars and trucks dropped last year to 1,500,000, or only 35 per cent of the total American output. His net profit was but $55,000,000, which leaves him in these hard times with only $300,000,000 cash in bank.

The first April shower flowered Paul May into a full-blown ambassador. May always will be welcome in Washington.

Rest and California sunshine may restore Senator Hi Johnson, but just now in one of his flights he charges that "behind the abuse and denunciation of Congress are the sinister forces that seek control of the Government for private gain."

According to official announcement, Jouett Shouse is starting out on a Western speaking tour to keep the Democratic party offensive.

Many things have been said about Sandino, but nothing so insulting to his intelligence as the charge that he is about to attack Managua. The Devil Dogs never handle looters but once.

If you ride only in an automobile you can at least give the railroads credit for relieving you and your neighbors of $1,000,000 a day in taxes that the carriers pay.

Now, about this girl pitcher; is she exercising a woman's right, or left? P. H.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE MASTER.

They seldom show Him with a smile:
Always His face is sad to see,
As if a jest could never be
Nor He be merry for a while.
The kindly humor that could pat
The brows of boys He chanced to see
And say: "Let children come to me!"
No brush has ever pictured that!

The man who loved a little child
And walked the common ways of men,
Though troubled often. Now and then
With those about Him surely smiled.
I fancy as I read His word
I hear Him chuckling, soft and sweet,
Telling to Mary, at His feet,
Some curious things He'd seen or heard.

He must have had a twinkling eye,
Which danced at times with gentle mirth,
So greatly to be loved on earth,
So bravely on the cross to die.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE:

Yesterday I heard you say you intended doing a certain thing because the other girls were doing it, and I began to wonder if you had gone back on your raisin'. It wasn't the thing you intended doing that bothered me, but your reason for doing it.

When you were a very small girl and your red-head temper was yet unsubjugated, some mishap caused you to forget the presence of adults and the rules of the household. You said "Damn!"

It was an offense that couldn't go unrebuked, but I refused to insult your intelligence by telling you the usual hokum. I might have said: "You must never use that word, for it is wicked and people who use it go to hell when they die," but that wouldn't have been convincing or reasonable. You might have believed me, but your belief would have been founded on faith in my word—not on a sound intellectual conviction. You would have been mystified.

So I said to you: "Whoa! No more of that word, young lady. It's verboten. Of course it's just a harmless combination of four letters and no more wicked than 'Darn!' or 'Bother!'" but it has a bad reputation. If you use it, its bad reputation will be yours. People will think you vulgar and tough."

That line of argument convinced you then, for you had a normal child's appreciation of reason and truth, and I have tried to be equally fair with you ever since.

I have never, for example, asked you to believe anything simply because you should believe it.

I was taught, as other youngsters in my time were, to revere women and old people and Presidents but I've never insulted your intelligence by any such teaching.

I want you to respect old people when they are respectable, not otherwise. I want you to respect me only when I deserve it. And I don't want you to degrade your mind by worshiping either Presidents or precedents, laws or customs that your common sense tells you are wrong, stupid or foolish.

Some day, I hope, you will be the mother of men. For their sake, as well as your own, I want you to remember that freedom is the most precious of possessions and that true freedom is possessed only by those who accept no guide except their own reason.

Follow the crowd if your conscience agrees, but don't be a blind slave. When the leader says you should knit sweaters for the Aztecs, make him prove his case before you buy the yarn.

Love, DAD.

Uncle Sam Goes in Debt.

New York Times.

Despite the large Treasury deficit, it is announced by the administration at Washington that there will be no increase in taxes. Resort will be had to borrowing. Of course, money is abundant, the Government's credit is excellent, and the Treasury can get all that it needs without being made to pay through the nose. But even for a Government a loan is a loan, and the interest on it has to be provided.

It is one thing for the Treasury to borrow large sums of money in what it believes to be a temporary embarrassment, hoping for better things next year, but quite another to contemplate a continuous policy of living on loans instead of letting the truth be known and insisting that the people pay as they go. Uncle Sam must not form the habit of sneaking around to the moneylender's after dark or of signing post-obits in order to get him out of his straits. This plan would surely result in having to go back again and again to borrow more money at ruinous rates.

DO ELEPHANTS CHEW?

There is a widespread belief that elephants resent being fed tobacco and that they will for many years nurse a grudge against a person who so injures them. Those in a position to form a correct opinion of the habits and characteristics of elephants state that these animals are generally very fond of chewing tobacco because of the licorice and sugar that it contains, says the Pathfinder. Dr William M. Mann, director of National Zoological park at Washington, says on this subject: "I do not think elephants resent being fed tobacco. Some of them are fond of it in small portions. Elephants do have good memories and sometimes form strong dislikes toward certain people, but in regard to their remembering people who feed them tobacco and afterward attacking them, I have heard only stories of it. It seems to be a very general belief." Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of mammals at New York Zoological park, writes in the following vein: "I have never noted that elephants have any aversion to tobacco, but I do think if any elephant were given a lighted cigaret and had his trunk burnt, by some malicious individual, the animal would remember the incident and have a decided aversion to tobacco and to the individual who fed it to him."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Some Way Must Be Found to Put Money Value in Silver, Says National Press Club Expert.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The writer dislikes to take issue with a man who fundamentally agrees with him on the most important question before the world today—the demonetization of silver—but he can not pass unnoticed this paragraph by Mr. Jeremiah Johnson: "When one discusses the present silver question, which is fundamentally different from the Bryan 16-to-1 craze, one is dismissed by bankers and big business men as a silver crank."

What I specifically take issue with is the phrase, "the Bryan 16-to-1 craze." William McKinley was as much of a bimetallist as Bryan. McKinley, after becoming President, had the Senate pass the Wolcott resolution appropriating $300,000 for a commission to go to Europe to negotiate a bimetallic standard. But England had the gold then and refused. The shoe is on the other foot now.

The United States holds nearly half the gold of the world, and, paradoxically, is in the most deplorable condition in its history, because more than 1,300,000,000 people in silver-using countries have been put on a gold-standard basis and have not the money or credit based on that standard to buy our goods. Before another year rolls around the export trade from gold-standard nations to silver-using countries will drop to almost nothing, and moratoriums will be declared on payment of debts, a situation that has never before in peace times occurred in history.

Let me quote from a recent speech of J. F. Darling, of the Big Five Midland Bank of England: "The unprecedented discrepancy between the relative value of silver and gold is not due to natural causes, but is entirely the result of legislation; and what Legislatures have taken away Legislatures can restore."

Therefore, it is up to the United States as the humanitarian Nation of the world to say to Norman Montague, of the Bank of England, on his visit here, that the United States will lead the way in a world-wide movement for an agreement between the nations for a bimetallic money system, as Bryan tried to do in 1896, which is the only way to bring stability, peace and happiness to the world. Prof. Kelly Miller Denies Vote of Confidence in President Johnson Was Considered by Howard Faculty.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Being a constant reader and admirer of your high-minded journal, I feel sure that you would not knowingly misrepresent the facts concerning any private or public interest. Your news item in Thursday morning's Post, stating that the academic faculties of Howard University denied to President Johnson a requested vote of confidence, is wholly out of harmony with the actual happenings. No issue arose calling for a test of confidence. Being closely acquainted with the internal workings of the university for a long number of years, I can say, in all frankness and confidence, that the academic faculties stand ready and willing to give, with complete or practical unanimity, a vote of confidence in the president for his integrity, intelligence, industry and initiative as a capable and conscientious administrator. I by no means wish to convey the impression that there is absolute harmony and unanimity throughout the entire teaching staff. There are normally enough healthy differences of judgment and dissatisfied ambitions, such as will be found in all institutions of learning. Such are but incidents of every college administration. But all such internal differences and dissatisfactions can be adjusted internally, without any violent eruption or public outbreak. KELLY MILLER.

Mail Truck Driver Says Postoffice Vehicles Have Low Accident Record.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I would like to say a few words in defense of drivers of postoffice trucks in reply to a letter published last week signed "Observer," in which he condemns us as inconsiderate and reckless drivers.

I think that it would be found upon investigation that the accident record of the postoffice motor vehicle service per million car-miles is the lowest of any class of vehicles upon the streets of Washington or any other city.

This is the more remarkable in view of the trying conditions under which these trucks must operate. The necessity of maintaining close schedules, frequent stops, left and right turns as well as U turns, driving day and night under all kinds of weather conditions.

Considering the vital service which these trucks and their drivers are performing, a service which touches the life of every one, I would like to ask that a little more cooperation and consideration be shown to postoffice vehicles by the motoring public of this city.

We have the same rights on the streets as any one else and no more. All we ask for is a fair break.

Taxpayer Protests Against Night-Flying Sightseeing Planes—Pilots Fly Dangerously Low.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: We are now threatened with nightly air sight-seeing buses, flying over the city from 8 to 10 every evening. As a taxpayer I protest against this invasion of citizens' rights. We are entitled to peace, quiet and safety. The planes are steadily encroaching upon these rights by flying dangerously low and by making an unendurable racket. Night flying would add another horror to modern life. Can not the District authorities realize that the rule of the greatest good of the greatest number is trampled upon by permitting planes to roar over the people during the evening?

FLOWERS PLANNED FOR ALL HOSPITALS

Young People to Distribute Easter Remembrances Tomorrow.

Early Easter morning groups of young people will be found gathering at eight or more of the city's hospitals. Their mission will be to bring the joyful message of the day to many of the patients in these institutions. First, they will sing some of the familiar Easter hymns. Then they will go through the wards, bringing words of cheer and distributing appropriate letters written by a well-known Bible class teacher of the city.

In four of the hospitals each ward patient will receive also a lovely hyacinth in a small individual pot—1,000 in all—with a very attractive Easter card attached. This plan to carry happiness to these places of pain and suffering was originated by Mrs. Elizabeth W. Murray, the hospital worker of the Federation of Churches, and it will be carried out under the auspices of that organization.

About 100 young people will be engaged in this service. The singing will begin about 6 o'clock in some of the hospitals and in all will close by 7:15. This is the first time it has been attempted here, but the experiment is already assured of the success it deserves. It is the Easter spirit incarnate.

The flowers will be brought to the parish house of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets, most of today, beginning at 10:30 o'clock. Late in the afternoon they will be taken to the various hospitals—Evergency, Garfield, George Washington and Homeopathic—for distribution tomorrow morning. Any persons interested are invited to come to view the flowers while they are at the church on display.

Dr. Stockdale to Begin Pastorate Tomorrow

Dr. Allen A. Stockdale, former pastor of Rogers Park Congregational Church, Chicago, will begin his new pastorate at First Congregational Church, Tenth and G streets northwest, tomorrow.

Dr. Stockdale supplied the pulpit of First Church during the months of January and February as a guest preacher and the call to become the pastor of this church was extended to him in March, his ministry to begin April 1. Dr. Stockdale comes with an outstanding record as preacher and leader in the Congregational denomination, having served notable pastorates in Boston, Toledo, Ohio, and Chicago.

Many new members were added and the financial receipts and expenditures amounted to $3,355 more than during the previous year.

In the election of officers the following were chosen: Elders, Henry I. Bingham, John E. Larson, F. G. Robb and Andrew M. Smith; deacons, Henry G. Milams, Augustus B. Omwake and Charles G. Bartz; trustees, Calvin T. Milans, Charles H. Tompkins and Dr. J. Russell Verbuycke.

Calvary Methodist Class to Banquet

R. N. Elliott to Make Address at Annual Event of Bible Group.

The Men's Bible Class of the Calvary Methodist Church will hold its annual banquet in the Guild Hall of the church next Wednesday evening. The annual banquet is the outstanding event of the year in the life of the men's class. The speaker of the evening will be Richard N. Elliott, Assistant Comptroller General of the United States. Greetings will be extended by the Rev. Mark Depp, minister of Calvary Church, and by Dr. Arthur C. Christie, teacher of the class.

Among the distinguished guests attending the banquet will be the Rev. James Shera Montgomery, chaplain of the House of Representatives, and Dr. Benjamin W. Meeks, district superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

William B. Wells, president of the class, will be toastmaster. The committee in charge of arrangements for the banquet consists of L. J. Johnston, chairman; G. S. Collison, R. E. Pilkinton, A. S. Vipond and K. C. Vipond. Preceding the banquet the annual election of class officers will take place.

Dr. Stockdale to Speak At Bible Class Dinner

Dr. Allen A. Stockdale, noted clergyman-lecturer-author, will be the principal speaker at the annual dinner arranged by the All Comers Men's Bible Class for Monday evening at the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church, Connecticut avenue and N street northwest. His subject will be "Why Do We Laugh"

A varied program of entertainment will be given, with Paul Williams acting as toastmaster. The committee in charge consists of Henry Meyer, Edwin Callow and Sol Arnold.

Calvary Church Elects Stewards.

At the fourth quarterly conference of Calvary Church, held recently, several new members were added to fill vacancies in the board of stewards of the Church. Those elected to fill the office of steward were Mrs. B. T. Hynson, Miss H. Z. Fowler, O. E. Carlton, N. J. Cunningham, Leon R. Wood, J. W. Lovegrove.

Actress-Beauty To Enter Convent

Dorothy Knapp to Become Nun in Mexico, Close Friends Reveal.

New York, April 3 (A.P.).—Dorothy Knapp, Atlantic City beauty contest winner and star of the Earl Carroll "Vanities," is to enter a convent in Mexico, it was revealed by close friends here today.

Miss Knapp arrived here from Hollywood yesterday and went into seclusion. She is to testify in a court case and shortly afterward will go into the convent, it is said.

Miss Knapp's last appearance on Broadway was in "Floretta." When she was removed from the leading role she sued Mrs. Anne W. Penfield, backer of the show, for $250,000 damages. For the past few months she has been playing minor roles in talking pictures.

Salvation Army Plans Pretentious Easter Rites

One of the largest and most pretentious Easter services ever attempted by the Salvation Army in Washington will be held tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock at Temple Corps, 606 E street northwest, with Maj. James Asher, divisional commander for the District of Columbia and nearby Virginia and Maryland, conducting the services. Salvation Army officers and workers from this entire section will be present for the meeting.

Special musical features are being arranged, including several numbers by the "singing brigade," a group of Salvationists who accompany themselves with guitars; a cornet solo with piano accompaniment; and several numbers by a Salvation Army quartet. A general invitation is extended to the public to attend.

Additional church news and Easter music programs will be found on Pages 9, 10 and 11.

WRITE ADS — ZAIN AD-WRITING CONTEST — WIN PRIZES

MR. AND MRS. AVERAGE READER: Your viewpoint on advertising is important to The Washington Post. You read advertisements every day, written by experts, whose business it is to submit copy for your approval. In the Zain ad writing contest which is sponsored by The Washington Post and 35 Washington concerns the process is reversed. You are asked to write ads. A group of advertising experts will select five winning ads for each of the concerns weekly. For your ideas, The Washington Post will pay $10,000 in cash and merchandise prizes during the seven weeks of The Post-Zain ad-writing contest. Such an amount should prove a powerful incentive in encouraging you to demonstrate your skill. Write all the ads you can. Your ideas will develop as you write. You will enjoy it.

The Story in a Nutshell

This is an ad writing contest in which the public writes the ads and the advertising men and women judge them.

The Washington Post invites all its readers to participate in this campaign.

$10,000.00 in cash and merchandise prizes will be given during the seven weeks of the campaign.

The prizes will be divided into three groups:

First—Weekly prizes.

Second—Weekly grand prizes.

Third—Grand prize of $1,000 in cash at the end of campaign.

Ads to be written about a list of concerns that will be published tomorrow.

Prizes will be given for ads about any concern listed. An ad may consist of a letter, a slogan, a poem, or, in fact, any thought expressed on paper.

WATCH FOR THE LIST

Start Writing Tomorrow!

The first week of The Post-Zain Ad-Writing contest opens tomorrow. Read the names of the thirty-six firms sponsoring the ad contest in The Sunday Post. Then jot down your ideas, and mail your contributions before noon, Wednesday, April 15th. Win one of the many merchandise prizes or the grand weekly prize of $100 in cash.

Turn Your Ideas Into Profits

Any one, anywhere, can compete for the $10,000 in prizes offered by The Washington Post for the best ads to be written by amateurs during the seven weeks of writing in The Washington Post's Zain ad-writing contest. All that is asked of you is that you write advertisements in this novel, fascinating and profitable contest.

If you know how to write you can write an ad. Just take the thoughts you use in daily conversation. Jot down your ideas. You will have an equal chance with every one competing for the prizes, since advertising writers and newspaper employes are barred.

This ad-writing contest will provide lots of fun for every member of the family and for your friends as well. There is no limit to the number of ads you may submit. You may enter The Post-Zain ad-writing contest at any time. You may write ad facts about a few or all of the concerns. You'll read the list of participating concerns in the Sunday issue of The Washington Post. Visit these concerns. Get all the information you can about each. Study the products they sell.

Be original. Write ads in your own way. Every contribution you send in will be considered by the judges. Watch your ideas grow. You'll enjoy the mental stimulation. You'll be surprised to see the list of winners which is published every Friday, following the close of each week.

An Opportunity for All Amateurs

You read advertisements every day. You can write them. But you don't know how well until you try. No matter what you think of their merit, send them in. Technical knowledge is not required.

Remember that we want you to become advertising men and women. Your viewpoint as a consumer is most important. There's a value to you personally. This ad writing contest will give you a keener sense of analyzing advertisements in the future; it will enable you to grasp more quickly the advantages offered by advertisers; it will make you a more discriminating buyer.

The Zain ad-writing test is open to all amateurs. Awards are made solely on the merit of the ideas—not for layouts, art work or technical style. Punctuation or grammar will not be considered in the judging. You may enter the contest at any time by merely writing ads on any or all of the competing firms. Write as many ads as you can—the more you write the more prizes you can win.

Amateur ad writers have no fees to pay, no subscriptions to buy or sell; no labels to save; no coupons to clip. There is no red tape of any kind. Just write ads and mail them to the Zain Ad Contest Editor, The Washington Post.

Easy!—Interesting!—Profitable!

HONOR IS ARRANGED FOR DR. RASMUSSEN

His First Anniversary at Luther Place Memorial to Be Celebrated.

Dr. Carl C. Rasmussen, pastor of Luther Place Memorial Church, will soon celebrate the first anniversary of his pastorate here, and arrangements are being made for an appropriate commemoration of that event. The Rev. Frederick H. Knubel, president of the United Lutheran Church of America, and other noted religious leaders will be invited to participate in the services.

This will be quite an event in the religious life of this community, for pastors and laymen of all churches have been rather amazed at the success that has attended the ministry of Dr. Rasmussen, particularly in stimulating the energy and enthusiasm of his members in reviving the work of his church.

While considerable emphasis has been laid on the recruiting of members, every department of the church's activities has been aroused by the dynamic leadership of the pastor. The hard part was getting the thing started, and now it has been found that the procuring of new members is becoming less difficult.

Within one year Dr. Rasmussen has received 460 new members into his church. In addition to this a number of former members have returned to the fold. Exclusive of renewals of membership, this shows the remarkable increase of 160 per cent in membership since last Easter.

In one sense Dr. Rasmussen's church now is national and international, for the new members represent 40 States, Alaska and eight foreign countries: Belgium, Denmark, England, Norway, Sweden, Finland, Germany and Austria. This in itself is a unique thing. It represents a great outlay of endeavor and it also represents very able pulpit ministration, without which the former could not be possible.

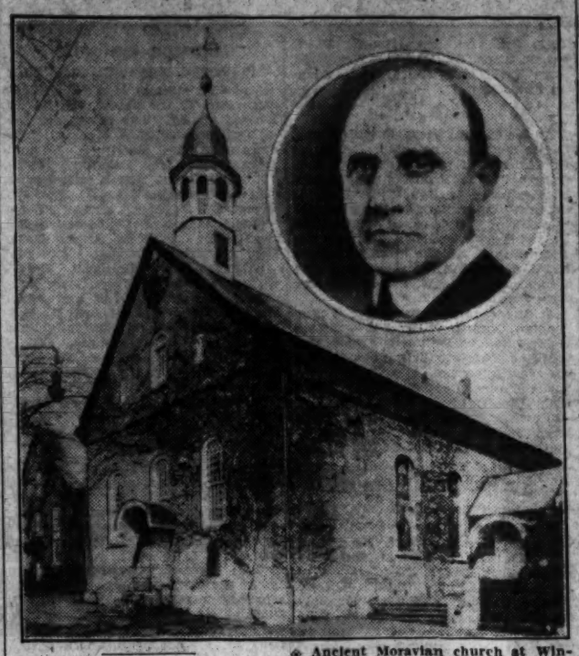
Moravians to Greet Easter With Old Rites at Sunrise



Ancient Moravian church at Winston-Salem, N. C., and (inset) the Rev. Dr. J. Kenneth Frohl, who this year will conduct the Easter sunrise services tomorrow morning in presence of throng of 30,000.

Winston-Salem Expects to Be Host to 30,000 at Quaint Service.

The Moravian Church is one of the smallest in membership in this country, having no more than 37,000 members, the largest group of which is centered in North Carolina. In that State they founded the old town of Salem, in 1766, and set up a college for women, which is one of the finest in the South. Its leading men, it is said, own a large part of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., and they also own the Wachovia chain of banks, which is the strongest in Carolina.

These are but tawdry jewels, however, by the side of its long record as a spiritual force in the Old North State. Episcopal in its form of government, it has not had many bishops, the last one before the present head of the church, the late venerable Dr. Rondthaler having served for 51 years.

30,000 Attend Rites.

In the calendar of its annual events the sunrise Easter service at Winston-Salem stands out as the most prominent. As many as 30,000 persons gather every year to attend this service. They come from all parts of the country, and their numbers have increasing so rapidly in recent years that a problem of caring for them has arisen. Without doubt this is the unrivaled Easter service on this continent. It is so precious and so beautiful that many persons remain awake all night so as to miss none of it the next day, for it opens at daybreak.

The service begins in front of the ancient church, when at a signal the bishop appears through the church door and announces: "The Lord is Risen." Always the bishop makes his appearance just as the sun comes up over the horizon, and if the day is rainy, as it so often is, then at the exact time for the sun to appear is chosen.

The simple but exalted ritual of the Moravian Church is used in this service. For the benefit of strangers it is printed on leaflets and distributed in the vast congregation, which joins in the responses and sings the old, familiar hymns, accompanied by bands stationed about the grounds, whose soft, sweet and weird music is unforgettable.

Services in Cemetery.

Following the bishop, the worshipers march to the old cemetery adjacent to the church, where the services are continued and concluded. Every stone lies flat over the grave; every stone is the same size and of the same quality, so that millionaire and pauper are buried alike.

In the cemetery is a stand on which the bishop and other officiating ministers and laymen take their places to conduct the services around the graves. Here, amid the dead, one gets the full force of the significance of this ceremony, for the graves are all decorated with flowers, and such a profusion of them, too—rare lilies, roses, the product of field and forest, of hothouse and nursery—each grave banked with every conceivable kind of design. A great deal of money is spent for this floral display, for the Moravians in and around Winston-Salem are a very rich people.

All the time during the services in the graveyard the bands are playing softly the Easter hymns, many of which the great throng sing with a deeply spiritual emotion.

Bands Join in Hymn.

When the litany is finished the people stand with bared heads while the band at the eastern gate begins to play "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," each band joining in and playing a different bar of the music, until far off in the distant ravine there comes from the band stationed there the last line, "And crown Him lord of all," when the bishop pronounces the benediction.

This ends the service, but the crowd lingers on to be with the dead and the flowers. Eyes fill with tears and those whose precious ones lie in that holy place burst into weeping. It is indeed an unforgettable service.

Will Celebrate Mass Tomorrow With Ceremony at St. Dominic's.

On Easter morning, at the 11 o'clock mass in St. Dominic's Church the Very Rev. E. G. Fitzgerald will commemorate the thirty-third anniversary of both his ordination and the celebration of his first solemn mass. Father Fitzgerald was born and raised in this parish, and served on the altar until the time he left to prepare himself for the priesthood. On April 5, 1898, he was ordained in Somerset, Ohio, and on the following Sunday, being Easter Sunday, he sang his first solemn mass in St. Dominic's Church, Washington.

Father Fitzgerald is at present attached to the Dominican House of Studies, and is a member of the faculty of sacred sciences at the Catholic University of America. At the mass tomorrow the celebrant will be assisted by his brother, the Rev. J. T. Fitzgerald, who is attached to Providence College, Providence, R. I., and the Rev. J. J. Durkin. The hundreds of friends of Father Fitzgerald will be pleased to learn of this event at St. Dominic's tomorrow.

Catholic Radio Hour.

The Washington Catholic radio hour speaker for Easter Sunday will be the Rev. Raphael M. Burke, O. P., in the first of his series of four sermons on this hour. Father Burke, a well-known Dominican speaker, is prior of St. Dominic's here in the city. Father Burke's introductory sermon will be "The Resurrection of Christ." These services are broadcast every Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock from the Church of the Immaculate Conception, of which the Rev. Francis J. Hurney is pastor, through Station WOL.

Father Hurney will preside at this service, which will include the first Sunday of the month devotions to Our Lady of Lourdes. The Lourdes procession, with its brown-clad monks, sanctuary boys in blue and white cassocks and high school girls in white dresses and blue capes, and the blessing of the sick, in which over 100 ailing participate every Sunday, are features of the Lourdes devotions.

The soloists of the service will be Miss Florence Yocum and Norman DeMeza, both of the Immaculate Conception Choir, which is under the direction of Prof. Harry Wheaton Howard.

Holy Name Society.

The Holy Name Society has adopted the slogan put forth by its spiritual head, Archbishop Curley of the Diocese of Baltimore, "Every Man a Holy Name Man," and they intend making a campaign to accomplish the desired end.

The first meeting toward this great result is scheduled to take place on Thursday evening next in Holy Trinity Church in West Washington, and the rally is expected to be fruitful in this parish. At present they have nearly 800 members on their roll, and it is expected that the goal set of 1,000 men will be fulfilled.

The list of those who will participate in this opening gun and deliver talks are the Rev. Joseph A. McErenany, pastor of the church; the Rev. Eugene Kenedy, spiritual director; John McCarron, archdiocesan president; P. J. Haltigan, former head of the society; President Aeillo, of the Washington Branch; President John A. Gartland, of the local society; C. A. Neale, Frank Gunning, and John Hadley Doyle, who for years was the head of the society for the Diocese of Maryland.

Delegations will attend from many of the conferences of the city, as well as Maryland and Virginia, while as an innovation the ladies of Holy Trinity will be guests. A luncheon will be served.

Special Devotion.

Tomorrow the celebration of Easter at St. Mary's Church will begin with a solemn high mass at dawn, 5:30 a. m. There will be low masses at 7, 8:15, 9:30 and 11:30 o'clock. Benediction will be given after the 9:30 mass. WALTER REED RITES TO BE IMPRESSIVE

Living Cross, "The Empty Tomb" and Music to Feature Sunrise Service.

Easter sunrise service at Walter Reed General Hospital has become a national religious festival. It is an Army service altogether, none but Army men and women taking part in it. But the outside public is permitted to share in the worship.

Just how many thousand people will go to Walter Reed tomorrow morning before 7 o'clock no one knows. The Army expects many thousands, and a great number of them will be from among the visitors who have crowded into Washington during the Easter holidays.

In addition to being a reverential religious service, it also has its colorful aspect, chief of which is the formation of the living cross by the attendants, nurses and student nurses, together with the Red Cross nurses who join in. It so happens that the colors of the uniforms worn by these people form the colors of our American Flag.

By Student Nurses.

Another interesting feature will be the tableau, "The Empty Tomb," which will be presented by the student nurses. In two brief scenes the story of the sorrowful journey of the three Marys and other friends of Jesus to the tomb, and the finding of the stone rolled away and their subsequent joy will be vividly and impressively portrayed. The stage setting and the costumes are correct in their Oriental reproduction.

The musical features are no small part of the services. The Army Band, vocalists from the Army personnel and their families, choruses from the same group, assisted by Leonard Davis, barytone, will give a sacred concert composed of the great Easter music.

The services will open with a sacred concert by the Army Band, William J. Stannard conducting, and William F. Raymond, trombone soloist. Then the congregation will sing the hymn, "Christ the Lord Is Risen Today." Dr. J. Hillman Hollister, chaplain O. R. C., will offer prayer. An anthem by the Walter Reed Chorus, led by Lieut. Elbert DeCoursey, will follow.

Will Read Scripture.

Col. John T. Axton, retired, former chief of chaplains, will read the Scripture lesson, after which Leonard Davis will sing a solo.

The sermon will be preached by Col. Julian E. Yates, chief of chaplains, whose subject is "With Seal and Guard." Then follows the tableau of the empty tomb, a hymn and the benediction by Capt. R. Earl Boyd, chaplain of the Army Medical Center.

The service will be concluded with the "Hallelujah Chorus," rendered by the Army Band.

Boy Scouts from the several troops in the District of Columbia will usher and handle the traffic. No automobile will be admitted into the reservation after 7 o'clock in the morning, but cars may be parked on the streets leading to the reservation.

The service will be broadcast by the National Broadcasting Co., and four national film organizations will make sound pictures.

(Minister of Luther Place Memorial Church)

The Message of Easter

SURMOUNTING all other problems of existence are two mysteries—whence came life; and whither is it bound?

Of the two the query as to the destination of life is the more wistful. We are here. But whither are we bound? Where is the terminus? Is it in the grave? Or is there a Beyond?

The Message of Easter is the annunciation that beyond life lies a New Life—the survival, not of the earthy and the animal, but of the higher. Man's body, formed of the dust of the earth, is bound down to earth and shares its fate. The coldness of unending death will some day claim what was man's fair abode.

But man's spirit, made in the image of the Creator, is akin to God and shares His immortality. To the carnal mind it seems impossible that "the things which are seen are temporal, but the things which are not seen are eternal." Yet that is Easter's proclamation to humanity. It is the earnest of the triumph of the spiritual.

In the light of the Easter morn, "I know that my Redeemer liveth; and because He lives, I too shall live."

"We know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle be dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens."

BREAKING a prolonged silence on radio matters, Judge Ira E. Robinson, veteran member of the Federal Radio Commission, has sent a memorandum to his colleagues, together with editorial clippings, stating that the public has finally awakened to uses and abuses of broadcasting.

Commissioner Robinson has long been a foe of advertising and commercialism on the radio and has pronounced his views at meetings of the commission and before committees of Congress.

"I have always favored better uses of radio more than mere commercialism," he said, in connection with his memorandum. "The Federal radio law is based on the public utilities concept. To my mind the radio is the voice of the public and it ought to be used in an educational and uplifting way, as well as for commercial use, just as the natural voice is used for various purposes."

In his memorandum to the other commissioners, the former chairman said: "These editorial clippings show that the public is at last understanding the right uses and abuses of radio—that radio is a public utility, open to free speech—belonging to all, and not to a few."

CANADA'S formal reception for its new Governor General will be broadcast over the CBS-WMAL, 10:30 a. m., and NBC-WJZ networks this morning, when the Earl and Countess of Bessborough land at Halifax, N. S. The Dominion cabinet, headed by Premier Richard B. Bennett, will meet the ship. After the swearing-in ceremony, which will form part of the broadcast, Bennett will welcome Lord Bessborough on behalf of the government and people of Canada. Lord Bessborough succeeds Lord Willingdon, frequently heard over the air throughout America when head of the Canadian government.

Three Navajo Indians, who have never before been off the Western Navajo Reservation, and who have been selected from 7,000 Indians to tour the country, will be presented by Gilbert E. Gable, in the Highroad of Adventure (WRC, 6 p. m.).

Reasons for President Hoover's pocket veto to the Wagner unemployment bill will be explained by Secretary of Labor William N. Doak, tonight (WMAL, 9:30 p. m.).

FIVE youths from the Kentucky mountains — the Cumberland Ridge Runners—will make their radio debut tonight (WMAL, 9 p. m.) in a new weekly series. Their programs will follow the musical style of the mountains with song-stories of feuds and other historic events told to the twanging of a guitar.

There are more than fifteen grand pianos in more or less constant use at NBC's New York studios. Only two are necessary for WRC's use.

An address on "National Defense," by Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord, and a description of one of New York City's Fifth avenue parades are among the special events to be broadcast in observance of Army Day over the WJZ network this afternoon (WJZ, WBAL, 2:45 p. m.).

The Archbishop of York, having addressed the combined NBC networks yesterday afternoon, will deliver an Easter sermon over Columbia tomorrow (WMAL, 12:30 p. m.).

"THE Tragedy of Nicaragua" will be told by Senor Dr. Don Juan B. Sacasa, Minister of Nicaragua to the United States (WMAL, 6:30 p. m.). Dr. Sacasa will give listeners a late report of the loss of life and extent of the damage in Managua, his native city.

Harpist in the orchestra heard weekly in the Dutch Masters and occasionally in the Jack Frost Hour, Steffy Goldner, gave her first solo recital at the age of 12 before Emperor Franz Josef of Austria. Her first teacher was Vicki Baum, whose novel, "Grand Hotel," is a best seller. She is the wife of Eugene Ormandy, well-known radio orchestra conductor. Also, Miss Goldner is the only woman harpist in the New York Philharmonic Orchestra.

THIS laugh is on Hank Keene, whose Connecticut Hillbillies are heard frequently from WTIC, Hartford. A listener in Pennsylvania recently wrote requesting the "Swan Song." Inasmuch as Hank has a long-term contract, he replied that he had no intention of singing his swan song yet awhile, but would be glad to oblige with Saint-Saens' "The Swan."

To which the Keystone State fan answered that since his last letter he had found that the song he desired went something like: "Well, I swan, I must be gettin' on; giddy-ap, Napoleon, it looks like rain."

A Mode Interprets the MODE

Evening scarfs and capes are lovely summer accessories! (Says Dah-ray.)

Paris, April 3.

THERE isn't a couturier in Paris who isn't showing one or two, if not one or two dozen, of those ticky little evening scarfs or capes or wraps or whatever you feel like calling them. Actually they are not wraps, because you wear them under your evening wrap or carry them on your arm—sometimes you leave them tossed gracefully over the back of your chair when you're dancing, sometimes drape them gracefully on one arm or around your shoulders.

Of course, you must never think of wearing one that is not definitely connected with the dress you're wearing—because while an evening scarf may seem to be and should seem to be just something that you've snatched up at the last minute, it must be something carefully planned in connection with your outfit and wisely chosen.

Lanvin has a very lovely one which she makes in dull lames, always in an interesting color contrast to the dress with which it is worn, which is made of one straight long piece of material which reaches from elbow to elbow across the back, simply sewn at about the sleeve place, into wide sleeves. Jenny shows an affair which usually matches the gown, which is like the one I've illustrated for you today. This is in chiffon or tulle or a material matching the dress, such as satin or peau d'ange. And the unusual thing about it and what makes it impossible to designate whether it's a scarf or cape or shawl, is the way that it is cut in back to follow the decolletage of the gown with which it is worn. The idea seems to be that you can either hang it low on your shoulder so that it looks like part of the dress, or draw it higher on your shoulder so that there is no low back decolletage to the dress at all.

This fancy little gadget is very often outlined inn flowers or brilliants, sometimes in feathers. If it is thus ornate, it must, of course, be worn with a very simple gown, not at all decorated itself.

And besides all that, I've just been sickabed lady again, and if you're no sicker than I was and you just simply have to stay in bed because your heart listens funny under the doctor's stethoscope, it isn't at all hard to stay in bed a week in Paris. You get all caught up on visitors, and letters, and you use all of your evening scarfs and things for bed jackets, 'n you think of such practical and interesting leaflets to make for your deah publick.

By the time you read this I'll either be deader-than-a-door-nail, or will have just arrived on the Ile de France in New York so the only sympathy you could give me would be to send a stamped- self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post right this minute for the illustrated leaflet which tells you how to make the evening scarf I illustrated for you today, and a bed-jacket from the pieces left over.

* * * *

The Gadget Department.

Don't you think that's a nice title for things that don't have any special name, but are interesting enough to tell you about? Frinstance, if you were lucky enough to know an Egyptian prince and he wasn't at all old or anything, and he brought you a real scarab bracelet which was millions of years old and which his family had only for a thousand years, wouldn't you feel like telling your deah public about it? As far as styles go, being dull green, it's going to be perfectly in the mode for this spring—and as far as learning something goes, you are told that there is no other way to pronounce this than 'scarahbee."

* * * *

And tomorrow, again, we have Dare's weekly fashion letter. Of course you'll look for it in the big Sunday Post.

Au revoir!

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

TODAY I saw the first ant of the season. Last year these pests ruined my peonies. Please tell me of some way to get rid of them.

A CONSTANT READER.

If you care to write again, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, I shall be glad to tell you of a proprietary preparation that will really rid your garden or house of ants if you follow directions.

Is it true that boxwood planted in a protected location will come through the winter in better shape? I have been told to plant them in shade. Is this correct?

A. NATHAN McC.

The box (boxus sempervirens or suffruticosa) is apt to be injured by winter sun as well as by low temperatures. Therefore, when planted in shade it is apt to do better. In summer it is rather susceptible to both burning and red spider.

There are white scales on the tip ends of my dwarf pine trees. What would you advise? I am sure these will injure the plants if permitted to remain.

WILLIAM H. T.

The pine-leaf scale will stunt the growth of your trees if it becomes serious. The young scales are produced in early June and are at that time more susceptible to control. Better, in early June or late May, spray the tree with nicotine solution. Some growers also spray the trees with miscible oils in the early spring.

Please tell me why the fruit and leaves persist in falling from my Jerusalem cherry trees.

MRS. L. B. H.

It is the warm, dry air of the house which is responsible for the falling of both fruit and leaves from your Jerusalem cherry. Keep the plant in a sunny, well-ventilated but very cool place and this will not happen. The plant must be both watered at the root and top growth every day.

I am inclosing some peony stems I have saved from last year's growth. Please notice their condition; is this a form of scale? If so, what do you suggest? Last year I believe this is what prevented my plants being up to standard.

FANNY K. L.

The stems you inclosed were covered with scale. Better at once and again in two weeks spray the plants with Bordeaux mixture.

How severely must I prune tea-roses? I have five bushes which did not bloom as they should have last year, and I am anxious to have them do better this year.

The safe rule to follow when pruning tearoses is to cut the weakest shoots most severely and the strongest ones least. Heavy pruning results in longer stems upon the flowers, too light pruning is apt to result in masses of roses in June, but the flowers will be borne on short stems and they will be of an inferior quality.

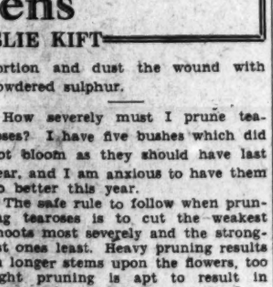
WORK ON BRIDGE

(This article is intended for the Auction and Contract Bridge beginner.)



WITH the above hand at either Contract or Auction Bridge, South would be the Declarer playing a No Trump contract; at Contract it would be three No Trumps, at Auction possibly not so many. The play in both games should be the same.

As actually played, West led the Five Spades and dummy's singleton King took the trick. North then led the Ace and King of Clubs and when West discarded a Diamond on the second round, the Declarer wisely switched to Hearts to avoid establishing an adverse Club. He established his Hearts on the third round, but before that East and West had taken five tricks—three in Spades and two in Hearts.

Should the Declarer have made more?

The Correct Play.

When he won the first trick the Declarer should have seen the result of trying to establish Hearts and have appreciated that his making game depended upon establishing Clubs. In addition to the two Spade tricks, one Heart and one Diamond which were assured, it was only necessary to take five Clubs to go game. There were five Clubs adversely held. The probable division was three in one hand and two in the other and if that were the division in this hand, six Club tricks could be made and an extra obtained. However, the division of the five adverse cards may be 4-1 instead of 3-2; and with a 4-1 division, game could not be made if Declarer tried to take six Clubs; but game would be assured if the Declarer led a low Club to trick 2 and permitted the adversaries to win a Club trick (possibly unnecessarily).

Game would not be made, even if played in this way, if the five adverse Clubs were all in one hand; but as that division occurs very rarely, it is not worthy of serious consideration.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

Women and Lame Ducks.

DEAR Frances McDonald: Please print this in your column. I have been everything a nice girl could be to a man for seven years. He can not marry until his mother has gone above. Never have I had another date, always loyal, the best comfort in all his sorrows, which at times were heavy, helping him when I could have used it myself, buying things at the holidays for his mother, as if he was giving them to her himself, never getting one kind word from his mother or sister, who will do nothing but rush card tables and entertain, but never asking me. I stuck through thick and thin. It would take a page to tell you of the kindness I was to him. When he was sick I worried more than his mother. Several months ago the sister got in with a married woman fourteen years older than the man. This woman, though married, and living with her husband, and a big church worker, has broken us up. He lies, makes all kinds of excuses to get away, and this woman even goes to his home and makes his mother believe she is a friend, and yet all the people know of their meetings, even in day time. At night she makes one excuse after another to get out and go places, just so she can go to his home, where he is. He says she does not mean anything to him as he can not help what she does, and he has to do the things he does for a reason. He tries to be nice to me, and says I must overlook such things and not worry, but he still keeps lying to meet her and his mother knows it, and yet she has her still coming there, because she has a smooth tongue and nice clothes, while I have to work every day. It has come to the point my nerves are a wreck from worrying and I am asking you to please tell me what to do, as I can still get other friends. Please do not make me wait so long to hear and read your advice, as my head and heart are so heavy at times, I do not know my own mind.

Thanking you kindly, BETTY.

My dear girl, it is up to you to get a firm grip on yourself. Your letter reveals a state of mind out of all proportion to the facts. Sit down calmly and take stock of this whole matter. In the first place the man sounds like a lame-duck type. He has been leaning heavily upon you and your weak interest in him. In the second place he has taken all that you have done, as a thing to be expected, his due. Now does that picture thrill you as a woman, in a world where other women are being made much of, waited upon, and showered with attention from the men on whom they smile? Are you satisfied with a lame duck? Do you really want to be a crutch? A nice dependable crop for this ineffectual mortal? What do you see in such a poor specimen? How can you get so excited over what he does or does not do? What would you think of any other woman who would become infatuated with such a worthless nincompoop? Hold up the mirror and take a good long searching look at your whole performance. Then go out and date one of your other men friends. How women can tolerate mendicant lovers is quite beyond comprehension. And when you have made the break and are the object of a real man's interest and attention you will wonder that you could ever have been involved with such a weakling.

The whole situation is up to you. Go on as you are and you will go from bad to worse until you are paying his board. Most of the women who wait outside courtrooms to bail their miserable mates out of jail, began by "helping" a second rate lover. And they end by scrubbing floors while their mates play pool. You are a person. This man regards you as a thing. A money lender. A convenient source of supply.

If you have anything further to do with him, you deserve whatever happens for you will be evidencing a total lack of self-respect.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, PH.D.

AN interesting group of family names is made of "Wallace," "Wallis," "Walsh," "Welch" and "Welsh." Although these names are all derived from a common source and have the same meaning, it will become clear from what follows that the families which are so called are not all of the same nationality. The common source of these names is an English word which was spelled in various ways. In Old English we find it written "Waelisc," "Wealisc," and "Walisc." Its commonest Middle English form is "Walshe." Its original meaning is "the Welshman." In England, as one might suppose, the name was first applied to men who were known to have come from Wales. Gradually, however, the word came to be used more vaguely, and came to designate a Celt, without much attention being paid to the specific Celtic group from which he came. Finally it came to be used with even greater vagueness, and was applied with the general meaning of "the foreigner" to any man whose native language was not English.

For example, these names sometimes mean "the Frenchman," since there is evidence that the expression "Walisc" was used by the English to designate the early Norman settlers who went to England before the Norman Conquest. It will be recalled from previous articles in this series that a great many Irish families have adopted English names which translate, or are thought to translate, their original Irish names. Consistent with this practice, the form "Walsh" has generally been adopted in Ireland as the equivalent of the Irish name "Breathnach." "Breathnach" means "the Britton" and "the Welshman," and was first applied to the early Anglo-Norman invaders who went to Ireland from Wales. At the present time "Walsh" is one of the most numerous of Irish family names.

What Today Means to You

"ARIES."

IF April 4 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:50 a. m., from 2:15 p. m. to 4 p. m., and from 8:50 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger hours are from noon to 2 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7:50 p. m.

The astrological signs of April 4 denote uncertainty and perplexity. Routine duties should alone be carried out whilst an effort should be made to maintain an optimistic outlook, in order to avoid depression. Evening conditions will be ideal for lovers and sweethearts.

Children born on this April 4 will be lighthearted and happy-go-lucky, going through life with little sense of responsibility and trusting to others to pull them out of any ditch into which they may fall. Their natures will be affectionate, but their emotions will never be deep.

Yours is a lovable nature if you were born on April 4. You think too little of your own interests and too deeply of those of others, to ever achieve any outstanding material success. Judged, however, from the point of view of radiating happiness, your life will be a pronounced spiritual success. You are sincere and have strong convictions, although you never voice them in a manner that will cause annoyance to others.

The stars say that you could achieve much in the world if your disposition were not so compassionate. You have read a great deal. You are endowed with much natural ability. You are both intelligent and intellectual and you have strong will power. All these gifts you freely employ for the benefit of those around you and you are possibly happier in seeing them reap the rewards than if you harvested them yourself.

You are always willing to fight against injustice, but do so with the greatest vim when you are fighting for another's cause. You are modest and retiring, but the unselfishness that oozes from you attracts one and all, and in any social gathering you are the center of attraction. Your married life will be rather onesided, as you will give freely whilst your mate will be extremely exacting.

Successful people born April 4:

William White, first P. E. Bishop of Pennsylvania.

Thaddeus Stevens, statesman.

Dorothea L. Dix, philanthropist.

Thomas Kingsford, starch manufacturer.

Lawrence Barrett, actor.

Lewis Cass Ledyard, lawyer.

FRESH VEGETABLES END SPRING FEVER

U. S. Official Says Diet Will Do What Old-Fashioned Remedies Did.

That fresh vegetables are a remedy for "spring fever" is asserted by Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the Bureau of Home Economics, United States Department of Agriculture, who is cooperating with the woman's division of the President's emergency committee for employment.

Dr. Stanley declares that the use of fresh vegetables in the diet will do everything that the old standby was supposed to do.

"The modern theory of nutrition has substituted fresh vegetables for the sticky mass which every member of the family was urged to take daily by the spoonful as soon as spring came," Dr. Stanley said. "About this time every year the jar of sulphur and molasses used to appear in the kitchen cupboard and great store was set by its curative powers. Though little was known of the special nutritive values of the various kinds of foods, the spring tonic was assumed to be a necessity following the more restricted diets of winter."

Habits Have Changed.

"Our national eating habits have changed so greatly that any sort of spring tonic is superfluous. We now have an abundant supply of fresh fruit and vegetables the year round. Increased facilities for shipping perishable foodstuffs from the Southern markets enable us to provide a winter diet little different from our summer diet. These fruits and vegetables offer a continuous supply of vitamins and minerals which are really efficacious in maintaining good nutrition. One vitamin especially, which is found in varying degrees in fruits and vegetables, automatically takes care of lagging appetites and promotes good digestion and the absorption of food. Because the body has only a limited capacity to store this vitamin, the food supply should contain an abundance at all times."

For the more remote rural districts, where the markets are likely to lack a supply of fresh vegetables, Dr. Stanley suggests that the people take advantage of the information recently offered by the Bureau of Plant Industry which listed several edible greens that may soon be found in the fields and woods. The list includes poke, lamb's-quarter, nettle, plantain, mustard greens and dandelions. Sweet potato tops, they say, are also edible and when picked do not kill the parent roots. Beet and radish tops may be gathered and used for greens while they are young and tender. The tiny beets, but not the little radishes, may be cooked along with the greens.

Nettle, which to the bare-legged country child means a stinging plant to be avoided, is an Old World pot herb. It should be picked when the sprouts are finger long and should be cooked like spinach. Plantain was used commonly in France in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries as a pot herb, but it can also be served in salads. Mustard greens and lamb's-quarter are cooked like spinach and poke the same way as asparagus. Most persons are familiar with the many ways in which dandelion can be served as a salad. It has recently grown so popular that it is now being raised commercially and shipped to market.

Most Benefits Lost.

Practically all the benefits which might be derived from vegetables may be lost in the cooking, Dr. Stanley points out. The best methods of cooking vegetables for preserving the food value are in the following order: Baking, steaming and boiling in the skins. When water is used in cooking the bureau advocates using a small quantity for most vegetables. This method with brief cooking retains most of the vitamins and minerals, many of which are soluble in water and frequently thrown away.

The greatest fault in vegetable preparation, the bureau finds, is overcooking. The addition of bicarbonate of soda to the vegetable water is a practice which the bureau decries, for it has a tendency to destroy the vitamins and break down the fibers and make the vegetable mushy.

Meat Much Cheaper.

The present cost of meat is less than it has been in many years, says E. W. Sheets, chief of the Animal Husbandry Division of the United States Department of Agriculture. As a result, he says, families on a restricted income may find it possible to use the inexpensive cuts which are even cheaper than usual. In many sections, he says, the breast and neck of medium grade lamb can be bought for as little as 7½ cents a pound, and the plate and brisket of similar quality beef are being sold for as low as 9 cents.

Use of the low-priced cuts, as recommended by Mr. Sheets, is also in accordance with the nutrition standards set by the Federal Bureau of Home Economics, which emphasizes the need for meat in the ration, both as a pellagra preventive factor and as a means of making a bland diet more palatable.

The bureau suggests that full-flavored foods like meat, tomatoes, and onions should be used as much as possible by persons living on a minimum food supply. Meat brings to limited diets the highly desirable proteins, mineral salts and fat, and the excellent flavor of meat makes it easier to consume the relatively large portions of cereals which are the basis of the low-cost meals outlined by the bureau.

The more economical cuts of meat are just as palatable as the other cuts if properly cooked, in the opinion of Miss Lucy M. Alexander, food specialist of the Bureaus of Home Economics and Animal Industry. She calls attention to the fact that a variety of well-flavored pot roast, stews, meat pies, meat loaves, soups and other dishes can be made by combining meat with vegetables such as potatoes, tomatoes, onions, carrots, turnips, cabbage, spinach, collards and beans.

1 cup fruit juice
4 small cored red apples, baked.
4 parboiled red peppers.
2 cups mashed potatoes.
¼ cup milk.
2 eggs.

Score fat around ham. Broil for 10 minutes without turning, basting several times with fruit juice. Then remove to heated plank or oven glass baking platter broiled side down. Add milk, butter and eggs to mashed potatoes. Beat thoroughly. Season to taste and with pastry bag or spoon fill peppers. Arrange around ham with apples. Return to oven to heat through and brown ham and potatoes. Garnish with water cress or parsley. Serves four.

Recipe Recommended For Dutch Apple Cake

1-3 teaspoon salt.
1 yeast cake (compressed).

5 tart apples.
¼ cup sugar.
1 teaspoon cinnamon.
2 tablespoons currants.

Mix the first four ingredients. Cool to lukewarm; add the yeast cake, eggs unbeaten, and Washington Flour to make a soft dough. Cover, let rise; beat thoroughly and again let rise. Spread in a greased dripping pan as thinly as possible and brush over with melted butter. Pare, cut in eighths, and remove cores from apples. Press sharp edge of apples into dough in parallel rows. Sprinkle with sugar, cinnamon and currants. Cover, let rise, and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 30 minutes. Cut into squares. May be served hot or cold.

CHILDREN'S LUNCH SHOULD BE SIMPLE

Lusty Youngsters Require Light but Healthful Noontime Meals.

No problem is more insistent in the mothers' world than that of a suitable noon-time lunch. "Lunch ready, mother?" is the daily cry as soon as the children open the door. They must have not only what they like to eat but what they should eat.

Heavy meat dishes, rich pastries, or fried foods should be avoided. A cup of hot soup is always good, and with milk, crackers or bread and butter is almost a meal in itself. A salad of lettuce, tomato, celery, or hot green vegetables may also be added, however, and some simple dessert such as sliced fruit, junket, or gelatin. Sliced bananas soaked for a few moments in orange juice and added to the gelatin when it is partially cool will make it both nourishing and appetizing.

Instead of a soup, you might serve a hot dish of macaroni with tomato sauce, or rice with mushroom sauce. Bread omelet is another suggestion. Another favorite lunch will be toasted sandwiches with hot cocoa. Bacon with eggs or peanut butter with the addition of lettuce makes a good filling. Cream cheese with sliced bananas and a tart jelly is also a delicious filling.

Here are a few recipes for luncheon dishes.

Milk Vegetable Soup.

2 cups diced potatoes, carrots, turnips and celery.
1 chopped onion.
Water.
1 bay leaf.
Salt, pepper.

Cook the vegetables and seasonings in just enough water to cover until tender. Add more water during the cooking if necessary. Add the milk, and heat. Serve at once with toasted crackers.

Rice With Mushrooms.

¼ cup butter.
3 tablespoons flour.
2 cups milk or stock.
Salt and pepper.

Boil rice in salted water, drain and put into a ring mold. Set in hot water. Wash mushrooms and slice the caps and tender portion of stems. Boil the rest of the stems ten minutes in one cup of water and strain for stock. Saute the mushrooms in the buter, stir in the flour and add the milk and stock. Season and cook until thick and smooth. Turn rice out of mold on to platter and fill center with mushrooms.

Bread Omelet.

4 eggs.
1 tablespoon butter.
Salt, pepper.

Soak the breadcrumbs 15 minutes in milk. Beat the yolks of the eggs and seasoning, add to the breadcrumbs, and fold in the beaten whites. Pour into a hot buttered pan and cook slowly. When brown on the bottom put in a slow oven 300 degrees F. to set. Fold and turn out on hot platter.

Five-Minute Cabbage Is Cooked in Hot Milk

3 cups milk.
1 cup cream or rich milk.
2½ tablespoons butter.
2½ tablespoons flour.
Salt.
Pepper.

Cook the cabbage for two minutes in the three cups of hot milk. Add the cup of cream or rich milk, the blended butter and flour, and the seasoning, and cook rapidly three or four minutes. The result is a crisp vegetable, delicate in flavor and color.

Are You Afraid to Eat Hot Bread?

You needn't be if you will exercise proper care in its making.

Dr. William Gerry Morgan, president of the American Medical Association, recently told a class of medical students that "baking powder biscuits, if properly made, are easiest digested of all breads." In his talk to the students this eminent specialist put special emphasis on proper baking—and following his advice you can enjoy hot bread to your heart's content without fear of any distressing results.

For the baking of biscuits you will find Self-rising to not only give the best results but accomplish the greatest success with the least effort—because Self-rising Washington Flour is made expressly for kitchen use and contains the purest of leavening phosphates, with which no other baking powder is necessary. Self-rising Washington Flour never varies in its character and consequently your making of biscuits, waffles and dainty desserts will never fail to be entirely satisfactory if you use it.

Both Plain Washington Flour and Self-rising Washington Flour (The Pantry Pals) are for sale by grocers and delicatessens in all sizes from 2-lb. sacks up. Adopt "Pantry Pals" and you'll put an end to your baking troubles.

POWER RATES
in Washington

AN ARTICLE REPRINTED FROM THE WALL STREET JOURNAL OF APRIL 1, 1931

Statement Concerning Electric Rates in Washington Written by Mr. Thomas F. Woodlock, Formerly a Member of the Interstate Commerce Commission

Power Rates

Utility Which Shares Profits Always Incites Resentment When Benefiting Thereby

HOW IS VIEW JUSTIFIED?

BY THOMES F. WOODLOCK

THOSE readers of the Wall Street Journal who have done this writer the honor to read this column occasionally may remember that references have been made from time to time to the relations of the Potomac Electric Power Co. to the citizens of Washington, D. C. As these relations have reached a stage which is both critical and interesting (and carries a moral) it is worth while to describe them.

Some seven years ago the Potomac Electric Power Co. (a steam plant), exclusively serving the District of Columbia, terminated a long legal wrangle by coming to an agreement with the authorities of the District on rates for current on a profit-sharing basis. At that time the basic rate was 10 cents per k.w.h. (domestic), and it was agreed that this rate should be at once reduced to 7½ cents, with corresponding reductions in other rates, and on January 1, 1925, this reduction took effect. The agreement provided that the power company should have a return of 7½% upon a stipulated rate-base which should be adjusted annually by adding the net cost of added property.

Each year the accounts were to be examined and if the company earned more than 7½% on the rate-base during the year the rates were to be reduced for the following year in an amount equal to one-half of the excess earnings. The company was permitted to retain the excess earnings actually received for the preceding year. Under this arrangement the basic rate (domestic) was reduced every year, and on January 1, 1931, was 4.2 cents. Up to last Summer no one in the District had any complaints to make of the arrangement.

Rates "Excessive," Nevertheless.

During the Autumn, however, as a result of representations by one or more of the various "Citizens' Associations," the Public Service Commission started proceedings, having for their object a modification of this agreement on the ground that the power company's profits were excessive and that rates should be further reduced. Various conferences ensued and the matter dragged along through the Winter. Finally, on March 17, the Public Service Commission delivered what The Washington Star calls an "ultimatum" to the power company in the shape of a letter, the principal parts of which were published in The Star, and the principal points of which are as follows:

1. The Commission points out that the power company's profits are admittedly "excessive" and that, regardless of the legal aspect of the matter, it would be "good business" for the company to co-operate with the Commission and reduce rates.

2. It suggests a new sliding scale and states that if the company will not consent to this the Commission will either proceed to "revalue" the company or ask the court to modify the consent decree which expresses the present agreement and the present method of making rates. It points out that a "revaluation" of the property might result in a lower rate-base than that agreed upon, as prices at present are lower than they were in 1924, and that the court, if appealed to, would not sustain profits to the power company as large as those which it is making. And it appeals to the company in this language:

> "In the case of any utility serving the public the reasonableness of its rates must be tested in several ways. It is not enough that they are low compared with similar charges in other localities. There must be considered all the pertinent facts, such as the cost of rendering the service in question, the profit made after providing for all operating expenses and its relation to the fair value of the property used and useful in such public service. If a company strives to maintain a schedule of rates which by any such tests are too high, will the greater return compensate for the feeling on the part of its customers which will be thus engendered? On the other hand, would not the friendly attitude of its customers, if the company pursued a different course, be well worth what it would cost?" (Italicization by this writer.)

At least, we may commend the Commission upon its frankness. It is "not enough" that rates shall be low; the really important thing is that the company shall not make much money; if it will be satisfied with a bare "fair return" it will enjoy "friendly" relations with its customers, and those "friendly" relations ought to be "well worth" the sacrifice of profits. This, of course, is fair warning to everyone that "profit-sharing" in the public utility industry will work only so long as the profits are one-sided. It is what the company gets that hurts!"

Assumption or Principle.

If the Washington basic rate were 6 cents today and the power company were getting a bare 6% on its property value, the Commission—and presumably the "public"—would be satisfied. The only possible justification for this view of the relation is to be found either in the assumption that the incentive of profit is ineffective in producing cheaper and better service or in the principle that it is more imporant from the "public interest" point of view that no one should make any "profits" from serving the public than it is that the public should be well and cheaply served.

It is not quite clear whether the Commission in Washington relies upon the assumption or upon the principle. The assumption is manifestly false; all human experience proves its falsity. The principle may be defensible, but this writer would like to know upon what ground it can be defended. And as for the "friendly attitude of its customers," one may reasonably wonder how it is going to show itself, and how its "worth" is to be appraised by the power company.

All in all, it is a very interesting but not a very pretty story this, of the Washington experiment in utility rate making! One cannot help wondering why it is that human beings as individuals average so high a degree of intelligent fairness in their private relations with each other, while collectively they exhibit so little of that quality. Anyhow, it is clear that we may abandon the idea of profit-sharing in the public service as a method of getting cheaper and better service. And nature will doubtless exact the proper penalty in due course, as she always does.

SPRING TONICS.

THE urge to take a spring tonic is a part of folk lore—more narrowly, of folk-medicine. All folk lore has some basis of truth, and this goes for folk-medicine. The truth may be smothered in error, or we may not be able to see it because we are too ignorant, but it is there. Of the latter statement, the high-brow physician's attitude toward spring tonics is a good illustration. He was a scoffer, and he could justify his scoffing until the importance of vitamins was discovered. With those scientific demonstrations the high-brow physician had to take off his hat to the old woman who brewed her teas in the springtime. Having acknowledged that he was wrong because he was too ignorant to be right, he humbly bows to the old lady and asks her to change the ingredients of her brew and her method of brewing it.

The spring tonics she used contained vitamins C and B complex. The way she made them saved some of these vitamins and accompanying minerals. The people needed what she gave them. Many of the ills and blemishes for which she gave them were due to vitamin deficiency. The consumers were often cured, and sometimes by the brew.

However, there are better sources of vitamin C and B complex, and better ways of preparing the brew. Fresh spring vegetables and fruits are the best sources of vitamin C. Herbs and roots taken in the spring from the woods are good, but early radishes, English peas, onions and strawberries are better, and they taste better.

Some of them are eaten raw, and raw foods are superior to cooked as a source of vitamin C. The best sources of vitamin B complex are sprouted grains, malted products, wheat germ, yeast, eggs, and lean meat. These make fine spring tonics for those who have the skin blemishes and assorted pains that call for the accustomed teas.

The old ladies' brand of spring tonic was generally short of vitamin D. In the early spring most vegetables are below whatever level in content of this substance that they may attain in the fuller sunshine of later months. The custom has been to supply this with cod liver oil. We are now told that sardines and, possibly, all fat fish contain it. Maybe we have been taking a spring tonic without knowing it when we ate sardines and mackerel.

FIRST FIND THE CAUSE.

E. H. writes: Could you give me a remedy or cure for eczema of the hands? I have been bothered with it for a year. It first appeared as a pimple between two fingers of one hand and since then it has spread to both hands, and is nearly up to the elbow of both. I have tried everything within my limited power to cure it. The itch has become unbearable.

REPLY.

Ninety-nine out of each one hundred cases of eczema of the hands are due to two causes: Exposure of the hands to some poison or infection with a fungus. What do your hands touch that might be poisonous to your skin? Have you been examined for ringworms? To find the cause and remove that will result in cure.

BIRMINGHAM RALLIES TO GAIN 5-5 TIE WITH NATS

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK April 3.—Some men were sitting in a room in a hotel one evening talking away the night before a big football game. One of them was semibald, blocky, with a crumpled nose and crinkled, almost squinty eyes—Knute Rockne. He was smoking a cigar and dabbing off the ashes on a saucer, talking about commercialism in sport and defending it with clever, slightly cynical arguments.

"Get the money, Rock," one of his friends said. "You are on the wave now, so get it while you can. Suppose you were to die today. Notre Dame would name a stadium after you, and a lot of good that would do your wife and kid."

For several years Knute had been driving himself to get the money. He coached Notre Dame, he ran schools of instruction for coaches, he lectured on the air and on the platform he sponsored a line of sporting goods, he wrote for the newspapers and magazines, he worked in the movies and the talkies, he joined a brokerage firm, and recently, after long association with an automobile firm as a sort of cheer leader for the salesmen, he was made superintendent of promotion, or chief booster.

His health wobbled and he almost died, but as soon as he could drive himself back to work he was back. He was in Rochester, Minn.; then he bobbed up in Miami. New York saw him for a few days, and then the press associations carried interviews with him given at points along the line toward the Pacific Coast. He was getting the money so that when he died his wife and kids might have something more substantial to see them through than a library of fair-weather newspaper clippings, loving cups, group photographs of past-grand football teams and pewter footballs washed in gilt.

Worked for Wife and Kids

I always thought Knute was a little bit dazed to find himself a man of such prominence or importance in the country and that consequently the obligations of all this celebrity away from his campus imposed a strain on his nerves. He was confident but modest and it was not easy for him to act the part of a great national figure. But the newspapers and the people insisted that he was great, and, after al, it was pleasant up there where he was among the gods, with the President, Lindbergh, Ruth and Dempsey. So, although he never took their word for it literally, he didn't argue against the proposition that he was a great man and accepted the perquisites of his position against that moment when the plane collapsed over Kansas.

He was sensitive and easily depressed, and one night last fall he was going to resign at Notre Dame and chuck public life because in a rather fulsome essay on his appearance, his achievements and his shrewd intelligence I had led off by saying that on my first glimpse of him he resembled a retired prize fighter. He was raging over this when Joe Williams, the sports writer, dropped in. Already he had telephoned a friend in Chicago that he was through.

"Well," Mr. Williams said, "what's the matter with this? It says here that when you get up to speak your wit is like champagne from an old, dented oil can. I'd say the guy was in love with you from this. What does a fellow have to do to boost you?"

"That stuff about the prize fighter," said Knute. "I never was a prize fighter."

"Well," Mr. Williams insisted, soothingly, "Tunney was. Maybe it's a boost. And, anyway, now that I take a good look at you, Mr. Rockne, I'd never take you for Barrymore."

In a few days it blew over. Knute had been sick again and the worry and stress of his job and the uncertainty about his recovery had made him irritable. In a similar mood, a few years before, he had fallen to brooding on the ephemerality of fame and, underrating his importance, had allowed some men from Columbia University to sign him to a conditional contract as coach of their school. He couldn't realize what a man he was and, far from understanding that he was doing Columbia a favor, he thought Columbia was complimenting him.

Underrated His Own Fame

Off his own campus Knute was becoming more and more a showman with a character to play. He was a good phrase-maker, and when the campaign to de-emphasize and decommercialize football began, Rockne took the other extreme and also the offensive. After the last football season, as he was crossing the country on one of his commuter's trips, he said the talk of overemphasis was merely the wail of the poor loser. It came from the East and the East wasn't producing football players game enough to stand the punishment of football.

This opinion came at the close of the season in which Carideo and Brill, the Eastern boys, had played in the back field on his greatest team, and, of course, it was controversial matter. But, by this time, Rockne was a syndicate specialty and an advertising medium, and I think people who might have argued with him reckoned that Knute had said it to draw fire and thus promote the interests of the people who were hiring him for the good that his fame would do them. Knute was a good critic with an outspoken manner, but, like Sinclair Lewis, he was sensitive and resentful of criticism himself.

When Ban Johnson died I noticed that some of the men who had exulted over his fall issued the customary platitudes about his having been an outstanding figure and so forth, but Rockne had no enemies that I know of. He had some opponents on matters of argument and I contended that a coach who stood for a team and a school as

WEST POINT, N. Y., April 3 (A.P.).—Opponents of the possible evils of overemphasis of football suffered a severe blow in Knute Rockne's death.

In life this great leader did more for American youth through his many outstanding virtues as a leader and molder of men than any other American. In death the entire Nation extolls the high ideals which he inculcated in every youth with whom he came in contact. Perhaps football is overemphasized. But if it is, American parents have much to be thankful for with men like Knute Rockne emphasizing the manly virtues of clean living, fair play and good sportsmanship.

It was my great privilege to know "Rock" intimately. Last June he was our house guest at West Point. A few weeks ago we spent considerable time together in Atlanta, Ga., and he invited me to spend a week with him at Notre Dame watching his spring practice.

Invited Chief Foe To Watch Practice.

During the past few years the Army-Notre Dame game has been the climax contest for the two schools. We both played post-season games, but our schedules officially closed with our game. "Rock" with his great sportsmanship, did not hesitate to invite me as coach of possibly his principal opponent to attend his practice, where naturally I would learn considerably more about the wonderful system which he has installed.

Last June at West Point, "Rock" described a new play which he was contemplating using during the past season. It was a double spinner; that is, the back instead of spinning once would spin twice, a play I never heard of and which I am almost certain has never been tried in a game. He was greatly amused at my comment that the play would undoubtedly work, providing the ball carrier had a Spanish shawl and castinets. At later meetings he frequently mentioned the play, but did not use it at all last year.

Used Army Touchdown To Teach Alertness.

One of "Rock's" stories which he frequently told his squads to illustrate the necessity for alertness and smartness, was in connection with the Four Horsemen team in the 1924 game when Notre Dame beat us 13 to 7. The score indicates that the game was close and that "Rock's" great team, perhaps his best, was not having exactly a walkaway. The play in which Army scored and which "Rock" commented on was one in which "Chick" Harding, Army quarter back, now a pilot in the air service, received the ball and after a fake smash at tackle, dashed around the end, fooling the entire Notre Dame team and scoring a touchdown.

One of the Notre Dame games which Army followers love to recall was the 1927 contest. We had lost in 1926 by a score of 7 to 0, when one of the famous Rockne combinations produced a perfect play with Flanagan running 63 yards for a touchdown. We adopted the play the next year and in the first period Cagle duplicated Flanagan's run.

Never Failed to Visit Army Showers.

Rockne never failed to visit the Army dressing rooms after our games. He would speak to the various players, complimenting those who had done well, mentioning specific incidents and as Notre Dame usually won, do considerable to revive the spirits of our players. Immediately after the Chicago game last fall, I ran across the field to the Notre Dame bench to congratulate "Rock." With wonderful tact he put his arm around my shoulder, saying:

"Ralph, you're a great fighter and so is your team, exactly like all Army teams."

"Rock" knew football far better than any other person who has ever been connected with the sport. Walter Camp was a great exponent of sportsmanship, Percy Haughton's forte was technique, but in Rockne we had a man who thoroughly understood the psychology of men, a keen technician on every phase of the game, and well versed in the relationship of colleges. He combined the virtues of both Camp and Haughton.

Notre Dame next season will undoubtedly be one of the strongest, if not the strongest team in the country. With Knute Rockne's spirit as an inspiration, each member of the Irish squad will be a standard bearer, determined to prove to a willing world that Knute Rockne's spirit still lives.

Yankees' Big Guns Silent as Atlanta Club Wins, 8-4.

PHILADELPHIA, April 3 (A.P.).—Although outhit, the Phillies trimmed the world champion Athletics, 7 to 5, at Shibe Park today as the two teams met in the first of a five-game series for the championship of Philadelphia.

The Athletics clubbed Harold Elliott for fifteen hits, but the Phillies' hurler was tight in the pinches, holding the champions at bay until his teammates had established a safe lead. The Phillies got only nine hits off Walberg, McDonald and Krausse, but two of them were home runs by Arlett and Davis, the latter's coming in the ninth with one man on base.

Yanks Again Beaten By Atlanta.

Atlanta, Ga., April 3 (A.P.).—The Yankees' big guns were silent today as the Atlanta Club of the Southern Association won its second game of the spring season from the American League organization. The score was 8 to 4.

Spotted a four-run lead in the first, which mounted to seven in the third, Johnny Morrison, once of the big time, and Paul Gregory held the Yanks to five hits. Blondy Ryan, Atlanta shortstop, played an important role in Atlanta's early attack, getting a home run in each of the first and third innings. Babe Ruth failed to get a hit.

Portland Pitcher Baffles Tigers.

Oakland, Calif., April 3 (A.P.).—The Detroit Tigers couldn't solve the delivery of one Fred Ortman, recently of Portland, and were let down with two hits today as Oakland captured the second of a five-game exhibition series, 6-1.

Marty McManus scored the lone Tiger tally in the fifth inning on a double, a steal of third and a fly from the bat of Haryworth. Akers contributed the only other Tiger hit, a single.

Little Rock, Ark., April 3 (A.P.).—Red Faber and Tommy Thomas, two of the mysteries of the Chicago White Sox pitching staff, performed well enough today to give the Sox a 6-to-2 victory over the Little Rock Travelers.

Faber, without extending himself, held the opposition to eight hits in five innings, with Thomas finishing in encouraging style. Carl Reynolds headed the Sox assault of seventeen blows with a triple, double and a pair of singles.

His Louisville medical advisers pronounced him fit for service, but Collins shipped him to Columbus, Ohio, where he will be examined by Dr. Robert Drury, who is financially interested in the Red Sox.

Fonseca Shows Form In Batting Drill.

New Orleans, La., April 3 (A.P.).—Summer weather came back today and gave the Cleveland Indians an opportunity to find out how deficient they are in batting. It was one of the best workouts of the training period.

Among the batters the practice showed up was Lew Fonseca, who has been unable to hit his stride at the plate. He is trying to hold the first-base job against the assault of Eddie Morgan.

THE MAYOR OF "TANKTOWN" near St Louis
LIVES IN A CAST-OFF BREWERY TANK

"CLAUDO" has the distinction of being the only man alive who can earn his living without making a single move. Yet Claudo's job might easily be the most difficult in the world. If you doubt it try keeping your eyes open for one and a half hours without batting them a single time—or try standing in the same spot without making the slightest move. Sometimes Claudo becomes a wooden soldier and, at long intervals, moves with jerky motions. So real are his make-up and acting that nine out of ten witnesses think they are seeing a robot.

"Tanktown," on the outskirts of St. Louis, has about 100 inhabitants. They are just another hundred that were hit by the business depression and gladly occupy their rent-free homes. The citizens work together and share all profits and food. There are not many civic problems but the residents of Tanktown have elected a mayor and give him the biggest brewery tank in the village. The huge tanks were consigned to the junk pile when the United States went "dry."

Worthington's Home Run Off Thurston Breaks Up Game.

MACON, Ga., April 3 (A.P.).—Red Worthington's home run in the eleventh inning broke up a pitchers' duel and gave the Boston Braves a 5-to-3 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers today.

Worthington's clout sailed over the distant left field fence and came on the heels of Rabbit Maranville's single. Hollis Thurston was on the mound when the former Rochester slugger broke up the game. Worthington also figured in the Braves' three-run attack in the first inning, connecting with a triple.

Brooklyn had chances to win the game in the seventh and again in the ninth and tenth innings, but failed to hit with men on base.

U. S. CUP DUO BEATEN IN 5 SETS

Sutter - Vines Upset Lott-Van Ryn at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, April 3 (U.P.).—Ellsworth Vines, of Pasadena, and Cliff Sutter, New Orleans, youngsters never paired in tournament play before, proved themselves worthy of Davis Cup consideration today when they defeated the Davis Cup combination, George Lott and John Van Ryn, 6—3, 6—1, 4—6, 4—6, 6—3, in the doubles finals of the New Orleans Country Club invitation tennis tournament.

In Van Ryn's inability to win his services in the first two and finals sets, and Vines' smashing net play throughout, lies the story of the match. Lot and Sutter duplicated each other with steady, consistent performances in services and court play, with Sutter the steadier.

The Davis Cup players were on the defensive throughout the match. Vines' drives kept them playing deep, while Sutter's deft placements to the alley caught them flatfooted, far out of position, time after time.

Lott-Van Ryn Lack Team Work.

Lott's play extended the match to five sets. The Chicagoan was all over the court. But neither he nor Van Ryn could solve their opponents' drives to mid-center court. Often each swung at the air together as a sizzling smash cut between them. Then when Sutter had shot over a placement that prevented an accurate return, Vines would smash the weakslofts or drives for an "over the backstop" kill.

After the first two games of the deciding set there was no doubt of the result. Sutter lost his service, but Lott lost his to even things. Vines won the third at love, and then he and Sutter took a love game from Van Ryn to make it 3-1. Sutter allowed but 1 point to win his second service, but Lott came back to take his, and the Davis Cup combination followed by taking Vine's service for their last game. Van Ryn lost his second service to bring the score to 3-5.

Suter Wins Service In Decisive Game.

Then in the final game Little Cliff took his own service again, acing Van Ryn once, and allowing but 1 point.

Sutter and Vines had advanced to the semifinals this morning by winning from Murray and Bayon, New Orleans, 8—6, 6—3, 6—1, while Lott and Van Ryn were defeating Barr and Quick, of Dallas, 6—1, 4—6, 7—5, 3—6, 6—3.

It was announced the deciding semifinals singles set between Van Ryn and Sutter would be canceled and that they would play the whole match over tomorrow afternoon. They were stalemated at dark yesterday with two sets each. The winner will meet Lott in the finals Sunday.

MARYLAND U. BOWS, 7-0, TO N. C. STATE

Lanning Averts Rally, Fanning 3 in Row in Scoring Shutout.

Special to The Washington Post.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 3.—North Carolina State College opened its 1931 baseball schedule here today by defeating Maryland University, 7-0, in a Tristate League game before 2,000 fans.

John Lanning, sophomore hurler for State, went to the mound with a man on second and third and none out in the first, retired the next three men by striking them out and added six more innings of great ball pitching before leaving the box. Lanning was touched for six hits in the seven innings. He struck out six Old Liners, hit one and issued no free passes. On top of that, Lanning cracked out two doubles in three trips to the plate, scoring five runs.

Seitz, who relieved Lanning, allowed no hits in two innings.

State Scores Five In Fourth.

State's big inning came in the fourth, when a hit batter, two walks, Lanning's second double and singles by Morris and Brake scored five runs. The other two tallies came in the third inning, when two men were walked and Lanning sent them home with his first two-bagger.

Cronin, of Maryland, poled out a three-bagger and Berger, of Maryland, and Hargrove, of State, were other men getting doubles.

Marathoner, 65, Dog at Side, Finishes Grind Amid Cheers

TORONTO, April 3 (A.P.).—A 65-year-old marathon runner, A. Monteverde, of Mays Landing, N. J., shared the plaudits with the winner in the fourth annual Toronto marathon today.

Accompanied by his dog, Pal, Monteverde ran the entire distance of 26 miles over hard asphalt and cobblestones, and although he was the last to finish he was given a rousing reception by the crowd and was awarded a special cup for his feat.

Johnny Cuthbert, determined little Scot from Guelph, Ont., won the race in 2 hours 40 minutes 55 seconds, finishing the grind apparently as fresh as when he started. Frank Hughes, of Hamilton, was second, a quarter-mile behind and Percy Wyer, 48-year-old Toronto veteran, finished third.

Chicago, April 3 (A.P.).—Lu Blue, star first baseman of the St. Louis Browns, was purchased by the Chicago White Sox today, Secretary Harry Grabiner said. He declined to reveal the amount of cash involved.

Blue, one of the best fielding first-sackers in the major leagues, has a lifetime batting average of about .293. He was traded by Detroit to St. Louis several years ago. Grabiner said Blue would report to the Sox in Atlanta Tuesday. He will probably replace Johnny Watwood at first base.

Barons Held to Lone Hit for 6 Innings by Veteran.

Brown Makes Effort to Last Game Today Against Barons.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Post Staff Correspondent).

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 3.—The Nats and Clyde Milan's Birmingham Barons this afternoon battled to a 5-all tie, the game being called at the end of the regulation nine innings because of darkness. That the locals managed to get as good as a draw was another one of those sacrifices in the interest of science and exploration, as Manager Walter Johnson wanted to see if Pitcher Al Crowder could go the route, and gave him no help.

"The General" had started in but one other game this spring, and then went only three frames, and going the route today proved to be just a trifle too much for him. For six innings he was almost invincible, a bunt being the only hit charged against him, while only one Baron got as far as second. Two singles and a walk gave Birmingham a run in the seventh, however; an error by Cronin, a double, a pass and two singles netted three more in the eighth, while another double, two bases on balls, one intentional, and a fly deep enough to score a runner from third was good for another in the ninth.

West's Home Run Gains Lead.

This quintet of Baron runs equaled the total compiled by the Nationals, who broke the ice in the first. This marker was made from an error, a walk and singles by Cronin and Judge. Sammy West personally accounted for another run in the fourth, when he led off with a home-run drive deep in the right-field stands—a prodigious clout, about 345 feet against a strong wind. Two walks, an error and West's single were useed to make a third marker in round 6, and the Nats called it a day in the eighth when Crowder singled West and Bluege home after a respective walk and a double.

The Nationals outhit their hosts, 8 to 6, with West being the only player to get more than one safety. He cracked out a clean single in addition to his round tripper. While charged with two miscues, the Barons looked flashy afield, their midget second-base combination of Cortazzo and Bancroft teaming up like major leaguers and turning in two lightning double plays.

Brown to Go Route In Game Today.

The Barons will be met here again tomorrow, with Lloyd Brown named by Manager Walter Johnson as his starting pitcher and finisher, too. The work of this young left-hander, who won sixteen games for the Nationals last season, will be watched with particular interest by the Washington leader as he intimated tonight that he looks for "Brownie" to be the outstanding pitcher to which he has been referring in his off-season predictions.

As Johnson sees things, had one of his flingers stepped out ahead of the others, his team would have beaten out the Athletics last year and he bases his 1931 pennant hopes on something like this occurring. Before the players reported, Johnson's

BLACK PATRICIA WINS BY STRETCH RUN AT BOWIE

Pace Setters In Feature Overtaken

Remillard Also Gets Nealon Kay Home by Nose Margin.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

F. SANSOME'S Black Patrica won the holiday feature at Bowie yesterday, the Madonna Handicap for fillies and mares, under a good ride by Pat Remillard, the new sensation in jockeys. Aziz was second and Patricia Marian third. Sister Zoe, the favorite, was never prominent in the 7-furlong race. The winner paid $8.20. Time, 1:29 1-5.

The largest crowd of the meeting was out, the weather was pleasant, and the managers of the Bowie track were more optimistic than they have been, attributing the leaner days this week to the weather more than to the general depression. The track was heavy and holding.

The feature of the day proved to be the riding of Remillard. In addition to bringing home Black Patricia, he rode Nealon Kay with a grand finish to victory in the fifth race, passing A. Robertson and making a total of eight winning rides in the five days at this meeting. His other winner was on Calgary Kay.

Takes Winner Off Early Pace.

Remillard took Black Patricia off the early pace, moved up to second turning into the home stretch, and drew away to win by two lengths, while Patricia Marian, which had raced Aziz into defeat and taken the lead, was helpless in the final stretch run. Black Patricia taking command at the sixteenth, and Aziz, coming again, getting the place by three-fourths of a length from Patricia Marian. Sister Zoe never had any speed in the race, but under hard urging managed to save ground after the first half mile. Five fillies started, Rocket Glare and Toney Princess having been withdrawn.

W. L. Hernstadt's gray gelding, Royal Stone, won the first race for 2-year-olds, with Robertson up, making the sixth of the meeting for the C. V. Whitney jockey, but when Remillard came along with three, the Wisconsin boy had left Robertson behind by two races. White Toes, the favorite, failed by a length and a half, but was second, beating Eljaybe by a short nose for the place. Royal Stone, quick to get going, took command at the stretch, passing Lavender Lady. The winner paid $16.10.

Tewsenelda Tires in Second Race.

Calgary Kay, the close second choice, won the second race, starting Romillard on his triple, and tying Robertson. Tewsenelda, which set all the pace to the sixteenth pole, a 10-to-1 shot, began to tire, but held the place, paying $8.90 for second. Stupendous, the favorite, was third. Remillard had a slight hold on Calgary Kay, but drove through the stretch. The winner was $6.90.

The Glen Riddle Stable's Sea Fox had an easy time winning the third race. He took the lead at the half and won by a length and a half. Erickson had been substituted for R. Fischer on Sea Fox. Mine Sweeper closed with a rush and nosed out Quick Thinker, a 35-to-1 shot, which had set the early pace, for the place. Sea Fox was not well ridden by Erickson. The Man o' War gelding, a 3-year-old, had speed in reserve, but was unnecessarily rushed to the front after a poor getaway.

Nealon Kay Ridden Out In Winning Fifth.

In the fifth race, which proved the eighth winner for Remillard, Nealon Kay was ridden out to catch Sunny Port in the last stride for a head victory. Sunny Port was sent into a long lead, and finished gamely, paying $17.20 for place. Moon Phase was third. Like "Snapper" Garrison, Remillard seems to do his riding in the stretch, conserving his mount until it is necessary to begin a drive for the wire. Nealon Kay was favorite and paid $5.30.

Negodale was much the best in the sixth race, drawing away from Otilla in the stretch. Otilla held the place and Bob Shannon was third. Negodale was heavily played, and was the first horse to win two races at the meeting. Meade had the mount. Negodale had a margin of six lengths and paid $6.70.

C. H. Hughes' Ruane won the seventh, drawing away to a two length margin, with Stevens up. Bask was second and Zahn third. The winner paid $7.60. Ruane was rated off the early pace, but saved ground and went around the leaders in the stretch to assume command. Zahn was lucky to get through on the inside in the stretch and finished strong.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ROYAL STONE, $16.10, $6.20, $4.10; WHITE TOES, $4.30, $3.10; ELJAYBE, $3.50.

ROYAL STONE, quick to get going, took command on the stretch turn and, responding with good courage under pressure, always held his opposition safe. WHITE TOES, buffeted about the first sixteenth, saved ground the entire trip and outlasted ELJAYBE in the final drive. ELJAYBE broke and raced greenly. He displayed good speed the first quarter mile and moved into prominence, but then weakened in the last few strides. TOM raced greenly.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CALGARY KAY, $6.90, $4.30, $2.90; TEWSENELDA, $8.90, $4.50; STUPENDOUS, $2.70.

CALGARY KAY followed the leaders well up under light restraint until straightened out in the stretch, closed with determination when called upon and wore TEWSENELDA down in the final drive. The latter, quickest to get going, was rushed into a long lead rounding the turn and weakened when the final test came. STUPENDOUS broke in tight quarters. She gradually improved her position and outstayed the tiring SAND BELL down the last sixteenth. SAND BELL, a fewward factor for six furlongs, tired as if short in the stretch run. FAYLIN and ROYAL MYSTERY displayed a flash of speed in the early stages.

THIRD RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,200. The Ken Oak. For 3-year-old colts and geldings. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:35. Off at 3:38½. Winner, Glen Riddle Farm's ch. g. (3), by Man o' War—Thrasher. Trained by W. R. Midgley. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:50, 1:10 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SEA FOX, $5.90, $4.10, $3.10; MINE SWEEPER, $6.00, $4.60; QUICK THINKER, $9.70.

SEA FOX went forwardly the early running under slight restraint. He took command on the stretch turn at his leisure and came wide entering the stretch but, going gamely, always held sway and won with speed in reserve. MINE SWEEPER, slow to get going, gradually improved his position on the inside, wore QUICK THINKER down the last stride. The latter showed good early speed and responded well under punishment the final furlong, but then weakened in the final strides. TRICE raced evenly. DANCING MACK broke alertly, but was in close quarters at the half-mile pole and was crowded back. PORTCODINE was eased up in the stretch run.

FOURTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,500. The Madonna Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:10. Off at 4:13. Winner, F. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BLACK PATRICIA, $8.20, $4.00, $3.10; AZIZ, $5.30, $3.90; PATRICIA MARIAN, $4.50.

BLACK PATRICIA, taken back off the early pace, steadily improved her position the last three furlongs and, coming to the outside of the leaders when straightened out in the stretch, drew away the last furlong. AZIZ forced a rapid early pace and shook off PATRICIA MARIAN in the stretch drive. The latter, hard ridden the early running, set a fast pace in the going and then weakened when the final test came. SISTER ZOE lacked speed and was far back the first half mile. She was hard urged and saved ground thereafter, but was never able to overhaul the leaders. SAPPHIRE SKY was outrun the final furlong.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:42. Off at 4:42. Winner, Mrs. B. E. Two-dollar mutuels paid—NEALON KAY, $5.30, $3.60, $2.80; SUNNY PORT, $17.20, $9.90; MOON PHASE, $4.00.

NEALON KAY, steadily restrained the first six furlongs, closed courageously under a strong hand ride through the stretch to wear SUNNY PORT down when the final test came. SUNNY PORT, hustled into the lead going to the first turn, shook off repeated challenges from RUNDALE the early stages and drew out entering the stretch, but then weakened slightly the last sixteenth. MOON PHASE, a forward contender all the way, made a bold bid entering the stretch, but faltered in the stretch run. RUNDALE, used up chasing the early pace, tired in the last furlong. VOWED VENGEANCE retired after going half a mile.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:10½. Off at 5:11. Winner, Miss B. Two-dollar mutuels paid—NEGODALE, $6.70, $3.90, $3.10; OTILLA, $5.20, $3.70; BOB SHANNON, $4.00.

NEGODALE, hustled clear of interference the first furlong, drew clear rounding the turn. He was steadied in front for the first six furlongs, then opened up a commanding lead to win in hand. OTILLA moved up stoutly at the half-mile pole, but then dropped back, but came again on the outside under punishment. BOB SHANNON, under restraint the early stages, moved up stoutly around the last turn, but stumbled on the stretch turn and then weakened the last furlong. ISOSTASY lacked speed, but finished stoutly. SEA RIP retired after going six furlongs.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, 1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:42. Off at 5:42. Winner, C. H. Two-dollar mutuels paid—RUANE, $7.50, $5.50, $4.70; BASK, $22.10, $11.20; ZAHN, $6.60.

RUANE, rated off the pace and saving ground the first half mile, went around the leaders with a rush on the stretch turn and, assuming command, won as his rider pleased. BASK, prominent all the way, finished gamely under punishment the final furlong and easily disposed of the others. ZAHN, outrun for six furlongs, stole through on the inside entering the stretch and finished stoutly under punishment. WRENCH showed the most early speed, but began to weaken the last quarter mile and swerved badly through the stretch. PETER PETER, well handled, had no excuses. MONTFERRAT, nearest in pursuit of the leader in the early running, stopped badly when the final issue came.

"BILL" DALY, EX-JOCKEY, DIES AT 92

Veteran Also Known as Developer of Star Riders.

NEW YORK, April 3 (A.P.).—"Father Bill" Daly, a horse racing ancient, who tutored such riding immortals as "Snapper" Garrison, Tod Sloan and Jimmy McLaughlin back in an almost forgotten day, has passed at last into track history.

"Father Bill," christened William C. Daly, 92 years ago, died yesterday at his home in Brooklyn, but news of the passing of one of the most colorful of racing figures did not become known until today. He was born in Ireland and was brought to the United States at the age of 8.

By the time he was 17, Daly was a well-known figure around Eastern tracks, and one of the best jockeys of his time.

Like "Snapper" Garrison, a protege, who became famous for the "Garrison finish," "Father Bill" had a manner of riding named after him. Turf writers still refer to a rider "going out on a Bill Daly." They mean the jockey took the lead the instant the barrier snapped and held it as long as the horse under him had any legs left.

"Father Daly" preached that doctrine when he gave up riding to train jockeys and he put them through a school that was stern and exacting.

"Get out there; stay out there, and if your horse starts quitting, then ride like hell," was his advice to the youngsters he developeed.

Settles Down to New York Tracks.

In later years "Father Bill" followed the ponies throughout the country. Many years ago he lost a leg in an accident, but the loss failed to curtail his activities.

"Father Bill" boasted he had developed 34 first-string jockeys. At one time he raced quite a pretentious stable. Among his horses was Sir George, which he sold to Richard Croker, then the head of Tammany Hall. His Sailor Boy once beat the famous Broomstick at Belmont Park.

"Father Bill" Daly, one of the colorful and eccentric patriarchs of the turf, was chiefly known for his development of superior jockeys, but he also raced and trained many good horses.

Winnie O'Connor, who rode for the kaiser after leaving this country, and later for King Alfonso, got his hard knocks in the school of Father Bill. Ed H. "Snapper" Garrison was another graduate from the Daly school. Other jockey kings were James McLaughlin, big stake rider; Willie Brennan, now foreman of the Greentree Stable; Micky Miles, a prominent rider of a few years back; Jim Lambley, Willie Palmer, Johnny Lambley and others. No man has ever developed as many prominent riders. "They were on the level," Daly said a few weeks ago. "When a boy under me showed the least signs of straying from the paths of honesty, I whipped him with a barrel stave."

Daly had many famous horses, both on the flat and steeplechasers. He owned Prince George, which he sold to Richard Croker for a large sum. He regarded Civil Service as the leading sprinter of the times, although a cripple. Anna Louretta Stone, Lizzie, Lapanter, Dollar and others won many races.

UNITEDS MEET SAKS TEAM ON A. A. U. COURT CARD

Arundel Five, Scholastics To Clash

Baltimore Champions Meet Capital Title-Holders Tonight.

Invaders Bring Veteran Team to Tech High Gymnasium.

OFFICIALS of the District A. A. U. last night matched the Saks Clothiers and the United Typewriter Uniteds as the added attraction to be played before tonight's intercity, inter-A. A. U. division unlimited game between the Arundel Boat Club, South Atlantic A. A. U. champions and the Potomac Boat Club Scholastics, recent winners of The Post's-A. A. U. crown.

It was originally planned to have the crack Clothier outfit, which has won 4 0out of 42 contests this year, stack up with the Boy's Club Big Five, winners of the D. C. Amateur League and one of the two teams who administered the Clothiers a defeat. But the Boy's Club announced yesterda afternoon that the Big Five had disbanded for the season and could not conveniently be corralled.

Uniteds Seek Revenge For Previous Loss.

The United Typewriter Uniteds, boasting of an array of talent not equaled by any team in the District, even including the Scholastics, consented to play the Clothiers. The Typos have two more on their otherwise perfect slate and one of these was caused by the Clotrier outfit. The game, however, was played when the Typos were without the services of Bob Freeman, all-High guard with Western High last year and rated the best center in the city.

The Typos were heavy favorites to win the unlimited crown in The Post's-A. A. U. tournament, but fell before the inspired play of the Clovers in the biggest upset of the joust. Before their fall the Typos had broken the high-scoring mark of tournament history by beating the Trinity Five, 72 to 13. In the Typo line-up is Forrest Burgess, leading Collegiate scorer last season; Scheele, Duryee and Freeman.

The Clothiers are a small club, but certainly the fast aggregation now playing hereabouts. The club is made up mostly of high school stars, and has in the line-up Bobby Lucas, captain of the 131 Business Team, and adjudged the finest dribbler now doing local playing.

Baltimoreans Won Title 4 Times.

News from Baltimore yesterday caused further concern in the camp of the Scholastics. The Arundel outfit is particularly keen over winning the intercity match, and held a vigorous practice yesterday in turning up for the event. The club is made up of the same five men who have won the South Atlantic title four straight times, and who, in 1929, defeated the Typewriter Grays, District A. A. U. champs, with great dispatch.

The Scholastics also drilled yesterday and appear keen to give the city a victory. Dallas Shirley, cocky leader of the Scholastics, reported last night that the squad was in good shape and that a victory was on the horizon.

The big game starts at 9 o'clock, with the Clothier-Typo struggle carded for an hour earlier.

Cornell Wins Box Duel At Bridgewater, 3 to 2

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., April 3.—Cornell gained a 3-to-2 decision from Bridgewater College today in a brilliant mound duel between Stevens, visiting ace, and Jim Moyers, Eagles star. Both twirlers turned in remarkable exhibitions for so early in the season.

Moyers limited Cornell to seven hits, but saw two errors cost runs. Poor base running cost Bridgewater a tie in the eighth following triples by Shaver and Will. Stevens was nicked for ten safeties and he issued the lone pass of the day.

DETROIT FANS EYE ROOKIE OUTFIELDERS

Detroit baseball fans may see a brother act this year that will rival the Waner and Waner combination of Pittsburgh. Gerald and Harvey Walker are the brothers. Coming up from the Three Eye League, the two look good for major league outfield posts. Waite Hoyt, star hurler, and Charlie Gehringer, one of the best second basemen in the majors, are two veterans upon whom Manager Bucky Harris is depending to keep the Tigers in the race.

TITLE FIGHT SLATED FOR CLEVELAND

Carey's Chicago Aid to Name Site on April 15.

NEW YORK, April 3 (A.P.).—William F. Carey, president of the Madison Square Corporation, announced tonight that final disposition of the proposed heavyweight match between Max Schmeling and Young Stribling would be made by Sheldon Clark, his Chicago associate, on April 15.

At that time, Carey said, Clark will name a definite site for the battle. It was understood Cleveland stood the best chance of landing the bout, since Chicago virtually had been eliminated as a contender.

Milk Fund Aligned With Johnston.

Although no formal announcement had been made, it is understood that the Hearst Milk Fund, which decided early in the week to have nothing more to do with the Schmeling-Stribling affair, has aligned itself with Jimmy Johnston, Madison Square's new promotorial rival.

Working together, the milk fund committee and Johnston hope to promote a bout between Jack Sharkey and either Mickey Walker or Primo Carnera in July. Johnston has signed Sharkey to fight for him three times this summer at Ebetts Field.

The only thing in the way of such a match is the fact that both Walker and Carnera are under suspension by the New York Boxing Commission, Walker for failure to defend his middleweight crown and Carnera for his recent fungo-hitting tour.

Commission Willing To Forgive.

It is understood the commission is willing to forgive and forget in Walker's case, however, providing Mickey will forsake his title before taking on Sharkey.

Walker is eager for a shot at the Boston Gob, but Sharkey has not been noticeably enthusiastic at the prospect of meeting the Toy Bull Dog. Sharkey has everything to lose in such a bout, his friends say, and very little to gain.

TRACK MEET POSTPONED.

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., April 3.—Track meet schedule here yesterday between Hargrave Military Academy, Chatham and Glass High School was postponed until next Thursday on account of wet field.

GEORGIA TECH BEATEN.

Atlanta, Ga., April 3 (A.P.).—Outz, Gamecock hurler, made Georgia Tech batsmen scatter their eight hits throughout the game while his teammates counted early in the fray with six hits to win their baseball game today with the Yellow Jackets, 4 to 3.

Alexandria Sports

ALEXANDRIA, Va., April 3.—Fourteen baseball games will be played by the Alexandria High School tossers this season, it was announced today by "Squire" Given, athletic director of the Twins, as given out in his official schedule for the 1930 campaign on the diamond.

On April 10, the Washington and Lee High School Team, of Ballston, Va., will be met in the opening contest on the Twins' schedule. This contest will be played away from home, as will the next game with Hyattsville High nine on April 14. Business High tossers, of Washington, will officially open the Twins' schedule in Alexandria on April 17.

Given has booked five foreign contests. The longest trip will be to Fredericksburg, Va., to mix with the Yellowjackets. The season for the Twins will end on May 29 with a game against Manassas High here.

The schedule:

April 10, W. & L. High School, away; 14, Hyattsville, away; 17, Business High, here; 21, Fredericksburg, away; 24, Charlotte Hall, here; 29, Western, here; May 1, Charlotte Hall, away; 6, Business, away; 8, Fredericksburg, here; 11, Eastern, away; 13, Manassas, away; 19, Hyattsville, here; 22, W. & L., here; 29, Manassas, here.

The executive committee of the Third District Athletic Association, controlling athletics in this sector, met at the Alexandria High School yesterday afternoon and decided Margolas Lowery, star outfielder with the Fredericksburg High School Team, was ineligible for baseball competition in District No. 3.

Chairman Henry T. Moncure presided. The session was held at the request of R. B. Neill, athletic director of Fredericksburg High School.

The following resolution on the matter was adopted:

1. That there was an eligibility statement transferred between the schools at the time Mr. Lowery played. He was certified as a bona-fide student in Fredericksburg High School.

2. That there was, and is, a four-year limitation in all contracts used by the league which prohibits a student to represent his school more than four years.

3. That the committee has power to rule on eligibility within the district, as the case of Mr. Goodwin, of W. and L., the fall of last year. If the league secretary sees fit to rule Mr. Lowery eligible for intra-district games the committee claims no jurisdiction over the matter between the district, therefore Mr. Lowery has been certified for four years and has played for four years as a member of the Fredericksburg High School varsity team and in our opinion is ineligible for further competition in District No. 3. The fact that he was certified while in the seventh grade does not alter the fact that he represented his school for four years.

HENRY T. MONCURE,
Chairman.
S. D. VANDERSLICE.
A. R. PULLEN.

The ruling on Lowery ends the case as far as the Third District is concerned and specifies that Mr. Kaufmann's rulings for Third District competition will be ignored.

V. M. I. BEATS DARTMOUTH AGAIN, 4-2

Outten's Homer With One On in Fourth Features Victory.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., April 3.—The Virginia Military Institute today took the second straight game from Dartmouth, score, 4 to 2. Dartmouth used two pitchers, who allowed eleven hits. Two moundsmen were used also by the Keydets, and the Hanoverians were held to five hits.

The first home run of the season was scored by Outten, of V. M. I., in the fourth inning, bringing in one man. Another runner counted that inning, for the last tally of the game. Dartmouth picked up one run in each of the second and third, and was held scoreless by Shomo the balance of the game.

The Cadets showed better form than they used in defeating the Greenies yesterday. For the first time this season, they played errorless ball. Hitting was consistent, and Raferty's charges seem to have gotten over their bad start.

Dartmouth Fails To Threaten.

Dartmouth failed to threaten after the third inning, and did not play as well as yesterday. Tomorrow Dartmouth plays Georgetown in Washington; and the Yale Team plays the first of two games with the Cadets.

SAYS PEGLER

he did was exceeding his rights when he committed the school and the team along with himself to one group of newspapers when he hired out as a trained seal during the football season. He admitted that his value as a writer was not in excess of $3,000 a year, but he was getting big money.

The fact is that Knute was on the point of outgrowing his job as coach at Notre Dame. He was more famous than the school and the character of the school itself as an institution of learning was becoming obscured. Rather it was coming to be known as the school at which Knute Rockne turned out great football teams. Moreover, as his central practice in sidelines expanded, his job as varsity coach was diminishing in relative importance. His future was wide open and there is no guessing what he might have done with his talent for publicity and organization if he had lived.

One afternoon last fall I saw him on his home grounds for the first time. He was brushing up his team before the Army game in Chicago, and as he walked around the gymnasium at South Bend a tall thin kid, one of the students, followed him like a shadow, carrying a big, wide-armed police sergeant's chair. Silently, always in step with the coach but never in the way, the young man matched every move he made and shoved the chair just so, for Knute to sit down if his legs got tired. Sometimes he sat down. Sometimes he moved on, but when he sat down he didn't have to look around. He knew the chair would be there, and the kid who carried it seemed conscious that he was filling a post of honor, easing the strain on Rockne' failing legs

I read that youth has no idols nowadays, but they had one at Notre Dame.

Marines Win 3d in Row, Beating Delaware, 9-1

Special to The Washington Post.

Quantico, Va., April 3.—Delaware College easily fell before the Marines for their third straight win of the baseball season by the score of 9 to 1.

Three hits, an error and three stolen bases sent the Devildogs to a three-run lead in the first inning and from then on the Marines breezed in easily. Sutton, although at times wild, pitched fine baseball and easily held the Collegians in check and but for erratic fielding in the early innings by the Marines the Delaware Team would have been shut out. Solid hitting by Cather, Sullivan and Sutton sent across three more in the fifth and two in the seventh. Galloway, who fielded brilliantly for the visitors, scored in the fourth on three errors by the Marine infield the only score for his side.

Capt. Freeney made one of the finest catches ever seen on the parade grounds, a leaping one-handed catch of a line drive in the seventh inning.

Warren's Home Run Bounces Over Fence to Decide Game.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., April 3. Warren's home run in the eleventh inning, which struck Left Fielder Lewis' glove and bounded over the fence enabled Yale to defeat Virginia here today 9 to 7. Albie Booth was on second base when the Eli shortstop came through with his mighty swat which broke up a hotly-contested game.

The New Haven lads were outhit and outfielded. Brewer, on the mound for the Cavaliers, twirled an excellent game, having 12 strikeouts to his credit. In the last five innings he fanned two an inning.

Newton, Yale's veteran pitcher, was touched freely during his stay on the rubber, being found for 11 hits in 7 innings. His successor, Kies, who got credit for the victory, yielded but 3 hits in 4 frames, the Yale infield giving him splendid support with two fast double plays that stemmed Virginia rallies in the final innings.

Yale Leads Off With 5 Runs.

Yale got off to a good start by scoring five runs in the first frame before Brewer could settle down. The Southerners knotted the count in the seventh and in the next three innings neither side could score.

Bryant, of Virginia, hit a home run and three singles, while McKenzie and Warren led in the Yale attack, the former contributing three hits, one a double and the latter his circuit smash and single.

Virginia's infield played sharply throughout, with Dent and Steinberg starring. Brown, Yale backstop, made two spectacular catches of long fouls by Weaver and Sippley.

STEPS TO RECOVERY MADE BY BUSINESS

Dun's Review Sees Less Unsettlement; Steel Slump Minimized.

New York, April 3 (A.P.).—The weekly trade reviews report that progress is being made toward business recovery although many confusing elements are still apparent.

Dun's Review tomorrow will say:

"Despite the numerous unsatisfactory aspects that still appear, there is concrete evidence of a lessening of unsettlement in various quarters, although complete stability is yet to be attained. Strengthening of the financial and commercial structure, even if not plainly revealed in surface movements, has a deep significance and the forces of rehabilitation should become more prominent and effective with the passing of time.

Steel Recession Slight.

"The developments of the current week, so far as they have indicated any new turn in the situation, have been largely negative. Some emphasis has been placed upon the slight recession in steel output, but it has come only after an uninterrupted rise since the beginning of this year, and a let down now is seasonal.'

Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

"A rather notable ebb and flow movement in trade and industry this week renders hard and fast generalization difficult. Weather conditions, although helpful to agricultural interests, have not been favorable to Easter trade, which has felt the retarding influence of stormy weather, but this line still shows up the best, by far, of the important trade divisions.

Cotton Goods Sag.

"Wholesale and jobbing trade reports have pointed to a sag in taking of cotton goods after the most active month in years. The Easter shoe movement from manufacturers has sagged off and improved soil and crop conditions have had bearish influence upon prices of cereals, which in February saw the smallest foreign takings in years."

Weekly bank clearings of leading cities aggregated $9,941,335,000, a decrease of 24 per cent from a year ago. The total outside of New York was $2,780,249,000, a decrease of 26.6 per cent.

BANK PRESIDENT

EDWARD J. M'QUADE, newly elected president of Liberty National Bank.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, April 3.—The security markets and virtually all of the commodity exchanges were closed today in observance of good Friday. Trading will be resumed tomorrow on the New York Stock and Curb Exchanges and also in silk, hide and grain. Leading European markets, however, will not reopen until next Tuesday. There was some trading in European currencies today but none in the Latin American exchanges because those countries observed the holiday.

The outstanding governmental bond sales next week will be the offering of $34,975,000 of New York State bonds on Tuesday. Sales by 64 communities will total $58,580,000, according to the daily bond buyer. The Province of New Brunswick will receive bids on Wednesday for $5,215,000 of bonds, and Vancouver, B. C., will sell $3,667,000 the following day.

Commercial failures this week showed a sharp decrease, R. G. Dun & Co. report. Defaults numbered 549, a decrease of 105 from the previous week, although 46 in excess of the corresponding week of 1930. Each geographical group shows fewer failures this week than last, but only in the South was the total smaller than last year.

Banquets, speeches and reminiscences will mark the diamond jubilee tomorrow of the Western Union Telegraph Co. Those of its staff with statistical inclinations will recite the length of the company's wires if stretched in a single line or the astronomical heights of its poles if piled end to end. Somebody probably will remark that the company last year transmitted more than 5,000,000 "special occasion" telegrams alone to mark holidays, birthdays and other anniversaries.

Raw silk in storage on April 1 in New York amounted to 47,407 bales compared with 45,399 bales on March 1, the Silk Association of America, Inc., reports. Deliveries to American mills during March, including re-export shipments, amounted to 55,383 bales.

Hartman Corporation reports a loss of $1,868,544 for 1930 compared with a net profit of $1,103,432 for 1929, which was equivalent to $2.46 a share on the class B stock. Current assets as of December 31, 1930, amounted to $11,817,324, and current liabilities were $4,182,142.

The New York security markets, as well as the principal commodity exchanges, were closed today in observance of Good Friday, but the banks were open. Business will be resumed in most of the local markets tomorrow, although in European centers the holiday extends through next Monday.

2 Students Dodge Sleep 100 Hours

University of Georgia Men Are Little Affected by Experiment.

Athens, Ga., Apr. 3. (A.P.).—Two University of Georgia students have just completed insomnia marathons for science's sake. Under an experiment conducted by Dr. A. S. Edwards, head of the university psychology department, Harry Gerofsky, of Trenton, N. J., freshman, and Wendell P. Morris, of Pensacola, Fla., graduate students, remained awake for 100 hours.

Final conclusions have not been completed, Dr. Edwards said today, but preliminary studies showed little change in the condition of the students. Both lost a little weight, were slightly weakened and experienced slight headaches. They had trouble with their eyes and difficulty in mental work.

Conversation and cold water were employed by the two in dodging sleep, Dr. Edwards said. They ate meals and attended classes regularly. Gerofsky drank a little coffee and Morris a great deal.

Court Held in Jail For Injured Pair

Man, Girl Freed on Bond to Face Liquor Charges in Auto Upset.

United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage yesterday held court in the District Jail, because two prisoners were so badly injured they could not be brought before him in his office. The hearing was held so that they might offer bond and be released.

The two, John Titmus and Mary Sheffiette, were injured, police said, when an automobile in which they were riding overturned while police allegedly were pursuing it in Prince Georges County, Wednesday. The car turned over four times and landed on its wheels, police said. In it, they further declare, they found sixteen cases of liquor.

The hearing was held on liquor charges. Attorney Myron Ehrlich had applied for a writ of habeas corpus to free the pair from Gallinger Hospital, whence they were taken after the accident, and upon hearing of this, the police retaliated with definite charges. They were released on $1,000 bond each.

Police Asked to Report On Sanitary Conditions

Anticipating the annual "clean-up week," which begins on April 20, Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, yesterday issued a special order calling the attention of the precinct captains to the sanitary provisions of the police regulations, and asking them to submit reports, April 15, on the condition of their precincts.

The precinct captains were requested to report all insanitary and filthy alleys and streets. Strict enforcement of the regulations forbidding the throwing or depositing of trash or other refuse in any public place was asked.

Traffic Violations Lead Park Arrests

Disregard of Regulations for Vehicles Brings 80 Persons to Grief.

Violation of traffic regulations last month led the list of law infringements in the area over which the United States Park police have jurisdiction, Superintendent of Park Police R. C. Montgomery announced yesterday.

There were 80 such infringements altogether, including 17 charges of fast automobiles, 2 of reckless driving, 1 of driving while intoxicated, and 60 other traffic violation, Superintendent Montgomery announced.

Those arrested for drunkenness in the parks number 34 yesterday, he reported. There were two cases of disorderly conduct, 2 of assault, 2 of petty larceny and 1 attempted larceny. Forty automobile accidents were reported and 22 sick or injured persons were sent to hospitals. Four lost children were returned to their parents.

Jewel Tea Sales Drop.

Chicago, April 3 (A.P.).—The Jewel Tea Co. reported sales totaling $1,901,724 for the four weeks ended March 21, compared with $1,284,886 a year ago, a decrease of 15.03 per cent. The number of sales routes averaged 1,288, against 1,224 last year. For the first twelve weeks of 1931 sales were $3,265,990, against $3,693,872 a year ago, a decline of 11.58 per cent.

U. S. LEADS WORLD IN SALES TO RUSSIA

Shipments of Machinery for Farms Are Increased by 50 Per Cent.

(Associated Press.)

The United States led the world in the value of its sales to Soviet Russia in the fiscal year 1929-30.

The Russian section of the Commerce Department yesterday fixed the value of American exports to Russia at $149,222,371, most of which was industrial and farm machinery for the five-year economic plan. Germany ranked second in sales and England third.

The Russians sold $31,017,050 worth of goods in this country, chiefly lumber, including pulpwood, which recently was barred on the ground that it had been produced by convict labor, coal, matches and similar products.

Shipments of industrial equipment from the United States totaled $46,049,487, or about 50 per cent more than in the previous year. Agricultural machinery and supplies for Russian collective farms totaled $71,119,489, of which $64,027,489 was for tractors. The sale of tractors was approximately three times as large as in the previous year. Many combines used for wheat harvesting also were exported.

Cotton was the chief raw material purchased by Russia, but the value of this showed a heavy drop. The total was $16,437,326 as compared with $31,161,000 last year.

Heavy increases were shown in the purchases of paints and dyes and nonferrous metals, while sheepskin, industrial cloth and special steels appeared among the exports for the first time. Small increases were noted in power plant, automotive and transport equipment.

Russia bought $120,570,000 worth of goods from Germany and sold her $110,536,000 worth. England sold $74,819,700 worth and bought $48,174,473 worth of Russian goods.

Accusers Defied By Commissioners

Holland Refuses to Oust Girl Charged With Visiting Speakeasy.

Newark, N. J., April 3 (A.P.).—The question whether a girl stenographer in the office of Federal Commissioner Joseph F. Holland did or did not visit a speakeasy agitated Government circles here today.

Lewis J. Tutt, deputy prohibition administrator for this State, said no more prohibition cases would be taken before Holland unless he discharged the stenographer. Holland refused to discharge her, saying he had no proof she visited the resort.

John D. Pennington, prohibition administrator for the third district, charged the girl and two prohibition agents visited a speakeasy without being assigned to do so and without making a report. The agents have been transferred to other States, Mr. Tutt said.

Julian, Oil Officer, Held as Kidnaper

Accused, With Aid, of an Attempt to Extort $50,000 Ransom.

Laredo, Tex., April 3 (A.P.).—Charges of kidnaping and assault with intent to rob tonight faced C. C. Julian, Oklahoma and California oil operator, in connection with an alleged attempt to extort $50,000 from L. S. Bolling, San Antonio business man.

Julian was charged jointly with C. C. Boren in a complaint filed in justice court. Homer T. Sealey, of Laredo, State highway patrolman who yesterday intervened in Bolling's behalf in a hotel lobby here, arrested Julian and Boren and allegedly wrested a sawed-off revolver from Julian's hand.

Bolling told police two men entered his hotel room and, after demanding $50,000, packed his clothes and were attempting to check out at the hotel clerk's desk when Bolling kicked Patrolman Sealy on the ankle to apprise him that something was amiss. An examining trial set for today was delayed. The Webb County grand jury is expected to investigate the case tomorrow.

Borland Law Repaving Assessments Set Aside

The old Borland law, as it applied to the assessment of costs for repairing streets, sustained another blow yesterday when Justice Jennings Bailey set aside assessments made against the property of Ida M. Miller and others in a northeast area.

The area, R. S. Seaton and Randolph streets, between Second and Third streets northeast, was recently repaved and the costs allocated against property owners. The court found that the streets were used by heavy trucks to a great exent, and that the entire costs would be confiscatory if property owners adjacent to the improvement had to bear all the cost. Attorneys William Cogger and Philip F. Biggins represented the property owners.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

ALEXANDRIA BELLS TO TOLL FOR JONES

Funeral for Civic Leader This Afternoon Will Be at Residence.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The funeral of Robert Simpson Jones, former mayor and councilman of Alexandria, who died Thursday night, will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon from his late residence, 108 Rosemont avenue. Service will be conducted by the Rev. William Jackson Morton, D. D., rector of Christ Episcopal Church. The fire bells of the city will be tolled during the service, and members of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, of which he was a former president, will attend, as well as members of numerous other organizations with which he was prominently connected.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Collins Peeks; a brother, Joseph L. Jones, of Philadelphia, and a sister, Mrs. Charles H. Culin, also of Philadelphia.

Mr. Jones was born in Philadelphia August 20, 1859, and came to Alexandria 45 years ago to accept employment with C. C. Smoot & Sons, tanners, being connected with that firm until it went out of business a few years ago. He was actively identified with every civic movement in Alexandria, and was particularly beloved for his many works of charity.

At the time of his death he was president of the Alexandria United Charities, chairman of the local chapter of the American Red Cross, president of the board of directors of the Alexandria Hospital, president of the Alexandria Trust & Mortgage Corporation and of the Alexandria Building & Loan Association, former president and member of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce, was chairman of the committee of citizens responsible for the acquisition of historic Gadsby's Tavern as a home for the local American Legion post, was a diligent worker for the various liberty loans during the World War, and a member of the Belle Haven Country Club.

He was a generous contributor to every charitable purpose, and every every charitable purpose, and ever ready to extend a helping hand to any person in need.

For eight years Mr. Jones was a member of the city council, having been elected when the council-manager form of government was adopted, in 1922. From March 11 until September 1, 1930, he was mayor of Alexandria, succeeding William Albert Smoot, resigned, but Mr. Jones declined to be a candidate for reelection owing to the condition of his health, which had become seriously affected. About a month ago his condition became so much worse that he was unable to leave his bed. The end was not unexpected, but nevertheless came as a shock to his host of friends in Alexandria.

Dr. Robert South Barrett, chairman of the good of the order committee of the National Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, has been presented with a silver bowl by Richmond Lodge of Elks, a copy of a bowl belonging to Farish Church of King's Hampton, North Devon, England, which was used as an alms basin by the church.

It bears the following inscription: "Presented by Richmond Lodge, No. 45, B. P. O. E., to Robert S. Barrett, chairman good of order committee of the grand lodge in appreciation of his good will and services."

The presentation was made because Dr. Barrett was largely responsible for the initiation of a class of 187 candidates into the Richmond Lodge last Tuesday night, when the grand exalted ruler, Lawrence H. Ruff, was present and took part in the ceremony. The presentation speech was made by Attorney General Saunders.

It was stated yesterday that a petition bearing the signatures of seventeen graduate nurses of the Alexandria Hospital has been sent to Mrs. S. Cooper Dawson, president of the Board of Lady Managers of that institution, seeking certain changes in the rules of the hospital, particularly the keeping of a nurses' register. Mrs. Dawson stated she had advised the nurses to send a committee to the meeting of the board next Thursday morning.

The Rev. Dr. W. S. Abernathy, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, Washington, was the preacher at Good Friday Union Service yesterday noon in the Richmond Theater. The Rev. Pierce S. Ellis, pastor of the First Baptist Church, president of the Ministerial Association, presided at the meeting.

Other Alexandria ministers present were the Rev. Dr. D. L. Snyder, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church South; the Rev. C. M. Compher, pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church; the Rev. John S. Sowers, pastor of the Del Ray Baptist Church; the Rev. L. H. Hout, pastor of the Del Ray Methodist Church; the Rev. H. B. Brenner, of the Free Methodist Church; the Rev. E. R. Spencer, of the Trinity Methodist Church, and the Rev. William McDougall. A vocal solo was sung by Mrs. Evelyn Howard Sheridan.

The committee in charge of raising funds for an ambulance for the Potomac Fire Department has announced raising one-half of the needed amount, $1,500, and hopes to raise the additional $1,500 before the last of April, when the drive is supposed to end. Headquarters for solicitors has been opened at 715 King street, the building being loaned by Harley P. Wilson, of Hollin Hall.

Commander Sidney Weil, of Alexandria Post, No. 24, American Legion, at the meeting last night announced that the membership of that post is now 525, the largest in the State and 100 more than the Richmond Post, the next largest, also 116 more than Alexandria has ever had before. This means that the membership of Alexandria Post has been doubled in one month, at at the March meeting less then 300 had paid dues for the year.

Last night a class of 50 was initiated by the degree team, led by Herman Lemon. Stuart Walcott Post, of Washington, was guest at the meeting, with a large delegation present.

The May meeting will be held in Armory Hall, to initiate a big class from Fort Humphreys.

SUNDAY BILL VOTED IN MARYLAND HOUSE

Senate Amendments Adopted, Legislature Attacks Mass of Measures.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., April 3.—The House of Delegates today lost no time in concurring in the amended Michel bill, passed by the Senate, which gives to the mayor and city council of Baltimore power to adopt ordinances regulating Sunday moving pictures, other Sunday amusements and merchandise sales, subject, however, to a referendum of the voters of the city.

Gov. Ritchie promptly announced that he would sign the act. His approval had been expected.

Speaker Francis A. Michel of the House was the sponsor of the original antiblue law modification plan, but his proposal, carrying State-wide provisions, was passed by the Senate only after Senator Ridgely P. Melvin, Anne Arundel, presented an amendment that placed the measure in an entirely new dress.

Sunday Baseball Wins.

With this knotty problem out of the way, both the Senate and House proceeded to wade through a jam of bills on the third reading files and others in committee and the "railroading" process was applied to measures of a purely local nature, and to which no objections had been raised.

Something of a flurry was caused in the Senate, however, on another antiblue law proposition. This was the bill by the Washington County delegation in the House to liberalize the Sunday laws to the extent of permitting Sunday baseball in Washington County between the hours of 2 and 5 p. m. The bill originally was drafted to include football, basket ball and other sports and was county-wide in scope, but these provisions were stricken out before passage by the House.

The Senate added another amendment to increase the penalty for violation from $5 to $100. This was agreeable to Senator Byron, of Washington County, who succeeded in having the measure passed under suspension of rules, thereby preventing the measure from being lost in the closing rush of the session Monday.

The Senate rang the death knell of the bill proposing to place Negro public school teachers on the same salary basis as the white teachers. This proposal, sponsored by Delegate Williams, St. Marys County, had passed the House. Senator Dudley Rose, Queen Annes County, and others objected and the Senate committee decided to smother the measure without even making a report.

Pay Increase Up Again.

For the fourth time in a dozen years the people will pass upon a constitutional amendment to increase the pay of assemblymen, the Senate having approved the bill by Delegate Nicodemus, Frederick County, which carries such provisions. The proposal has been defeated at previous referendums, a fate shared by most Maryland constitutional amendments. The Nicodemus bill would increase the per diem of senators and delegates from $5 to $10, with $5 additional for presiding officers. A provision to reduce the legislative session from 90 to 60 days contained in the original draft, was stricken out.

The House advanced to third reading the bills fixing the State tax rate at 25 cents, and deferring the general assesment until 1937. In the ordinary course a reassessment is due next year.

Other actions in the day's routine included the following: The Senate gave a favorable report to the House bills authorizing a bond issue of $100,000 for an addition and equipment to the courthouse at Rockville, the bill to increase the pay of the court stenographer for Prince Georges County from $10 to $15 per day, extending the boundary limits of Mount Rainier, and authorizing the Maryland National Park and Planning Commission to formulate a building code, and the bill providing a special tax levy for improvements.

Action By House.

The House passed the bill authorizing the regents of University of Maryland to acquire land for a hospital, also the measure empowering the Montgomery County Commissioners to dispose of certain lands in Rockville and Silver Spring.

The House adopted favorable committee reports on the following Senate bills: Extending Montgomery County suburban district; authorizing $1,000 annual levy by Montgomery County Commissioners for Battery Park community house; exempting Montgomery County from State school janitor law; permitting Washington suburban sanitary commission to serve water to charitable institutions; authorizing Montgomery County Commissioners to condemn car tracks on Wisconsin avenue.

That the bill to exempt the Washington, Baltimore and Annapolic Electric Railroad, now in receivership, from taxation for two years, is assured of passage by the House was indicated tonight when that body approved a favorable committee report. The Anne Arundel County delegation made an unsuccessful effort to exempt Annapolis and the county from the provisions. The measure was then sent along to the third reading file. The bill has already passed the Senate.

Wife Held in Slaying Of Restaurant Keeper

Special to The Washington Post.

Beckley, W. Va., April 3 (A.P.).—Charged with slaying her husband, Mrs. Rosalie Brafford, 28, of Ury, near here, was in the Raleigh County Jail today awaiting a preliminary hearing.

The husband, Bert Brafford, 29, a restaurant keeper, was shot in his restaurant at Ury last night and died on the way to a Beckley hospital. Mrs. Brafford told officers that the shooting culminated a series of quarrels and that she had fired only after Brafford had threatened her.

Features in Tomorrow's Post

Managua's death-wreaking earthquake brings vividly to mind the powerful influence the seismic disturbances produce on man-made devices. In an absorbing article in The Post tomorrow, David Rankin Barbee tells how earthquakes play havoc in instigating slides in the Panama Canal and the danger for the proposed Nicaraguan Canal.

A gigantic map is in the process of construction. Not a mountain, hill, or stream in the United States will be omitted. Read this story in the tabloid magazine of tomorrow's Post.

"Let's Follow the Trail of the Blossom" is the title of another article describing the advent of spring as the occasion for floral festivities in various sections.

Has the "new freedom" of women touched the senoras and senoritas south of the Rio Grande? Legally, yes; but actually, only very slightly. In various spheres, however, the Mexican woman of today has a far wider horizon than her sisters of a generation ago. Here's another story of real interest.

Beginning tomorrow, The Post will start running on successive Sundays the sixteen best fiction stories of the year. The initial number is "Wilson Memorial," by Ruth Gordon.

"Word Shadows of Witchcraft," "The Perilous City," and various other features combine to make tomorrow's Post an unusually entertaining publication.

MANY AFTER POLICE CHIEF APPOINTMENT

Prince Georges Job Thought Likely to Go to Former Sheriff or Deputy.

Speculation as to who will be selected by the Prince Georges County commissioners to fill the post of chief of police under the new police law continues to be one of the main topics of conversation where men gather in the name of politics.

Of the three names most often mentioned for the post, that of Charles S. Early, former sheriff, seems to have the inside edge. Others which are mentioned are A. W. Hepburn, chief deputy under Sheriff Early, and H. G. Machen, sergeant on the present force. All these are Democrats.

Mr. Hepburn, it is understood, has already applied to the commissioners for the post, and it is rumored that some arrangement has been reached. Hepburn, who lives in Mount Rainier, is said to have the backing of important political powers in the north end of the county.

It may be that these powers, while not able to secure for their nominee the chieftainship, will be able to swing him into place as lieutenant, the post he occupied before. Such compromises dot the political history of the county, and are said to have had a hand in the selection of the Democratic nominee last fall.

Machen is also from the north end of the county, being a resident of Hyattsville. He is very popular among his fellow townsmen, one of the Hyattsville weekly papers having already proposed him for the chief post.

Under the new law the commissioners will select the members of the force from their own list of names. Under the old law the sheriff was also chief, and was elected. He selected his lieutenant and nominated a number of other men to serve as policemen. From this list of names the commissioners would select four.

The present board of commissioners consists of three Democrats and two Republicans, so that it is very unlikely that a Republican will be selected to act as chief. There are, however, at least two Republicans who would like the job. They are Tom Garrison, present chief deputy, and E. S. Aldridge, chief of police of Riverdale.

Quick solution of the recent hold-up in Laurel, in which one robber shot himself when cornered, is due largely to Garrison's efforts. With Albert Anderson, chief of police of Hyattsville, Garrison captured three yeggs in the act of opening a safe in that town.

These are not, by any means, the only candidates for the place. While the commissioners are silent in police matters, it is rumored that nearly 40 applications for various places on the force have been received. Which of these will have the cap with the gold badge after June 1 remains to be seen.

Defense Witnesses Hint at Sours Alibi

Mountain Man Charged With Murder Was Elsewhere, Family Says.

Luray, Va., April 3 (A.P.).—Several defense witnesses, most of them members of his family, testified today as to actions of David Sours just preceding the death of Edward Buracker, for whose murder Sours is on trial.

The body of Buracker was found on March 6 and testimony offered yesterday was that bloodhounds followed a trail from near the scene of the slaying to Sours' home. Other witnesses for the prosecution testified that Sours had made threats against Buracker.

An attempt to establish an alibi was seen in statements of defense witnesses today that Sours was elsewhere at the time the other man apparently came to his death. Trial will be resumed tomorrow morning, but indications are that it will not be completed until some time next week.

VIRGINIA FEARS LOSS OF FARM LOAN FUND

Money Allocated to State May Go Elsewhere if Applications Are Few.

Richmond, Va., April 3 (A.P.).—Speedy organization and financing of farm loan corporations in Virginia was urged today in a letter received by Julien H. Hill, president of the State Planters Bank & Trust Co. here and chairman of the Virginia Farm Loan Advisory Committee named by the United States Department of Agriculture.

The letter was signed by Lewis T. Tune, chairman of the National Advisory Committee, and pointed out that to date Virginia had failed to take advantage of the funds offered by the Federal Government to assist in financing the farmers.

The Virginia committee has been asked to file a report by April 15, giving the number of individual applications which have been made, the amount of loans requested, the approximate date the application will be acted upon by the local body and the approximate time still needed for the completion of the work.

Inquiries which have been received by the committee thus far have been few, and the committee has ascertained that there are only two farm land loan corporations operating in the State at the present. The committee, which is composed of Mr. Hill, Maj. LeRoy Hodges, managing director of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce, and Col. Robert H. Angell, of Roanoke, has expressed surprise at the slowness with which the banks and other agencies which might be expected to avail themselves of the Federal funds, now available, are making inquiries about obtaining this financial assistance.

Advantages Are Overlooked.

Virginians, the committeemen said today, are not aware of the advantages which they are overlooking. The committee urged immediate application and inquiry.

Both Maj. Hodges and Mr. Hill were of the opinion that unless Virginia makes its applications soon, some of the funds allocated to the State may be transferred to States where requests for loans have been made in excess of the Federal allocations.

Blacksburg, Va., April 3 (A.P.).—John R. Hutcheson, director of the V. P. I. extension division, said today that the farmers' "intentions to plant" report issued by the Department of Agriculture at the end of March indicates that Virginia farmers have profited by the outlook information given them earlier in the year and are now planning to devote their energies to the production of such crops as offer the greatest opportunity for profitable returns.

Report Is Nation-Wide.

The report was made up from information gathered from 43,000 farmers in all parts of the United States.

The outlook reports given to the farmers early in the year by the extension division and the Bureau of Agricultural Economics indicated that there was grave danger of overproduction of both flue cured tobacco and Irish potatoes during 1931.

It is gratifying to note from the report that Virginia farmers are now planning to decrease the acreage planted to both of these groups, Mr. Hutcheson said. "If these intentions are carried out," he said, "Virginia growers will plant 1 per cent fewer acres to Irish potatoes and 13 per cent fewer acres to tobacco in 1931 than they planted to these crops in 1930."

Lynchburg Man Found Dead of Asphyxiation

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., April 3.—Herbert H. Gregory, 23, was found dead on the floor of the bathroom of his home this morning about 7 o'clock, death resulting from gas escaping from a heating stove. Dr. Burton Nowlin, city coroner, gave a certificate of death by accidental asphyxiation. He graduated in the class of 1928 at V. M. I. and was a member of Memorial Methodist Church and Company B, 116th Infantry.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. May V. Gregory; two brothers, James and Harry, Lynchburg, and two sisters, Miss Emma Gregory, Lynchburg, and Mrs. E. H. Ashbaugh, Richmond.

Daughter, 16, Accuses Her Father in Court

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., April 3.—Ruby Edwards, 16-year-old daughter, appeared as the chief witness against her father, Wyatt Edwards, 43, at a preliminary hearing before Juvenile Judge Charles R. Warren at Schoolfield this afternoon. He is charged with a major offense. She was cross-examined by the defendant's attorney, but was not shaken on material points. Defense testimony was not taken, owing to the absence of two witnesses, and decision was reserved until next Friday, when the case will be continued.

The girl ran away from home two weeks ago. A few days ago she appeared here and filed a complaint against her father, whose arrest then took place.

MONTGOMERY PLANS MORE OFFICE SPACE

County Considers Selling Building or Adding Story to Present Structure.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post.
9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md.
Telephone Wisconsin 4206.

Sale of the present Montgomery County Building at Silver Spring and construction of a larger one is being considered by the Montgomery County Commissioners.

The building is too cramped for efficient work at present, and an enlargement of space must be provided in some manner. The county fathers also are considering the construction of a second story to the present one-story building, which will necessitate the purchase of a strip of land 8 feet wide along the side of the building, at a cost of about $5,000, and construction costs of about $25,000.

The proposal to sell the county building and purchase another site was brought out at a meeting of the Silver Spring branch of the Montgomery Government Club more than a week ago. At that time the county voter delegates decided that it would be the part of economy to sell the old building and build on another site.

It is believed that the present building can be sold for approximately $25,000, to which can be added the sum of $25,000, which has been authorized in the same bill that provides for the expenditure of $75,000 for courthouse furniture and landscaping. Another bill has been introduced by Senator Robert G. Hilton, which provides for the appropriation of $75,000 for the purchase of another site.

It is not directed that these provisions be carried out, but the county commissioners are empowered to do so if they wish. It is probable that the matter will be discussed at the next meeting of the County Board of Commissioners, who have so far taken no formal action in the matter.

County leaders believe, however, that the addition of a second story to the present building will be a waste of money, inasmuch as the maximum quarters that can be provided at the end of five years would be just as cramped as the present building. Sale of the present building, for which several prospective purchasers have been found, is looked upon as the true solution of the problem.

While employed at the widening of the Burnt Mill bridge on the Colesville pike, near the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission pumping plant yesterday, Guy Williams, colored, 62 years old, of Harmony, Md., was struck and knocked down by the auto of G. Rust Canby, of Silver Spring. The car ran over Williams' foot and crushed it. He was taken to the office of Dr. C. W. Mitchell in Silver Spring for treatment. No arrest was made by county police.

A final decree of absolute divorce was granted Mrs. Lelia Shenk Johnson, of Takoma Park, Md., yesterday in circuit court at Rockville by Judge Robert B. Peter. The wife also was awarded the custody of the minor child. Through Attorney Milton Whitney, jr., of Takoma Park, the wife alleged that Harry L. Johnson, of Catlett, Va., to whom she was married July 12, 1927, at Rockville, Md., had deserted her and their child.

Installation of four additional police call boxes for the Bethesda district, and change in the location of one of those already installed, is provided in an agreement between officials of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. and County Commissioner Robert D. Hagner, in charge of the district. The box now at Connecticut avenue and Bradley Lane will be moved to Bradley Lane and Brookeville road.

The new boxes will be located at Wilson lane and Bradley boulevard; Wilson lane and River road; Grosvenor lane and old Georgetown road, and Rockville pike and Garrett Park road. The boxes will be provided with signal lights so that patrolmen can be called to the substation in case of emergency.

Members of the Progressive or anti-organization Democratic faction have decided not to avail themselves of the offer of membership in the county congress of the Montgomery Government Club, it was made known yesterday. Antileaders decided that inasmuch as the voters of the county had placed the management of the county in the hands of the organization faction Democrats, took the view that the organization should alone stand responsible for what is done in the next three and a half years. The antileaders feel, that inasmuch as the county will be governed to a large extent by the Legislature, which they opposed in the campaign and election, that their participation could do little good.

The invitation had been extended in order that the members of the antiorganization faction could have some say in the management of affairs in the coluruse of the present administration, Maj. E. Brooke Lee, president of the County Congress of the Montgomery Government Club, declared.

Membership in the reorganized Cabin John Park Volunteer Fire Department will be extended to any citizen of the area affected by the proposed fire taxnig area, it was decided at a meeting of the department Thursday night. The only exception is A. A. Potter, former president of the body, whom it was voted to refuse membership. No reason was given for his exclusion.

The new by-laws provide that any person otherwise eligible for membership can be excluded by a majority vote of the members present. Earl Sullivan, Francis Day and Charles Shuff were elected a membership committee to pass on the eligibility of all incoming members. The department decided to order 50 new badges and 50 new tags for automobiles of members and to consider the possibilities of forming a woman's auxiliary.

Election of a new president to succeed O. P. M. Brown, who has tendered his resignation, will be the chief business of a special meeting of the Bethesda fire board, which will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the Bethesda Fire Building. Walter Bogley, vice president, will preside. Mr. Brown presented his resignation at a recent meeting, but as there was no quorum present, acceptance was postponed until tonight. The retiring president said that he is out of harmony with the policy of the department.

E. Lee LeCompte, State game warden, again has brought to the attention of the general public the law relative to dogs running at large and pursuing game, which is detrimental to the game supply, especially rabbits, in the propagating season. Dogs should be kept on the leash or confined from March 1 to September 1.

Fines of $25 to $100 and additional fines of $5 for each rabbit or game bird killed by a loose dog are provided in the law, Mr. LeCompte warned. Deputy game wardens have been instructed to strictly enforce the act.

Man Under Arrest Held Cessna Killer

Authorities Say Prisoner Is Unable to Account for Movements.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., April 3.—Following further questioning today, State's Attorney William A. Huster, County Investigator Torrence J. Boyle and Detective William J. Cubbage, expressed the belief that in the arrest of William R. Dayton, 44-year-old celanese plant worker, they have the man responsible for the slaying of John K. Cessna, found beaten to death in his home on Charles street Tuesday evening. Robbery is given as the motive for the slaying.

Dayton, who resides on Bedford street with his wife and five children, has been unnerved by the grilling, it was stated. The authorities say he can not satisfactorily account for his movements during the hours fixed as the period in which the divorced 63-year-old former railroader, found with his head battered in, must have been killed.

Dayton's arrest resulted in the release of Mrs. Lottie Miller, middle-aged widow, friend and employe of the dead man, and her son, Guy Miller, who had been held because of alleged inconsistent statements. Mrs. Miller and another son, John M. Miller, found the body.

High Waters May Save Fish by Clearing Stream

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., April 3.—Higher waters are washing out large quantities of moss and other plant growth in the Shenandoah River, which caused the death of hundreds of fish in that stream the last week. Sportsmen who sent a large black bass to the United States Bureau of Fisheries in Washington for examination received a report from H. S. Davis, investigator, that the fish had died as a result of parasitic worms due to fungus growths.

It was said the condition was no doubt due to the abnormally low stage of the river. Since over an inch of rain fell this week the river has risen to the highest point in a year, and most of the foreign growth has been washed out.

LECTURE IN FAIRFAX IS TO AID CONTEST

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

County Agricultural Agent H. B. Derr has announced that there will be an illustrated lecture this evening on the Fairfax County yard and garden contest, which recently was started. The lecture will be held in the Fairfax County courthouse at 7:30 o'clock. Colored slides will illustrate improvements that are made possible by the proper landscaping of the home yard and grounds. The movement is sponsored by the Garden committee of the George Washington bicentennial commission and the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce, which is endeavoring to improve the natural beauties of the community before the Bicentennial celebration next year when thousands of tourists will visit the historical places in Fairfax County. The public has been invited to the lecture. Lectures will be given next Tuesday evening in the auditorium of the Herndon High School, Wednesday evening in the Annandale school and Thursday evening in the Floris school.

At a recent quarterly conference of the Methodist Episcopal Churches of Fairfax County, no definite action was taken in regard to the reorganization of the county churches as proposed by former District Superintendent J. Phelps Hand. Dr. B. W. Meeks, the present superintendent, who presided, outlined three possible courses. The first, to combine the Falls Church, Vienna and Wiehle Churches in one circuit and Oakton, Herndon, Smith's Chapel and Brown's Chapel in another centering at Oakton. The second to combine Vienna, Falls Church and Oakton in one circuit, leaving Herndon, Brown's Chapel, Smith's Chapel and the Wiehle for the second circuit. The third plan was to leave the organization as at present with Falls Church an independent station and to have two circuits with Oakton, Vienna and Wiehle in one circuit and Herndon, Smiths Chapel and Browns Chapel in the other. The preference of the congregations seemed to be for continuation of the present arrangement. According to the Rev. Ralph Wott of Vienna-Oakton charge, it seems probable that the circuits will remain as at present with a possible adjustment of financial problems. Members of the Crossman Methodist Episcopal Church at Falls Church voted unanimously to remain as an independent station, with a full time pastor and not to accept a place on a circuit.

Members of the Fairfax Hunt Club, at Sunset Hills, Va., will hold a paper hunt this afternoon, starting from the home of Stewart Preece at 3 o'clock. Luncheon will be served following the hunt at the home of Mr. Preece, which is located on the Lee highwya, just west of Merrifield.

Lloyd, of the Baptist church, and the Rev. R. A. Bergdoll, of the Methodist church, all of McLean. There will be no afternoon service at Lewinsville.

The Easter dance given under the auspices of the Colvin Run Community League will be held this evening in the old Colvin Run Schoolhouse.
